Conferences Are Adjourned to Allow Both Commissions to Consult on Concessions.

HOPE TO AGREE TUESDAY

In the Meantime Neither Side Will Accept the Other's Offer on the Rate of Interest.

BRUSSELS PRESS CRITICAL

Ministers Refrain From Any Comment After Receiving Report From Washington.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 14.—The Belgian and American Debt Commissions failed to reach an agreement at a brief meeting held this morning and further negotiations were put off until Tuesday afternoon. In the meantime the Belgian Cabinet will have an opportunity to study the reports which have been transmitted by the Belgian commissioners and it is hoped that definite instructions will be forwarded early next week.

Because of this delay Secretary Mellon and Senator Smoot of the American commission decided last night to confer with President Coolidge at Plymouth during the week-end and hurriedly made arrangements for the trip. Secretary Mellon had planned to visit President Coolidge later at White Court, to go over matters pertaining to tax reductions. With the change of plans both tax reduction and the debt funding problem will be taken up at this time.

Treasury officials indicated today that while an agreement on debt funding had not been reached, a number of obstacles had been overcome, and they continued to maintain an optimistic viewpoint. Belgium has agreed to fund both the pre-armistice and post-armistice debts without demanding that the United States accept German bonds for any portion of the total. The American commission, on the other hand, has consented to a moratorium on interest and to interest rates somewhat lower than those contained in the British-American settlement. But apparently the Belgian commission is not yet prepared to accept, as within the country's ability to pay, the interest rates which the American commission considers fair.

At the opening of negotiations here it was understood that Belgium sought to have the United States cancel all of the accrued interest on her debt of $480,000,000, but this was unacceptable to the American commissioners. The next effort was to reach an agreement on a reduction of the rate covering accrued interest, which would sharply cut down this item of the debt. An offer has been made by the American commission and one of the points to be determined is whether this finally will be accepted by the Belgians, or an even greater concession demanded.

Interest Rate Still Undecided.

The same question remains to be answered regarding interest rates to be paid from the time of the funding of the debt. The American commission again has offered to consider rates lower than those in the British-American compact, but the Belgian commission, it is understood, does not feel that it is in a position to accept the terms unless favorable advices are received from the Brussels Cabinet.

As yet such consent has not come, but it is hoped that there will be much clearer understanding when the commissions get together again on Tuesday.

The American proposal, in some detail, will be placed before President Coolidge by Secretary Mellon and Senator Smoot, along with the arguments which the Belgian commissioners have made for even more lenient terms, and his opinion obtained as to the extremes of the concessions to which the American commission should agree. The commission feels that it is of vital importance that the President's approval be obtained in advance, if great concessions are to be made, as the whole matter will have to come before Congress for approval in the event an agreement is reached.

Political conditions at home have made the task of the Belgian commissioners an extremely delicate one, as there is danger of the present Government being overthrown if it enters into a tentative agreement which meets strong opposition in the legislative branches of the Government.

Belgian Cabinet Hears Reports.

BRUSSELS, Aug. 14 (AP).—Cable dispatches from Washington indicating that the negotiations between Belgium and the United States looking to a settlement of the Belgian debt would be resumed, were read to the Cabinet today by M. Vandervelde, the Foreign Minister, after the Cabinet had taken cognisance of the notes exchanged among Great Britain, France and Belgium relative to the proposed security compact.

The Ministers are refusing to make any statement with regard to the Washington conference. King Albert is following the trend of affairs on the debt question with the closest interest.

In an editorial article today on the debt situation the Nation Belge says that when it was a question of making Germany pay, the United States insisted upon important reductions being made by the Allies, but when American debts were in question she exacted payment in full.

The Vingtieme Siecle says it finds no room for astonishment over the situation in Washington, having always said that the United States would demand full payment.

The Independence Belge says that the

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Aug. 14 (AP).—By the will of Dorothy Quincy Trowbridge Hager, filed in Probate Court here today, the bulk of a trust fund valued at $1,000,000, over which Mrs. Hager was left power by her father, E. Hayes Trowbridge of this city, is to be placed in trust so that the income may be used by Robert Hager Jr. of New York, from whom she was divorced, during his lifetime. At his death the principal is to go to their daughter, Dorothy Quincy Hager.

Several legacies of $5,000 each are provided for, and $100,000 is set aside in trust, the income to be used for the education of the daughter, who will receive the principal when she becomes 21 years old. All the rest and residue of the estate or trust fund is placed in trust for her divorced husband.

COOLIDGE RETURNS TO OLD HOMESTEAD

GREETED BY AGED FATHER

Visit Son and Relatives on Way, and Plan to Remain Until Wednesday.

Special to The New York Times.

PLYMOUTH, Vt., Aug. 14.—President and Mrs. Coolidge are resting tonight in the home of Colonel John Coolidge, the President's aged father. They made the trip of 170 miles today by motor from the Summer White House at Swampscott, Mass., and expect to remain three or four days.

The trip was made through a misty rain, which turned into a hard storm near Fitchburg, Mass. As the Coolidge party turned into the winding road beyond Ludlow the sun came out, brightening the trees and accentuating the beauty of the foothills of the Green Mountains, after the party had driven for almost seven hours in gloomy weather through Massachusetts, New Hampshire and Vermont.

Colonel Coolidge awaited the arrival of his son seated in a hammock on the porch of his home. Two hundred neighbors and tourists had gathered between the Coolidge house and the Plymouth Church.

As the President's car stopped Colonel Coolidge walked slowly from the plazza and greeted the occupants affectionately. The President shook hands with his father and Mrs. Coolidge kissed the Colonel.

Father and Son Exchange Greetings.

"Hello, father; so glad to see you looking so well," the President exclaimed.

"Well, Cal, I am glad to see you and Grace," returned Colonel Coolidge.

The President and Mrs. Coolidge lingered on the lawn for a few minutes, while photographers and movie operators took pictures of the home-coming.

While Colonel Coolidge appeared to have regained some of his strength since his recent operation, he showed the effects of his illness. He was not so cheerful as before. His step is less elastic than when he attended the inauguration last March, and he has lost weight, but he told his son he was "feeling fine."

Major James F. Coupal, the White House physician, made an examination of Colonel Coolidge and declared he was satisfied with the Colonel's progress since a month ago. While the examination was being made the President walked about the homestead and inspected the shingles piled by his son John and the asbestos roof which has replaced the shingled roof, the work on which had been interrupted by his father's illness.

The President and Mrs. Coolidge were driven later to the cemetery, where they visited the Coolidge lot and the grave of Calvin Coolidge Jr., whose death occurred a year ago last month. Every week since then Mrs. Coolidge has sent flowers to be placed on the grave, and fresh flowers, which she had provided, were put there before her arrival today by Colonel Coolidge's nurse.

Mrs. Coolidge Works in Kitchen.

After the visit to the cemetery, Mr. and Mrs. Coolidge walked about the familiar scenes in the neighborhood of the old farm and chatted with neighbors. Just before supper time Mrs. Coolidge went into the kitchen to help Aunt Aurora Pierce, the housekeeper, prepare the meal. Knowing that his son enjoys beefsteak, Colonel Coolidge had a big juicy portion for him.

The President and his party, including

HUSBAND AT HIS OFFICE

END CAME UNEXPECTEDLY

Indigestion Given as Indirect Cause of Death—News Causes Widespread Sorrow.

Mrs. J. P. Morgan, wife of the banker, died at noon yesterday in her home near Glen Cove, L. I. She had been ill two months, suffering from lethargic encephalitis, a form of sleeping sickness. The immediate cause of death was a heart collapse induced by an attack of indigestion last Tuesday.

Mr. Morgan was at his office in Manhattan when the end came. He reached the Glen Cove home three hours later. Only a nurse was at the bedside when the sleep, into which Mrs. Morgan passed soon after the illness developed in church on June 14, became eternal. She had been in a continuous coma for more than nine weeks, and had been fed artificially.

Two sons and a son-in-law of Mrs. Morgan were off New London, Conn., aboard the Morgan yacht Corsair when she died. When she was first taken ill her husband was on the Corsair cruising in Long Island Sound. He was summoned back by wireless and yesterday Junius Spencer Morgan, Henry Sturgis Morgan and George Nichols were called back to Glen Cove by a radio message to the yacht.

The death of Mrs. Morgan was unexpected. Although unconscious and weak she had fought bravely against the strange malady and apparently had begun to win out. Hope that she would eventually regain her health which began to stimulate her five physicians and five nurses two days after she was stricken had almost reached a certainty recently. In the last week Mrs. Morgan had made marked progress, administration of dextrose proving efficacious but on Tuesday, her digestion weakened. Her heart, reported never to have been robust, finally failed under the long strain.

Causes Widespread Sorrow.

Beyond a short announcement of the death, issued at the office of J. P. Morgan & Co., Broad and Wall Streets, four hours later, no formal statement was made. It was indicated that arrangements for the funeral will be made public in a short time.

Mrs. Morgan, who was a member of a prominent Boston family, was married to Mr. Morgan thirty-five years ago. They have two sons and two daughters. Mrs. Morgan shunned society and had managed to remain persistently in the background throughout her life. Horticulture was her one pastime, her flowers frequently having won first prizes. Those who met her, however, found her kindly and unusually sympathetic. Her popularity among the permanent residents of Glen Cove, who knew of her quiet philanthropies, was remarkable.

The announcement of her death, relayed from this city to the Long Island town, caused widespread sorrow. The brief statement that the sickness had proved fatal, made through the bank's office staff, was signed by the five physicians who had taken turns in twenty-four-hour duty at the Glen Cove home ever since the illness developed. It read as follows:

Aug. 14, 1925.

Mrs. Morgan, who for the past two months suffered from lethargic encephalitis and had slowly improved until a few days ago, died at noon today as the result of a sudden cardiac collapse.

Reports New Race of Men Found in Western Siberia

IRKUTSK, Siberia, Aug. 14 (AP).—Professor B. N. Gorodkoff, a Russian explorer, who has traversed Western Siberia, reports the discovery of a hitherto unknown race on the River Poora.

Although Professor Gorodkoff has discovered five clans containing 600 people, the local Samoyeds call the tribe "Pyan Ha Sovo," which means "forest people," while in their own language the tribe call themselves "Neshen," which means "men."

Their language is entirely different from that of any of the other nationalities populating Western Siberia. The Neshen people differ also from their Samoyed neighbors by their dark hair and complexion. They have no intercourse with their neighbors and very few of them engage in fishing or hunting beyond the borders of their own little country.

MRS. G. A. THOMPSON MISSING SIX DAYS

RELATIVES HAVE NO TRACE

Husband Says She Seemed Unhappy Because He Neglected a Dinner—She Had Only $10.

Mrs. Isabelle de Puy Thompson, the twenty-two-year-old wife of George Alanson Tracy Thompson of this city, member of a socially prominent family and the mother of a five-months-old son, was reported to the New York police yesterday as missing from her home at Kew Arms, Kew Gardens, L. I., since early last Sunday morning.

After an unsuccessful search for a trace of the young wife's whereabouts by her husband and her mother, Mrs. Sarah de Puy Gildersleeve, of Freeport, L. I., who believed that she might be staying with friends, the police were notified both at New York headquarters and at Richmond Hill, L. I.

Mrs. Thompson left her home some time between 1 and 7 o'clock Sunday morning while her husband, who had returned late from town, was asleep. When he awoke at 7 o'clock he found her missing but no note of explanation.

There was also missing from her wardrobe a new dark tan crêpe de chine dress and a matching silk coat trimmed with brown fur. She left with not more than $10 in her purse, and no one can be found who saw her walk out of the apartment.

There were no trains at the Kew Gardens station at that hour in the morning for either Freeport or Amityville, L. I., where the young couple's baby has been kept by Mrs. Thompson's aunt, Miss Lilian Talbot de Puy, at her country home in North Amityville, during the hot months, and it is a lonely walk of fifteen minutes to the subway station at Richmond Hill.

Says Wife Appeared Unhappy.

Mr. Thompson cannot account for his wife's disappearance, although he admits that she appeared unhappy when he returned Saturday about midnight after having dinner with two friends in town. He also remembered, he said, ok waking Sunday morning that he had promised his wife to come home for dinner, but it had slipped his mind. There was every indication, he said, that she had prepared an elaborate dinner for him at home.

"But she did not reproach me in any way," continued Mr. Thompson, who is three years his wife's senior. "She just looked unhappy.

"I went to bed immediately and was sound asleep in a few minutes. When I awoke I was startled not to find my wife in the apartment. She is a very level-headed young lady and I did not suspect anything out of the ordinary. I assumed that she had taken a notion to go down to Amityville to see the baby at her aunt's, and had left early, or had gone to her mother's home.

"She had spent most of the week before with the baby, returning Friday morning. And just to be with me on my way into town, as I leave early in the morning to look after a new book shop I have just opened at Seventy-ninth Street and Broadway, she took the train around 5 o'clock in the morning at Amityville, reaching Kew Gardens in time to join me and come into town to do some shopping.

"As I only recently went into trade, after teaching European history at Columbia University for two years, my wife took a keen interest in my undertaking and often helped me out at the shop. But recently I decided to continue my teaching in history in addition to running the book store, which would keep me away from New York, but not far, at Cornwall-on-Hudson.

"At first I was not badly worried over her leaving in the manner she did, and I assumed that she was with her relatives. Her mother, I believe, has reported the matter to the Bureau of Missing Persons in New York and to the police at Richmond Hill on Thursday. The New York police called me up at my office today and asked me if I cared to have my wife reported as missing. I told them to do so, and that I would do anything to find her."

Looks Younger Than 22.

Mrs. Thompson is described as looking younger than her 22 years, about five feet four and a half inches in height and weighs about 120 pounds. She has a very fair complexion, light blue eyes and very light golden brown hair, which she formerly wore bobbed. Her hair is half-way grown from the bobbed

SLAYER'S AID IS CAPTURED

VICTIM TESTIFIED AT TRIAL

Revenge for This and for Giving Clue Causing Arrest of Chapman Is Believed Motive of Murder.

MUNCIE, Ind., Aug. 14.—Ben Hance, a farmer, and his wife, at whose home Gerald Chapman, notorious robber and convicted murderer, and his pal, George (Dutch) Anderson, spent several months previous to Chapman's arrest here last January, were shot to death in their automobile today on the main highway, five miles southwest of Muncie.

Charles ("One Arm") Wolfe, who, the dying farmer declared was with Anderson, was captured at the home of his mother-in-law in this city late tonight.

A coupe corresponding to the murder car stood in front of the house. Wolfe denied all connection with the crime and, held without bail, was being questioned by detectives late tonight.

No trace has been found yet of Anderson, but descriptions of him and his car have been flashed over the countryside.

Revenge for Hance's actions in giving the police information of Chapman's whereabouts and testifying against him at the Hartford trial is believed to be the motive that prompted the murder, as Hance lived long enough to tell the police that "Dutch Anderson got me."

Anderson, in an automobile with another man, according to one version of the murder, drove up to the side of Hance's car and began firing without a word. Mrs. Hance was killed instantly by a bullet that penetrated her brain.

Hance, with four bullets in his body, got out of his car and staggered into a cornfield. He died soon after he had been taken to a hospital.

Another version of the affair is that Hance and his wife went to the spot where they were killed by appointment with Anderson and members of his gang, that a parley was held and that several members of the gang fired at the farmer and his wife.

Dying Man Found in Cornfield.

Hance was not able to tell his story. He lapsed into unconsciousness after he had said Anderson "got" him and that with Anderson was "One-Armed Wolfe" of Eaton, Ind. Anderson and whoever was with him drove away, it was said, in a westerly direction.

Hance lay in the cornfield until a passing motorist stopped upon seeing Mrs. Hance's body in the road. This man heard Hance's feeble moans, found him and took him to a hospital. Authorities here are convinced Anderson fired the shots that killed the Hances in behalf of his friend Chapman, and think it is more than likely that he acted at Chapman's request, as Chapman is known to have accused Hance of having "turned him up." It was while they were staying in the Hance home that Chapman and Anderson planned several crimes, it was said.

Anderson Feared Exposure.

Charles Cromer, a farmer, is the man who found Hance in the cornfield. After Hance had been rushed to the hospital and while he was breathing his last, he asked for Chief of Detectives Frederick Puckett, who was credited with engineering the arrest of Chapman.

The killing occurred almost in front of the Cromer farm, and Cromer, an eye-witness to the tragedy, immediately telephoned for Marshal Booher of Middletown.

To Booher, Hance gasped:

"He stayed at my home. I told on him. They shot me—Charles Wolfe and Dutch Anderson."

"Who are you?" asked the police officer.

"Ben Hance," the dying man replied. "Did you know Gerald Chapman?" the officer asked.

"Don't ask me," Hance returned.

He then asked that Detective Puckett be called.

Former Representative Charles Pope Caldwell announced yesterday that he would run against Borough President Maurice E. Connolly of Queens in the Democratic primaries.

This anti-Connolly movement, which has been gathering force for several weeks, was temporarily checked a week ago by George W. Olvany, leader of Tammany, who told some of the Queens insurgents that he was opposed to any fight against Mr. Connolly, who has been designated for renomination by the regular Queens Democratic organization. Although Judge Olvany said he still intended to keep the "gentlemen's agreement" of the five Democratic county leaders not to invade one another's territory with local contests, the Queens insurgents were said to consider this agreement broken by Mayor Hylan's decision to run Manhattan and Bronx local candidates and to intend to fight Mr. Connolly, regardless of whether or not they received Tammany support.

Mr. Caldwell, whose home is at Forest Hills, said his petitions were already in circulation. He named former Tax Commissioner John J. Halleran of Flushing, former Sheriff Thomas M. Quinn of Astoria, former Alderman Nicholas Nehrbauer of Steinway, and former Assemblymen William O'Hare and George Polhemus as among his principal supporters. He added that, if the Tammany organization in Queens conducting the campaign for Senator Walker did not wish to aid his campaign, he would open headquarters of his own. He declared that he had sufficient information to make a very lively campaign against Borough President Connolly.

Mr. Caldwell was formerly closely associated with Mr. Connolly. Fourteen years ago when Mr. Connolly made the fight that put Lawrence Gresser out of office as Borough President, Mr. Caldwell was the lawyer who prepared the charges that were presented to Governor Dix. Mr. Caldwell also appeared as counsel in the proceedings which resulted in Mr. Gresser's removal. He remained a friend of Mr. Connolly until two years ago, when he failed to get a renomination for Congress.

The general opinion was that the Tammany-Walker Queens committee would not back Mr. Caldwell officially in his fight against Mr. Connolly, but that the individual members of the Tammany Queens organization would in most cases give him their individual support.

Collier Says 'Boom' Real Estate Promoter Is Trespasser and 'War' Reports Are 'Bunk.'

Special to The New York Times.

TAMPA, Fla., Aug. 14.—Rival interests are claiming part of the little island of Marco in Collier County and reports from there state that feeling is increasing in intensity so that a clash of armed forces is feared.

The opposing factions are headed on the one hand by Barron G. Collier, a New York advertising man, who is carrying out a large development on the island, and W. G. Williams, a real estate man of 180 Broadway, New York City, who is said to have many old residents and new settlers on his side.

Mr. Williams, in reports sent to Tampa, charges "highhanded" operations of a political ring and a well-organized liquor band. In a petition which is to be sent to Governor Martin of Florida he is demanding the removal of Sheriff W. B. Maynard of Collier County, who, he alleges, has taken up his residence at the home of the Collier representative at Caxambas, and is heading a group of armed deputies, who are supporting the Collier interests.

Mr. Williams is the head of a company that recently bought the townsite of Maico. The trouble has arisen over claims to land which the Collier interests are declared to have put under fence, although it had been homesteaded by others.

According to one version of the snarl a mistake was made in a Government survey of about fifty years ago and about 3,000 acres of land were left out. In the original survey the island was

TWO BOYS, 14, ADMIT ROBBING 100 HOUSES

SOUGHT VACATION THRILLS

Ex-Caddies Preferred Golf Balls to Bracelets or Watches; Two Men Also Held.

Special to The New York Times.

MINEOLA, L. I., Aug. 14.—Two 14-year-old boys were held as juvenile delinquents today after confessing that they had committed more than 100 burglaries in residences in Far Rockaway, Laurelton, Cedarhurst and Woodmere.

The two knee-pants burglars—Albert Hayck of Inwood and Dominick Oliverio of Lawrence—began breaking into houses and stealing for thrills at the beginning of their school vacation in July.

Both had been caddies and their occupation had given them a slightly distorted sense of values. They threw away pearls and kept golf balls. They hurled a diamond-studded bracelet at a telegraph pole but hung on to an assortment of brassies and niblicks.

Early in their career they tossed away wrist watches, too, but they learned from two business men, who are now under arrest, that these things had a value. Being good business men, however, they did not let the boys know that these things had much value. According to Captain of Police Daniel S. Kenyon of Cedarhurst, they paid the boys a total of $4 for their entire haul of watches and jewelry, which is valued at approximately $10,000.

These two men now under arrest on the charge of receiving stolen goods from the boys are Edward Levine of Cedarhurst and Frank Crici. The stolen goods passed through other hands before They were placed on sale in shops, and other arrests are likely, according to Chief Kenyon.

Started Selling Golf Balls.

The boys came under suspicion when they tried to do business without the intervention of the middlemen. Before entering on their series of burglaries they were experienced in the sale of second-hand golf balls. They fell under suspicion because of the quantities of golf balls they offered for sale, and also because they offered brand-new ones as pick-ups.

At the time that the report came to the Cedarhurst police about the golf balls they were investigating reports that two boys had bee seen acting suspiciously about many residences in Queens and Nassau County, where there had been many house burglaries. Putting two and two together, the police arrested the two boys on Wednesday. It was not until today that they got the complete confession.

The boys, who have been in mischief before, said they robbed the first house purely for vacation fun. They found it so easy that they kept on robbing others. They finally worked up a comprehensive technique which enabled them to rob 100 or more houses—two or three a day every day during vacations—without being caught and with only three close calls.

First they would ring the front door bell. If some one answered, they would

TICKETS IN TWO COUNTIES

W. C. Weisman Designated for Manhattan Borough Presidency.

C. C. KEENAN IN BRONX

Magistrate Max S. Levine Is Reported Also to Have Turned Down Place on Ticket.

WIGWAM NOT IMPRESSED

Cohalan Evasive on Report Mayor Will Bolt if Defeated in Primaries.

Former Surrogate John P. Cohalan failed yesterday to make any important breach in the ranks of Tammany in making up the Hylan Manhattan and Bronx borough and county tickets, which he announced in the course of the day.

The make-up of the Manhattan ticket was delayed until it appeared definitely that Deputy County Clerk Thomas M. Farley, Tammany leader of the Fourteenth Assembly District, would not accept from the Hylan forces the designation for Sheriff, for which he had been an aspirant at the hands of Tammany. Mr. Farley called at Tammany Hall in the afternoon and assured George W. Olvany, the leader, of his intention to remain loyal to the Tammany city ticket headed by Senator James J. Walker. A month ago, long before Senator Walker's designation by Tammany, Mr. Farley favored the renomination of Mayor Hylan.

Opposition Not Impressed.

The Hylan Manhattan and Bronx tickets, the decision to name which is believed to have been made without the knowledge of John H. McCooey, Brooklyn Democratic leader and the most powerful politically of any of the Mayor's avowed supporters, and persisted in against his advice, failed to indicate any great accession to the Hylan strength in the opinion of the Tammany leaders.

The Manhattan ticket is headed by Milton C. Weisman, a rather youthful lawyer, as the Hylan candidate for Borough President. The Bronx ticket is headed by Christopher C. Keenan, Deputy Appraiser of the Port of New York during the Wilson Administration.

The Hylan local slate, as announced by Cohalan, follows:

Manhattan.

For District Attorney—SAMUEL BELL THOMAS.
For Sheriff—FRANCIS P. BURNS.
For County Clerk—FRANK JOYCE.
For Register—Mrs. PARCELLA MARBURGH.

Bronx.

For Borough President—CHRISTOPHER C. KEENAN.
For Sheriff—JOHN MINOGUE.
For County Judge—H. BENNETT SOLOMON.
For County Clerk—FRANK J. MANLEY.
For Register—MICHAEL F. BROWN.

Not to Oppose Schulz.

The Bronx Hylanites decided not to oppose the renomination of Surrogate George M. S. Schulz, a Democrat, who has been designated for renomination by both the Democratic and Republican organizations.

According to information given out by Mr. Cohalan, Mr. Weisman lives at 473 West End Avenue and has a law office at 233 Broadway. He is a graduate of the Syracuse University and Fordham Law School. He is a member of the Tammany Club of the Seventh Assembly District, of which James J. Hagan is leader.

Mr. Thomas, who has been active in the practice of law and public matters in New York City for thirty years, has offices at 80 Maiden Lane and lives at 420 West 119th Street. He is a native of Texas.

Mr. Burns also is a member of Mr. Hagan's Tammany organization and a member of the Democratic County Committee. He lives at 112 West Nineteenth Street and has law offices at 150 Nassau Street. He is a graduate of the New York Law School.

Announcement of the Hylan Manhattan slate was made by Judge Cohalan at the Hylan Manhattan headquarters at the Hotel Roosevelt, which were opened yesterday. It was reported that the Hylan adherents made efforts during the day to get Magistrate Max S. Levine, whom the Tammany Executive Committee turned down for Julius Miller, as their candidate for Borough President, and James J. Hines, Tammany leader of the Eleventh Assembly District, who failed to get the Tammany nomination, for Sheriff, but that both these Tammany men refused.

Tried to Get Farley.

Judge Cohalan denied attempts to get Mr. Levine and Mr. Hines on the Hylan ticket and declared that the only Tammany leader who was approached had been Mr. Farley. Earlier in the

Vanderbilt Baby 'Lost' on Way to Newport; Found With Her Nurse on the Wrong Train

While Mr. and Mrs. Reginald C. Vanderbilt were preparing to motor from the Ritz-Carlton to their farm at Sandy Point, Newport, yesterday, the Vanderbilt nurse with Gloria Morgan, their 17-months-old daughter, took the wrong train from the Grand Central Terminal and considerable excitement resulted.

Mrs. Harry Hays Morgan, the child's grandmother, was to have met the nurse and child at the Grand Central aboard the Knickerbocker Limited, which leaves at 12 o'clock Standard Time. When they did not arrive Mrs. Morgan hurriedly left the train just before it pulled out and telephoned to her daughter.

Then for a few minutes telephone wires were busy in a search for the missing baby. Mrs. Vanderbilt supposed that they were aboard the Knickerbocker. Station masters and dispatchers were appealed to, and finally the baby was found safe with her nurse aboard New Haven train No. 20 bound for Newport. That train leaves at 12:03, and the nurse had mistaken it for the Knickerbocker.

Station Master Kramer called dispatchers at Bridgeport and between that stop and New Haven a search of the train revealed Gloria Morgan Vanderbilt and her nurse. The anxious parents and grandmother were quickly notified and Mr. and Mrs. Vanderbilt then left by motor for Newport. Mrs. Morgan took a later train.

An automobile met the nurse and baby at Providence and took them to Sandy Point Farm. Mr. and Mrs. Vanderbilt will arrive there today.

Boy, Seeing Cripples on Picnic, Limps Along; Has a Fine Time Till Brother Exposes Him

Nick Torquato, a ten-year-old newsboy, wanted a good time so badly yesterday that he posed as a cripple to have it. Nick sells newspapers at the main entrance of Columbia Amusement Park, on Hudson Boulevard, North Bergen, N. J. Yesterday morning he was crying his wares as usual, when six auto buses crowded with children stopped near his news stand. They had been engage by the Jersey City Elks to convey 160 crippled boys and girls to the park for a picnic.

The little unfortunates scrambled and limped out of the motors to form a long, irregular line which stretched past Nick. Struck with a happy idea, the newsboy, assuming a pathetic, realistic limp, abandoned his papers unseen and joined the cue.

Those who were able to do so walked into the park led by their older sponsors. Nick, however, seemed unequal for this task, so up to the shoulders of a kindly Elk he went.

From the chute-the-chutes to the ocean wave he was carried. Then to the Ferris wheel, the rolling coaster and the whip. Nick was having a fine time until from nowhere in particular his older brother, Philip, popped up, just after Nick had been lowered from the shoulders of his perspiring guardian and tucked away in the tub of a merry-go-round, which was about to start. Philip, puzzled and nonplused, approached his younger brother. Before he could say a word, however, the younger boy cautiously put his finger to his lips and emitted a sibilant "Sh-sh-sh."

Philip, with the perverseness of an older brother, heeded not the signal, but screamed:

"Nick, you're the worst faker I ever saw." Nick's erstwhile protector and vehicle, unfortunately, heard the fraternal verdict. He made a dive for the lad, but Nick, leaping from the merry-go-round, recovered the use of his left foot with astonishing celerity and ran like a deer through the crowd, with pursuers close at his heels. The boy was soon captured and brought before the party's chairman, A. Harry Moore, who is the Democratic candidate for Governor of New Jersey. An impromptu tribunal of Elks was organized on the spot, and Nick was arraigned before it. The judges agreed, however, that if a boy had to adopt such drastic measures for a little fun he was justified in having it. So Nick, again happy, and furtive no longer, rejoined the party.

...ay Judge Cohalan admitted that the Hylan slate was being held up while he awaited word from Mr. Farley. At noon, he said:

"Mr. Farley can still have the nomination if he has the manhood to stand on his feet and fight Tammany Hall and comes to me before 2 o'clock today."

Mr. Weisman and Mr. Burns were present when Judge Cohalan made the announcement of their selection. "I have gone into this fight to help Mayor Hylan," said Mr. Weisman. "It is important, if he is re-elected Mayor, that he should have Borough Presidents who will support him. That is why I have taken the nomination."

In a talk with newspaper reporters Judge Cohalan took occasion to explain remarks made earlier in the day regarding the possibility of the Mayor running independently, which had been interpreted to mean that the Mayor might withdraw from the primaries and run independently, and that Judge Cohalan would support him as an independent candidate.

"Mayor Hylan is going to run in the primaries and he is going to win," Judge Cohalan declared. "It is useless to discuss what might happen after that. That is a bridge to be crossed when reached, and I am going to be frank about it."

Made No Pledge, He Says.

"Will the Mayor run independently if defeated in the primaries?" Judge Cohalan was asked.

"I can't answer that question one way or the other. That question has never come up between us. I can't speak for the Mayor on that."

Judge Cohalan was asked how he interpreted the pledge the Mayor gave, which some persons interpreted as being a pledge that he would not run independently if he suffered a primary defeat.

"I decline to interpret," Judge Cohalan replied, adding quickly that he had not interpreted it.

"I made no pledge," Judge Cohalan continued. "So far as I am concerned, I will make no pledge of any kind with those people who are running Fourteenth Street."

"Have you heard of any pledge by Senator Walker that he will abide by the result of the primary?" Judge Cohalan was asked.

"I have not," he replied.

Judge Cohalan confirmed the report published by yesterday's NEW YORK TIMES that he had sought the aid of Republican leaders as a candidate for Mayor on a Republican-Fusion ticket. He added that before he had consented to manage Mayor Hylan's campaign he had informed the Mayor of these negotiations, and also had told him that had he (the Mayor) been named to head the Tammany ticket, he would have fought him in the primaries.

Judge Cohalan announced the selection of H. Randolph Guggenheimer, a lawyer, as treasurer of the Hylan Manhattan and Bronx Committee of Two Hundred, which is in process of formation. Mr. Guggenheimer is the son of Randolph Guggenheimer, the first President of the Board of Aldermen, and once a member of the firm of Guggenheimer, Untermyer & Marshall. He also announced the selection of James O'Connor of 557 Tinton Avenue as the Hylan campaign manager for the Bronx. Hylan headquarters in that borough have been opened at 2,954 Third Avenue.

1ST SMITH GUN IN RICHMOND.

Governor and Walker to Open Campaign at 2 Meetings Aug. 29.

The first definite speaking date for Governor Smith in the campaign to name Senator James J. Walker as the Democratic nominee for Mayor and to defeat Mayor Hylan was announced yesterday by County Judge J. Harry Tiernan, anti-Hylan candidate for Borough President of Richmond. Judge Tiernan announced that Governor Smith and Senator Walker would open the Richmond anti-Hylan campaign in speeches at two meetings, one at Stapleton and one at Port Richmond, on Aug. 29. He added that the truth about the starting of the Staten Island revolt would be told at these meetings.

The primary campaign in Richmond promises to be particularly bitter. Mayor Hylan and William R. Edwards and William J. Cokeley, his colleagues on the city ticket, will speak there next Thursday night.

Judge Tiernan declared yesterday that he had effected a complete organization in fifty-two out of the seventy-eight Richmond election districts and that the organization would be complete by Monday night. He added that many of the regular committee members were joining the organization. David S. Rendt, the Richmond County Democratic leader, who is supporting Mayor Hylan, denied this.

Governor Smith will return to Albany on Monday but will come back here as soon as his official duties permit. It was learned that the Governor had advised the Tammany leaders not to attempt any campaign will also be against the Mayor. The Governor was reported to feel that the way to defeat the Mayor was to place before the voters proof of the Mayor's failure of accomplishment of many duties, of which the failure to dig new subways was said to be a striking example. George W. Olvany, leader of Tammany, was said to have concurred in the Governor's view, and it is probable that the Tammany line of attack will be based on detailed specifications of what he has done and what he has failed to do.

Reports received at the Walker headquarters in the Hotel Commodore indicated large defections from the Mayor in Brooklyn. These reports were particularly welcome because of the belief of the Tammany leaders that Mayor Hylan will have to get a large majority in Brooklyn if he is even to make a good showing in the primary. According to the reports, half a dozen Brooklyn district leaders are really opposed to Hylan, while individual members of the Brooklyn Democratic organization by the hundreds are said to have indicated their intention of supporting the Tammany city ticket on primary day.

Benjamin H. Schreiber, who assumed the management of the Walker campaign during the day, issued a statement in which he promised a constructive campaign in which the candidates on the Democratic city ticket would pledge themselves to plans for providing better transportation, adequate school facilities, relief from traffic congestion and the solution of other municipal problems. It is understood that Senator Walker will prepare a personal platform which he will issue during the campaign, and in which his colleagues will concur.

Mr. Schreiber said:

"The regular Democratic candidates, Walker, Berry and McKee, will give the people their ideas of the way in which the problems that have been harassing us may be solved. They will go to the voters with a constructive message.

"Fortunately for the regular Democratic candidates they do not have to shout from the housetops that they favor a five-cent fare. Their record in this respect speaks louder than the combined outpourings of those who have unscrupulously insisted on taking credit for the five-cent fare.

SAYS WHITNEY IS WET.

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Aug. 14.—Endorsement of State Senator Arthur N. Whitney as the Republican candidate for Governor by the New Jersey Anti-Saloon League was not solicited by Senator Whitney and "there is no ground for believing that he will be influenced in any way by it."

This was the statement today of Vice Chairman John McCutcheon of the Republican State Committee, who visited this county during a tour of South Jersey. Mr. McCutcheon pointed out that despite the endorsement of Senator Whitney by the Anti-Saloon League there is no real reason for the wets to be against him as Senator Whitney "had consistently voted on the wet side."

"Why the league endorsed Senator Whitney," he declared, "I don't know, unless it was a choice of the lesser of two evils, as they saw it."

CALLS WATERMAN PARTY 'CINDERELLA'

W. M. Bennett Says Pen Man's Republicanism Is Not More Than a Year Old.

TRACES VOTING RECORD

J. J. McGinness Will Put Up an Opposition G. O. P. Slate in Kings County.

The Republican-Citizens' city ticket, headed by Frank D. Waterman, was characterized yesterday as the "Cinderella" ticket by William M. Bennett, candidate for the Republican nomination for Mayor against Mr. Waterman. Mr. Bennett declared that there seemed to be no legal bar to the adoption of Mr. Waterman as a Republican by Samuel S. Koenig and Jacob A. Livingston, Manhattan and Brooklyn Republican leaders, because he was certainly a minor as a Republican. So far as he could find out, Mr. Bennett said, Mr. Waterman's Republicanism was only one year old.

Mr. Bennett said he had looked up Mr. Waterman's registration and voting record as far back as 1904. "In 1904, Mr. Waterman lived at 1,097 Dean Street, Brooklyn," Mr. Bennett said. "He did not register that year and therefore could not have voted for Theodore Roosevelt for President.

"Mr. Waterman registered in 1905. He did not register in 1906 and therefore could not have voted for Charles E. Hughes for Governor against William Randolph Hearst.

"In 1907 Mr. Waterman moved to Madison, N. J., and continued his residence there until 1921. I am informed that he has said that he voted for President Wilson in 1916 and that he was an advocate of the entrance of the United States into the League of Nations. I have been unable to find out for whom he voted for President in 1908 and 1912.

No Vote for Harding, He Says.

"In 1922 Mr. Waterman took up his residence at 850 Park Avenue, Manhattan. He did not register that year and therefore could not have voted for Governor Miller and against Governor Smith. He registered from the Park Avenue address in 1923 but did not enroll. In the Board of Elections records he is reported as having declared that his last vote before 1923 was in Madison, N. J., in 1919. Therefore he did not vote for President Harding in 1920.

"In 1924, one year before the Republican Mayoralty election, Mr. Waterman registered and enrolled as a Republican. His Republicanism apparently is only one year old.

"James E. Finegan, designated by the Republican leaders as their candidate for Controller, boasts that he is a Democrat and intends to be a Democrat. I do not believe that the ticket of Waterman and Finegan will appeal much to the enrolled Republicans of New York City, and I believe my nomination in the Republican primary election to be certain.

"I believe that the time has come for the Republicans of the city to assert themselves and to repudiate a policy of naming Democrats on Republican tickets, which had had the effect in Brooklyn, once a Republican borough, of filling all the county offices with Democrats and leaving Kings County without a single Republican State Senator and with only two Republican Assemblymen."

Insurgent Movement Widens.

The insurgent movement against the slate of the Republican organization leaders started by Mr. Bennett was widened yesterday, when John J. McGinness, a leading Republican of the First Assembly District, announced that he would file petitions to designate former Representative John Kissel, a Brooklyn Republican, to run for the Republican nomination for Controller against Mr. Finegan, who is a Brooklyn Democrat.

Mr. McGinness, who tried unsuccessfully to present Mr. Bennett's name last week at the meeting of the Kings County Republican Committee, which designated Mr. Waterman, said dissatisfaction with some of the candidates selected on the regular or Livingston Republican county ticket had led to a decision on the part of the insurgents to place county candidates in the field in Brooklyn.

The opposition slate, he said, included former State Senator Robert R. Lawson to oppose William Stanley Miller, regular Republican designee for Borough President; former Representative Michael J. Hogan to oppose Peter B. Seery for Sheriff and Irving Fein to oppose Jacob Bartscherer for Register.

Mr. McGinness said he believed most of the Republican insurgents would support Mr. Bennett against Mr. Waterman. He added that they were satisfied with the selection of Alderman George U. Harvey of Queens, the regular Republican designee for President of the Board of Aldermen, and with Aivah W. Burlingame, regular Republican candidate for Sheriff, and Reuben L. Haskell, regular Republican candidate for County Judge, and would name no candidates against them.

Petitions in Circulation.

Mr. McGinness said that the petitions for the insurgent candidates were already in circulation and that the requisite number of signatures would be obtained well in advance of the expiration of the time for filing next Tuesday.

Mr. Waterman, when informed of Mr. Bennett's remarks on his voting record, declined to comment upon them. It was learned that Mr. Waterman considered that he had not yet received any official notification of his selection as the Republican standard-bearer and did not wish to speak for publication until he did.

So far, it was learned, Mr. Waterman has not been in communication with any of the Republican leaders who designated him, with the exception of Charles D. Hilles, Chairman of the City-Wide Republican Steering Committee, who is in Columbus, Ohio. Mr. Waterman will see Mr. Hilles on the latter's return on Monday, and presumably soon will meet the Republican leaders of the five boroughs, a majority of whom are understood to be unacquainted with him personally.

Despite Mr. Bennett's assertion of confidence of victory the organization Republican leaders, it was learned, did not take his candidacy seriously, and had made their campaign plans largely with a view to the general election in November, rather than to the primary election Sept. 15. The Republican organizations, however, will make a primary campaign for Mr. Waterman, and it is expected to get under full headway in about another week.

BUTLER SEES A LONE ISSUE.

Declares It Is "Good Government Against Bad Government."

Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler, President of Columbia University, who is Chairman of the Republican Platform Committee, declared yesterday that there was only one issue in the municipal campaign, "Good Government Against Bad Government."

"There are no actual issues in a municipal election," Dr. Butler said. "A city election presents a completely different situation from a national election. In this campaign we have just one question, whether New York is to be well governed or badly governed.

"There should be no question of party lines or loyalties. The issue is not whether Republicans or Democrats are to hold high office. It is good government against bad government."

A statement of the things that Mayor Hylan has failed to do will form part of the Republican platform, according to Dr. Butler. It is understood that the platform will condemn the "demagogy, extravagance and favoritism" of the present City Administration and the raising of false five-cent fare issue. It is expected to declare that subways and schools must be built, taxation decreased and better protection of citizens against crime.

MAYOR ATTACKS B. M. T. ON NEW TYPE TRAINS

Asks Investigation of Woman's Injury in Letter to Brooklyn Prosecutor.

Mayor Hylan launched another attack on the B. M. T. yesterday in a letter to District Attorney Dodd of Brooklyn and asked the District Attorney to investigate an accident on the Brighton Beach line in which, he said, a woman was injured by a closing door on a new type of train on which the motorman in addition to operating the train was called upon to open and close the doors.

After stating that he had been informed that the B. M. T. was experimenting with a train of this type which he termed "a so-called Type C train of remodeled wooden cars, composed of three cars in one unit," the Mayor said:

"Police reports indicate that at about 2 A. M. this morning, Aug. 14, at Church Avenue, on the Brighton line, a woman passenger was seriously injured by a closing door on this new type train. I am informed that the operation of this type train is so arranged that the motorman opens and closes all of the doors of the train by a push button arrangement in his cab, and is charged with the safety of this door operation aside from the fact that he must safely operate his train.

"I assume, now that this new contraption is in operation carrying passengers and charging the motormen with the responsibility of opening and closing the doors from the cab, that the operation has the approval of the State Transit Commission. The purpose of this operation in cutting down the crew of this type train at the expense of the passengers is shameful and I am calling your attention to this morning's accident so that you may investigate it and take whatever action is appropriate in the matter."

The injured woman was Mrs. Marie Vicardi of 915 Sixth Avenue, Astoria. The police record in the Flatbush station said that "while alighting from a B. M. T. train at the Gates Avenue station she was caught by a door. She received a fractured skull and was sent to the Kings County Hospital."

Mrs. Vicardi left the hospital just before noon yesterday.

At the B. M. T. offices in Brooklyn it was said that the Mayor's statement about the motorman operating both the motor and the doors on the train was untrue. On no train operated by the company, it was said, was the motorman called upon to do both jobs.

Queens Club Endorses Walker.

Secret Service operators, newspapermen and photographers, ran into all varieties of weather on the way up from Swampscott. The President also got a lesson in road building. He encountered smooth cement on a highway in Massachusetts and deep mud roads between Keene and Bellows Falls, Vt.

When the car drove out of White Court at 9 o'clock this morning, the fog seemed about to blow away. Before he was on his way ten minutes rain began to fall and continued for the first two hours. Between Ayer and Fitchburg the cavalcade passed through a veritable cloudburst and some of the cars were crippled.

The first halt of the day was at a highway junction just outside of Ayer, near Camp Devens, where the President's son John is a Corporal in a citizens' training corps. In order to avoid ceremonies attendant upon the visit of a President to a military post, Mr. Coolidge had asked the camp commander, General Malvern Hill Barnum, to let John Coolidge meet his parents outside the camp. The General's car, with Acting Corporal Coolidge occupying a seat with the General, had been waiting at the crossroads some minutes before the President arrived, and the lad chatted with his parents for about fifteen minutes.

Take Lunch as They Ride.

The accompanying party had expected to stop at Keene for lunch. The President and Mrs. Coolidge, however, had luncheon with them and no stop was made. They ate in comfort while the big car rushed over the roads. Other members of the party went hungry until the trip ended about 4:45 o'clock in the Vermont hills.

The rain had ceased when the party approached Bellows Falls. The cars halted at a cemetery, and the President and Mrs. Coolidge climbed a steep hill to ramble about the place, and visited the meeting house, built in 1787, in which the President's ancestors had worshipped over a century ago. The President's mother, Victoria Moor, was born in this section of the country, near Rockingham, and many of her ancestors had fought the British from the granite hillside. Nathaniel L. Davis, the President's great-great-grandfather, who died in 1802, is buried in the cemetery.

A kinsman of the President, Senator Nathaniel L. Divoll, hurried up the hillside as the President and Mrs. Coolidge approached the church and unlocked the door. The President sat in the pew which had been used by his great-great-grandfather and posed with Mrs. Coolidge for a picture.

While in the cemetery reading the tombstones, the President pointed out to the newspaper men the great number of Davises buried there and remarked:

"Probably I can claim as much Welsh blood as Jim Davis," referring to the Secretary of Labor, who is a Welshman.

Pays Call on Aunt.

Despite the forbidding weather, the President stopped for a short call on his aunt, Sarah Pollard, the mother of Park Pollard, Democratic candidate for the United States Senate in Vermont two years ago.

While nearly all the executive force at White Court remained behind, the President got into touch with affairs over the telephone tonight. In a room above Miss Cilley's store, in the building where he was born while his father was the village storekeeper, Mr. Coolidge has a desk made of boards resting on two trestles.

There is no telephone in Colonel Coolidge's house, and kerosene lamps are used. Miss Cilley installed electric lights several months ago, and she offered to supply Colonel Coolidge, but he declined to have them put in.

Before he left White Court the President said he would spend two or three days with his father. If his presence and the attendant excitement do not aggravate his father's illness he will remain here until Wednesday.

Report Ladd's Widow May Become Senator, To Be Succeeded by North Dakota Governor

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 14.—Information received by Republican leaders here suggests that Governor Sorlie of North Dakota is seriously considering appointing Mrs. Rispah Spragle Ladd, widow of Senator Edwin F. Ladd of that State, to her husband's seat in the Senate.

One report is that Governor Sorlie intends to run for the Senate, and that if Mrs. Ladd is appointed it will be with the understanding that she will not be a candidate in the election next year. If appointed Mrs. Ladd would serve until the first Monday in December, 1926, or until an elected successor to her husband's seat qualified.

It was recalled today that some weeks ago Mrs. Ladd had suggested the appointment of Douglas H. McArthur, who was Senator Ladd's private secretary. She said that Mr. McArthur would have been her husband's choice. The suggestion, however, was not taken seriously by the appointing powers. Louis Hanna, who managed President Coolidge's campaign in North Dakota last year, also was mentioned.

The best opinion in Washington seems to be that there will be no special election, and if this is so, little surprise will be occasioned if Mrs. Ladd is the next Senator from North Dakota.

If appointed, Mrs. Ladd will be the second woman to take the oath as Senator. Mrs. William H. Felton, who was appointed to serve until a successor to Senator Thomas E. Watson of Georgia was elected, served for less than a day when the Senate convened in December, 1922.

Mrs. Ladd would be the eighth woman to serve as a member of Congress. The first was Miss Jeannette Rankin of Montana and the second Miss Alice Robertson of Oklahoma.

The others, all members of the House, were Mrs. Winfred Mason Houck of Illinois, Mrs. May Nolan of California, Mrs. John Jacob Rogers of Massachusetts and Mrs. Julius Kahn of California. Mrs. Nolan, Mrs. Rogers and Mrs. Kahn are widows of Representatives and Mrs. Houck the daughter of a Representative.

OFFICIALS AT ODDS IN GARMENT ROW

PREDICTS ITS FAILURE

But Vice President Says Administration Would Quit If Call Succeeded.

The threatened split in the International Ladies' Garment Workers' Union, involving Locals 2, 9 and 22, with a membership of 30,000 workers, finally materialized yesterday. In reply to a call for a two-hour stoppage of the cloak and dress industry on Thursday, Aug. 20, issued by the Joint Committee of Action, Morris Sigman, President of the International, made public a statement in which he repeated his charges of Communist "boring from within" the union, and expressed confidence that the great mass of workers would pay no attention to the call for a stoppage by "the enemies of our union."

President Sigman made the direct charge that members of the Joint Committee of Action were taking orders from the Communist Party.

"The Communist Cheka from Chicago which is using a group of suspended ex-officials of our three New York locals as a catspaw to fight our international union, under the name of a 'joint action committee,' has now announced its plan to cause a two-hour stoppage in the cloak industry on Thursday, Aug. 20, at 3 o'clock in the afternoon," said Mr. Sigman's statement.

"This scheme to involve the New York cloakmakers in a general strike, after the workers had, in a popular referendum, accepted by an overwhelming majority the proposal of Governor Smith's Mediation Commission to continue the agreement in the industry for another year, was evolved by the Communists several weeks ago when William Foster, their National Chairman, at a meeting in Manhattan Lyceum on July 27 read to his comrades of the 'Joint Action Committee' an order issued by the National Executive Committee of the Communist Party to precipitate a general strike in the cloak industry.

Sees a Publicity Stunt.

"It is clear as daylight that the stoppage that the Communists are planning is nothing but a fake, an advertising stunt. It is worth observing that the Communist leaders, scared by the prospects of certain failure and knowing that the cloakmakers would not respond to a call for a strike, are for the moment talking only of a two-hour stoppage. The industry is slow now, and most of the cloakmakers are finishing up their day's work by 3 or 4 o'clock in the afternoon. Under the circumstances it is quite likely that some of the workers, out of curiosity, would attend their meetings to see what a Communist 'stoppage' looks like. This the Communists will be able to exploit in the press the next day as a 'great protest demonstration' and a fine publicity stunt for the Communist cause.

"We are confident, however, that the great masses of our workers will ignore this interference by an irresponsible clique of outsiders and will pay no attention to any order for a strike or stoppage issued by these enemies of our union and of all organized labor in America."

Joseph Breslaw, a Vice President of the International, however, declared at a joint executive meeting of ten locals that the issue in the struggle was not Communism, and that the Administration would quit if a majority of workers answer the call for a stoppage. In a report of the proceedings at the meeting, Justice, the official weekly organ of the International, says:

"Vice President Breslaw is then granted the floor and states that the main issue in this fight is not the Communists, but the tactics adopted by them in the Union. He also dwells on the question of the stoppage, claiming that if the majority of the members will respond to their call for a general stoppage, then the present administration will have no other alternative than to comply with the will of the membership."

Thousands of printed leaflets, asking the workers to participate in the stoppage and to come to the meetings, were distributed yesterday in the garment district by the Joint Committee.

Denies Taking Sides.

The Association of Dress Manufacturers denied yesterday through its general manager, Hyman Press, that it was taking sides in the union struggle.

"There is nothing in the letter the Joint Committee of Action refers to," Mr. Press said, "that the agreement of February, 1925, between the association and the International does not provide for. It was written to prevent deviation by the manufacturers from the strict letter of the clauses in the agreement. Every time an employer wishes to engage additional help it is provided that they request the Labor Bureau for a supply. Sometimes employers allow workers to work several hours before they secure joint board cards. Now, we are loath to permit even minor departures from the understanding we have."

A reference to the agreement shows, it was pointed out, that the manufacturers were not there stated to be the persons who were to supervise adherence of workers to union rules.

Julius Portnoy, ousted manager of Local 22, declared that the practice inaugurated by the instructions in the letter of the association was a reversal of normal conditions. "It has always been the practice," he said, "for the shop chairman to examine the validity of the documents of the worker. By reversing the practice and bringing in the manufacturer as a censor they certainly take sides."

A recent declaration of the ousted leaders that they would retire from the fight should it be proved that more than 30 per cent. of the union workers were opposed to them, and the words of Vice President Breslaw quoted above indicate that an official vote or meeting called by the two factions could be the means of bringing the strife to an end by forcing one side or the other to abide by the result of such a procedure.

ADEN CLAWSON'S SLAYER ARRAIGNED FOR MURDER

Young Adams Pleads Not Guilty When Prosecutor Refuses to Modify the Charge.

Special to The New York Times.

SEDALIA, Mo., Aug. 14.—Everett Adams, 17-year-old slayer of Aden Clawson of Lodi, N. Y., will be tried on a first degree murder charge at the October term of the Pettis County District Court.

The boy was held without bond when he was arraigned this morning before Justice Fisher. He entered a plea of not guilty and waived a preliminary hearing.

The sudden change in the plans to hold the preliminary hearing later followed a conference among Roy Rucker, County Attorney; Henry Adams, the boys' father, and Claude Wilkerson, retained as counsel for the defense.

Mr. Rucker repeated his assertion that he was determined to ask that the boy be sentenced to death, and it is believed the sudden arraignment was due to failure to persuade him to enter a more lenient charge or to throw the case into the Juvenile Court.

During the brief proceedings this morning the boy sat quietly in his seat, his pale face betraying no emotion, his brown eyes roving wearily over the dusty maps and age-stained calendars on the walls of the tiny court room.

The mother of young Adams came here today from her home in Wilmington, Ohio, to see and comfort her son, who was permitted to see her in a private room in the jail. She did not hear the story from her son of the murder he committed.

"I did not care for him to tell," Mrs. Adams said. "He has told his father and is going through enough."

M'GOVERN ENTERS WISCONSIN RACE

Ex-Governor Seeks the Republican Nomination for Senate on Primary Issue.

MILWAUKEE, Aug. 14 (AP).—Asserting that the State Republican convention at Oshkosh yesterday had raised a new political issue in demanding the repeal of the primary election law, Francis E. McGovern of Milwaukee announced today that he "would take up the gauntlet thrown down at Oshkosh," and invite his opponents to open combat on this issue.

He added that the progressive Republicans of Wisconsin "will resist this program to the uttermost. It would be a deplorable step backwards. It would undo some of the best work the late lamented Robert M. La Follette did when he was Governor.

Mr. McGovern is a former Governor and has announced himself a candidate for the Republican nomination for United States Senator to fill the unexpired term of Robert M. La Follette.

Judge Martin L. Lueck of Beaver Dam, who has been mentioned as the most probable choice of the Democrats for the Senate seat, has announced that he will not run for the office. He was the Democratic candidate for Governor in the last election.

BRIAND'S AID LOSES WALLET IN LONDON

By Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Aug. 14.—Mystery surrounds the disappearance of a wallet belonging to Aristide Briand's chief secretary, M. Thierry, which contained several important diplomatic documents and £500 in currency. Although an exhaustive search was made today at the Foreign Office no trace of it was found.

The wallet was first missed on Wednesday when M. Thierry was leaving the Foreign Office after the meeting of the experts. M. Thierry had motored from the Hyde Park Hotel to the Foreign Office and had several brief cases.

It is thought possible that he may have dropped the wallet on the sidewalk when leaving his car to enter the Foreign Office, since he recalled examining the wallet as he left the car. The nature of the lost documents was not revealed.

SHENANDOAH GOES ON TRIP.

Dirigible Makes First Flight as Armed Airship to Newport.

Special to The New York Times.

LAKEHURST, N. J., Aug. 14.—The navy dirigible Shenandoah, making its first flight as an armed airship, left the field here at 6:30 o'clock tonight for Newport, R. I. The naval authorities expect the ship to reach its destination tonight, when it will be moored to the mast of the tender Patoka. In the morning the Patoka will tow the airship out to sea. The Shenandoah will then cast loose and later return to its mooring.

It will be the first time this manoeuvre has been attempted. The test is intended to demonstrate the possibility of establishing a base at sea. The airship is expected to return to Lakerurst tomorrow night or early Sunday morning.

Before the Shenandoah left here it attained an altitude of 1,800 feet and two successful parachute descents were made, one by Alvin F. Starr, the other by Lyman H. Ford, both chief petty officers.

NEWPORT, R. I., Aug. 15 (AP).—The Shenandoah passed over Narragansett Bay at 12:45 o'clock this morning. The dirigible was flying high and was headed toward Gould Island, about three miles from here, where the Patoka is anchored.

SHOOTS HIS WIFE, THEN KILLS HIMSELF

NEIGHBOR FINDS HIS BODY

Woman in Hospital, but Is Not Badly Hurt—Couple Had Been Married 28 Years and Had 5 Children.

Despondent because of continued ill health Robert Mason, a marine engineer, shot and wounded his wife, Rose, and then ended his own life by sending a bullet into his brain yesterday afternoon in the basement of his home at 362 Clermont Avenue, Brooklyn. His wife, who was only slightly wounded, was taken to the Cumberland Street Hospital. The suicide came as a climax to many months of failing health, during which time several operations were resorted to. Mr. Mason was discharged from a Staten Island hospital only a week ago and it was said that he had been receiving treatment at the Brooklyn Hospital.

Mr. and Mrs. Mason were alone in the house. They own the house and occupied the basement and first floor, renting the upper floor. Edward Force, a neighbor living next door at 364, was in his rear yard mending a chair when he heard Mrs. Mason scream, and then the sound of a pistol shot, followed after a slight interval by another. He ran into the house to find Mason lying dead on the dining room floor with a .32 caliber pistol lying where it had fallen from his hand after he had fired the second shot and ended his life. Mrs. Mason, half hysterical, he found near the head of the stairs with blood running from a bullet wound in the right leg.

Apparently husband and wife were in the dining room when the impulse to end his life and take his wife with him came to Mason. He went to a dresser drawer and took out his pistol. Mrs. Mason, evidently starting toward her husband, saw the act.

According to information gathered by the police he pointed the revolver at her and shouted: "I am going to end all." Screaming, the wife turned and fled for the stairway, with her husband following. As she grasped the stairs and started up Mason fired one shot, which struck her in the leg and she fell.

The husband returned to the dining room and killed himself with a single bullet. Force notified the police and Dr. Silverman of Cumberland Street Hospital said that Mr. Mason had been instantly killed. The doctor attended Mrs. Mason and took her to the hospital.

Mr. Mason was 59 years old, four years older than his wife. They had been married 28 years and had lived for fifteen years in the Clermont Avenue house. There are five children, Marion, 27; Jean, 25; both of whom are at present on vacation at Lake Placid; Robert, 24, who is in the navy and at present on sea duty; Eleanor, 22 and Charles, 17, both employed in this city.

AUSTRALIA'S BUDGET CALLS FOR £56,619,000

This Is an Increase of £2,141,000 Over Last Year—Revenue Is Put at £57,474,000.

MELBOURNE, Aug. 14 (AP).—A budget calling for the expenditure of £56,619,000 by the Commonwealth Government for the coming fiscal year was presented to Parliament today by Dr. Earle G. C. Page, Commonwealth Treasurer. This figure is an increase of £2,141,000 over last year.

The Treasurer reported a surplus during the fiscal year just closed amounting to £5,018,000, while the accumulated surplus on June 30 was £4,609,000. The estimated revenue for the coming year is £57,574,000, indicating an estimated surplus of £955,000 over expenditures.

Of the Treasury surplus, £1,500,000 will be spent during the coming year for naval construction, £750,000 for highways and £100,000 for the advancement of science and industry.

During the present sitting of Parliament the Government expects to press a five-year defense program calling for two new cruisers, two oceangoing submarines, one airplane carrier, a floating dock, oil depots and an increase in the personnel of the artillery, tank and air services.

The gross national debt of Australia on June 30 was £340,947,000. The war debt has been reduced £22,000,000 during the last three years, Dr. Page said.

Further borrowing to develop the country's resources would be necessary, Dr. Page said, but added that the law now required that all debts be covered by a sinking fund providing for redemption of the debt within fifty years.

The public credit of the Commonwealth, he said, had improved, both at home and abroad, as a result of the Government's successful efforts to reduce the country's war debt.

Referring to immigration, the Treasurer said that during the last three years assisted immigrants averaging 25,000 a year have reached Australia. The Government plans to absorb 45,000 immigrants each year for the next decade.

FIND $50,000 JEWELS OF NARCOTIC 'QUEEN'

CHICAGO, Aug. 14 (AP).—Jewelry valued at $50,000 was seized today by Government agents who opened a safety deposit box leased by Kitty Gilhooley, a local narcotic "queen," whose arrest a few days ago led to the seizure of narcotics valued at $150,000. Her arrest also led to the investigation of Colonel Will Gray Beach, chief of narcotic agents here, arrested later for bartering narcotics for various kinds of merchandise, much of it stolen.

Another sensation was created by the opening of ten packing cases belonging to Beach, found yesterday. These contained the skull of a baby, one hundred Chinese bowls and several packages of narcotics. The presence of hundreds of keys, lamp shades, cigaret cases, and a sack full of cheap jackknives, seemed to evince a hobby for collecting.

The cache also held thirty-seven opium pipes, some of them of rare woods, scales for weighing drugs, lamps for cooking opium for smoking and a miscellany of other merchandise.

The former narcotic chief, out on bond, charged with conspiracy and violation of the anti-narcotic act, declined to comment on the seizure. Mrs. Gilhooley, who has been in jail since Special Intelligence agents raided her apartment, was released today on bonds of $50,000.

DEMANDS DISMISSAL OF KENTUCKY OFFICIAL

CAMP KNOX, Ky., Aug 14 (AP).—A report requesting that Adjt. Gen. A. J. Kehoe of Kentucky be dismissed from office and made to apologize to the State of Indiana and to "offended enlisted men" at Camp Knox for "ungentlemanly" conduct was forwarded to Governor Fields at Frankfort today by Brig. Gen. E. W. Carter of the Sixty-third Field Artillery Brigade, Kentucky National Guard.

Adjt. Gen. Kehoe, the report stated, is "disqualified for the position of Adjutant General of Kentucky because he has not had the service prescribed as a necessary qualification under the laws of the State."

A man claiming to be an officer and said to be General Kehoe, the report continues, damaged a radio set belonging to one of the enlisted men at Camp Knox, "treated enlisted men in an unwarranted manner" and "humiliated and insulted in a most ungentlemanly manner" a chaplain of the National Guard.

"Such actions are most injurious to the service and disgusting to the State, and cannot be overlooked or excused," Brig. Gen. Carter wrote.

"I respectfully request an investigation of these charges be made and the necessary action taken to rid the service of this officer and due apology be made to the State of Indiana for his ungentlemanly and unofficerlike conduct."

A deposition of Chaplain H. R. Griffin of the 139th Field Artillery added further to General Carter's charges. The Chaplain's deposition told of a visit to a boxing bout at the headquarters barracks. A rule forbids wagering on the outcome of such bouts, it was stated.

Chaplain Griffin said he noticed one man attempting to place a wager and said that he stepped over to remind the would-be bettor of the rule.

"It is largely a matter of politics," General Kehoe said. "I have been aware for some time that certain officers of the Kentucky National Guard have been out to 'get' me."

NEW ZEALAND REGRETS CLASH WITH SAILORS

Christchurch Incident Is Laid to Hoodlum Civilians—Bluejackets Again Get Shore Leave.

CHRISTCHURCH, N. Z., Aug. 14 (AP).—General regret is expressed here regarding the incidents of last night, when slight disorder occurred in Victoria Square between sailors of the American fleet and the larrikin element which had annoyed the sailors by shouting "Who won the war?"

The happening is deprecated by the great body of the public as an isolated example of irresponsible hoodlum spirit to which no weight need be attached in so far as the right thinking part of the community is concerned.

The incident has been relegated to oblivion and the shore leave of the sailors, which was withdrawn shortly after the clash, has been granted as usual today. Christchurch is thronged with sailors enjoying the hospitality of the city.

Wellington Entertains Officers.

WELLINGTON, N. Z., Aug. 14 (AP).—The wintry weather prevailing today did not prevent the sailors from the American fleet visiting here from enjoying the round of festivities held in their honor.

Admiral Robert E. Coontz, commander-in-chief of the United States fleet, and his officers attended a luncheon today at the New Zealand Club. Later they attended a reception at the English-Speaking Union, at which Admiral Coontz, Rear Admiral Cole and Sir Francis Bell, Attorney General of New Zealand, exchanged felicitations on the unity and friendships which bind together the English-speaking peoples.

Mrs. Coontz received a rug which was an exact duplicate of one given to the Prince of Wales when he visited here in 1920.

AUCKLAND, N. Z., Aug. 14 (AP).—Admiral S. S. Robinson and 1,000 officers and men of the United States fleet today visited Rotorua, one of the hot lakes of the thermal region of North Island. The combined tribes of natives gave them a great reception. Admiral Robinson invited the tribes to visit his flagship.

Festivities in Auckland today in honor of the fleet included a ball for the officers and the horse races.

Columbia Summer Session at End.

SAYS HYLAN LETTER TO ENRIGHT IS FALSE

Johnson Cites Board's Records to Disprove Charge of Blocking Police Increase.

CALLS IT POLITICAL PLAY

Mayor Writes to Commissioner Urging Him to Repeat Request for More Men.

Mayor Hylan informed Commissioner Enright yesterday that the failure of the Police Department to obtain more men at the last meeting of the Board of Estimate was due to Deputy Controller Frank Prial and Manhattan Public Works Commissioner Joseph Johnson. Commissioner Johnson at a meeting of the board several days ago rebuked the Mayor for trying to turn a board meeting into a primary rally.

Informed yesterday of the Mayor's statements, Mr. Johnson denied that he was against additional policemen, and he quoted from the stenographic record of the meeting to prove it. Deputy Controller Prial could not be reached for his reply.

Pointing out that the Commissioner's request for 500 additional policemen and twenty-five additional policewomen had met with failure, the Mayor expressed the "hope that these gentlemen," referring to Mr. Prial and Mr. Johnson, supporters of the Tammany primary candidates, "will discontinue playing politics and that at the next meeting of the board they will vote to allow you to increase your force by these additions."

Urges Request for 2,000 Men.

The Mayor added:

"In the preparation for your 1926 budget, make a request for an additional 2,000 men. At this time we are not in a position to say whether the necessary money will be available for this increase, but if it is possible to find the money I shall endeavor to induce the board to go along with me in giving you the 2,000 or as many of that number as we can find the funds to pay. Because of the large recent developments in the Bronx, Brooklyn, Queens and Richmond, and the additional increase in the population of our city the necessity for more police is evident."

Mr. Johnson, who represented Borough President Julius Miller at the Board of Estimate meeting, read a copy of the letter the Mayor had written to Commissioner Enright. Then he said:

"Well, I suppose the Mayor is so nervous nowadays that he really doesn't know what he is saying. A stenographic record of the meeting that he refers to in that letter will show that the statement contained in the letter is false.

"I made it perfectly plain in what I said at the meeting that I was not opposed to increasing the Police Department. I merely opposed acting on the Mayor's resolution at the meeting without first giving the matter consideration. Mayor Hylan and Commissioner Enright have had many opportunities to ask for additional police. It was not necessary for the Mayor, if he wanted more police, to wait until the beginning of the primary campaign and then spring this proposition on us in the form of a resolution on which he wanted immediate action.

"The request was one that would call for an additional expenditure of about $1,000,000 a year, and it is one that should be carefully considered and not acted upon hastily."

Writes Letter to Enright.

In addition to this reply, Commissioner Johnson said that he had written to Commissioner Enright as follows:

Aug. 14, 1925.

My dear Commissioner:

The Mayor sent you a letter today saying that Deputy Controller Prial and I voted against your request for 500 additional policemen and twenty-five additional policewomen.

The stenographic minutes of the meeting of the Board of Estimate on Aug. 11 show how completely the Mayor is in error. After Mr. Prial had called the Mayor's attention to the fact that the appointments could not be made until Oct. 1, the stenographic record reads:

Mr. Prial—We have until the next regular meeting of the board to determine that. It should be given some consideration in the Committee of the Whole.

Acting President Johnson—I am not voting against additional men.

Mr. Prial—Neither am I.

Acting President Johnson—I am against pulling this stuff off all of a sudden.

The man who kept us out of new subways has had seven years, seven months and fourteen days in which to properly man the police force.

There is not a citizen or policeman who is going to pay any attention to him now when at the beginning of a primary fight he announces his willingness to give you enough men to suppress banditry, crime and disorder.

With kind regards.

Yours truly,

[Signed] JOS. JOHNSON.
Commissioner.

ACCUSED OF SWINDLING GIRL

Two Charged With Working Money-Making Machine to Get $2,500.

Charged with swindling Miss Irene Moses, a maid employed in the home of a physician at 789 West End Avenue, out of $2,500, Andrew Rose of 663 Tinton Avenue, the Bronx, and Moses Arnold of 248 Avenue B, were held in $5,000 bail each yesterday in the West Side Court for a hearing on Monday.

Miss Moses told the court that she had known Rose for several years, and that about three months ago he introduced Arnold to her. She said that Arnold gained her confidence, and telling her that he had recently left a job in the United States Mint where he had perfected a machine for making money, he suggested that she allow him to increase her fortune.

According to her testimony, she drew her savings from the bank and placed in the machine—a wooden box covered with cloth. Arnold, she said, told her to leave it there overnight, pouring water through a hole every two hours. In the morning when she opened the box, she said, she found nothing but wet scraps of blank paper.

GOV. SMITH'S SON GETS POLICE LECTURE

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, N. Y., Aug. 14.—Walter Smith, 12-year-old son of Governor Smith, is not going to play ball in the street any more, and he is to use his influence to prevent others from doing it, so he told the police after he had been escorted to a police station. He was not arrested, and no entry was made on the police blotter.

Walter with other boys was playing ball in front of the Executive Mansion in Eagle Street on Wednesday night. This is a busy thoroughfare, and many automobiles dart around the corners. Neighbors sent word to the police and Policemen Grube and Roehr stopped the game. When the policemen approached Walter the other boys scurried away.

"Smith," he replied.

"Where do you live?"

"In Eagle Street, I don't know the number."

"Well, I guess you'll have to come with us," and the policemen pointed to the police car.

Walter's lip trembled. "But I can't go to jail now, I'm going to New York on the night boat with my father," he said.

"Who is your father?" asked the policemen.

"Governor Smith."

"I'm surprised," said the policeman, "to find you playing with such a gang of roughnecks. Don't you know you shouldn't play ball in the street?"

Walter looked his indignation, and, according to the policeman, spoke up:

"Every one of these boys is just as good as I am, even if my father is Governor."

Then his lip trembled again, and he said: "Well, I guess you'll have to arrest me just the same."

Walter rode to the police station a few blocks away, where he promised the police he would use his influence to stop ball playing in the street. Then the police took him home.

"He's certainly a plucky little fellow," said Policeman Roehr. "We felt sorry for him, of course, but we had to do it. I'm glad it's over."

OFFICIALS FIND WAY TO PROSECUTE REEME

Kansas City Dry Advocate Who Threatened Mellon Will Be Held as 'Indecent Letter' Writer.

Special to The New York Times.

KANSAS CITY, Aug. 14.—The Federal Government found a way this afternoon by which it could move against Will K. Reeme, the prohibition advocate, held here as the writer of a threatening letter to Secretary Mellon. A warrant will be issued charging Reeme with writing an "indecent letter," Samuel M. Carmean, Assistant United States District Attorney, said.

The maximum sentence provided for conviction on this charge is a fine of $5,000 and five years' imprisonment. The Criminal Code describes as an "indecent communication" any letter "whose wording tends to incite arson, murder or assassination."

Apparently Mr. Reeme will not have the advice of lawyers. John F. Cell, who has represented him in many of his affairs, talked with him today and walked away.

"His free rides from me are past," said Mr. Cell. "I received no assurance of a fee, and I refuse to represent him without pay, as I have done several times."

Mr. Reeme showed no dejection today as he reiterated that he really did not mean to kill Mr. Mellon. The letter, he explained, was only his musings as to the punishment due to the Cabinet officer for his alleged neglect to uphold the Volstead Act in public utterances.

Except for one woman, prohibition friends of old failed to appear to comfort Mr. Reeme, and there were no telegrams of encouragement.

BISHOP BROWN REAPPEALS.

Wants New Church Court Formed to Reconsider His Deposition.

GALION, Ohio, Aug. 14 (AP).—Bishop William Montgomery Brown made public today an application to the general convention of the Protestant Episcopal Church requesting the creation of an ultimate court of appeals to reconsider the sentence pronounced against him by a court of reviews for alleged error of doctrine.

The application requested the House of Bishops to withhold action in confirming the sentence of deposition until the two houses of the general convention had had an opportunity to act upon the application, which was accompanied by a brief "to inform your respective bodies of the facts and of the substantial and serious nature of the errors which occurred in my trial."

If the convention declined the proposal Bishop Brown asked permission to appear personally before the House of Bishops to present his defense.

"My basic contention," an accompanying letter said, "is that the Church today cannot set up any standard of orthodoxy, and therefore cannot prosecute in good faith any charge of heresy."

RAIDS FOLLOW BOYS' STORY.

Their Father, a Woman and Alleged Liquor Sellers Arrested.

Three brothers, whose ages range from 10 to 14, walked into Newark Police Headquarters yesterday and complained that they were compelled to buy whisky for their father and a woman, living at 69 Belleville Avenue.

As a result, the police an hour later raided a candy store at 178 High Street and arrested William and Lena Natale, proprietors of the place. They also confiscated five jugs of alcohol, six bottles of assorted liquor and several containers of coloring. The couple were held in $2,500 bail charged with illegally possessing liquor.

Following this raid the police went to the Belleville Avenue house where they arrested the boys' father, Merrill Nichols, and Mrs. Jennie Reise on statutory charges. They were held in $2,000 bail each.

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 14.—A wave of excitement was caused in the Marriage License Bureau of Los Angeles County today when a man who gave the name of Harold Sterring Vanderbilt, 31, applied for and received a license to wed Bernice Collier, 19, of Burley, Idaho.

When asked if he was a member of the New York family, he said:

"I'd rather not talk about that now."

POLICE LIFE SAVERS RECEIVE MEDALS

Supported Them Till Launch Picked Them Up—Patrolman Made Rescue in River Amid Ice.

Nine bronze medals and one gold medal were presented yesterday by Police Commissioner Richard E. Enright on behalf of the Life Saving Benevolent Association to ten policemen who had saved persons from drowning during 1924. In addition to the medal each policeman received $25 in gold in recognition of his heroism.

The gold medal was awarded to Sergeant Luke H. Grace of the Ralph Avenue Station in Brooklyn because his saving of a life was the second for which he had been honored. The first was in 1919, when he got a bronze medal, and the second was for diving from the Battery Wall and rescuing a boy who had fallen overboard from an excursion steamer.

Sergeant William R. Rector of the Harbor Squad received a bronze medal for rescuing two fellow policemen who, with him, had been injured in an explosion on a police launch in the East River. Rector, stunned by being thrown against a barge, recalled Sergeant Gibbons and Patrolman McGlynn had been in the motor room. He remembered Gibbons had dived into the water with his clothing blazing. Rector dived after him and was supporting him when he saw McGlynn jump into the water. He seized him also and was treading water with them when the two men were seized with cramps. He got them away from the blazing launch, however, where he thought the gasoline tank would explode, and supported them until a launch picked them up. The two other men died of their injuries, and Rector has not yet recovered from the shock.

Patrolman Edward F. Welch of the West Forty-seventh Street Station was honored for rescuing a boy who had fallen from a stringpiece into the North River at midnight.

Lieutenant Edward J. McQuade and Patrolman Emil Grollmund were honored together for going in a launch to the aid of a boy and girl whose canoe had got into difficulties in Jamaica Bay and bringing them safely ashore.

Patrolman Henry F. Berger of Traffic B got honorable mention in addition to his medal for, on his day off, making two trips fully clothed into the surf at Rockaway and saving the lives of two girls whose male companion was drowned.

Detective Andrew M. O'Connor of the East 126th Street Station was swimming at Long Beach on his day off when he heard cries for help and saw a man and woman locked in each other's arms 75 yards out, drowning. He made two trips and saved both.

Patrolman Reuben W. Loehmann of Traffic C rescued Mary Sweeney of the Bronx, who, although she could not swim, dived into the East River in a frantic attempt to save her son who was drowning. She was unconscious when Lochmann reached her and had to be resuscitated.

William C. Neumann of the Marine Division jumped into the Hudson River amid floating ice in January to rescue a man who had sunk twice. Patrolman Swanson, who followed Neumann into the water, was overcome by the cold and had to be rescued, but Neumann held the drowning man and swam to a pier, where the tide pulled the man from his grasp, but again he caught him and then other policemen pulled both ashore.

Patrolman Victor Lax of the Poplar Street Station, Brooklyn, saved a blind man who had stepped from a pier into the water at the foot of Furman Street, Brooklyn, diving after him in his Winter overcoat, twice having the tide drag the man from his grasp and twice regaining his hold and then tying ropes about the men and himself so men above could lift them to the pier.

NEW MORALS RULE APPLIED IN CHICAGO

St. Louis Couple Arrested in Hotel Room Are Forced to Undergo Blood Test.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, Aug. 14.—Thomas Fisher Lawrence, a St. Louis business man, and Mrs. Julia Gruner, a widow, of the same city, who were trapped in a Lake Shore Drive hotel by Mrs. Lawrence last night, were compelled today to undergo the routine blood test required of every defendant in the Morals Court.

Mr. Lawrence and Mrs. Gruner had been released in bonds of $1,500 each and their hearing had been set by Judge William Bolander for Aug. 26, when Dr. Herman Bundesen, Health Commissioner, ordered them into his laboratory for the test. Mr. Lawrence refused to submit at first, but Dr. Bundesen declared he would make no exception to a new regulation requiring men as well as women defendants in the Morals Court to take the blood test.

"Unless you submit to this test," the Commissioner told Mr. Lawrence, "I'll have to order you quarantined for thirty days in the Lawndale Hospital."

Then Mr. Lawrence gave in and, with Mrs. Gruner went to the laboratory. The test was ended in twenty minutes and the outcome was satisfactory. Then the two got into a taxicab and left the City Hall.

Mrs. Gruner was held all night by the police in an effort to force her to submit to a health test. Dr. Bundesen instructed officials at the laboratories not to make the examination unless Mr. Lawrence was similarly treated.

"If it's right to test the woman it's right to test the man," the Health Commissioner told Judge Helander at the hearing. "That's only just. And if they don't consent I'm going to uphold the State law and quarantine both of them for thirty days."

The couple faced Judge Helander with their attorney, Edward J. McCarthy. Mrs. Lawrence was not present. Neither spoke a word during the short hearing, but after the Judge had continued the case Mrs. Gruner was led into the jurist's chambers by Mr. Lawrence.

The journey from the Judge's chambers on the eleventh floor of the City Hall to the office of Dr. Bundesen on the seventh floor was marked by the constant booming of photographers' flashlights. Mr. Lawrence, bending low and with his straw hat over his face, led the march. Once, unable to see where he was going, he bumped into a table. Following him was a friend, and immediately in the back of the latter, with her face covered by a fur, was Mrs. Gruner.

Mr. Lawrence left his home and came to Chicago a week ago, ostensibly on a business trip. A few days later a friend told Mrs. Lawrence her husband and Mrs. Gruner had been seen to enter the hotel together. Mrs. Lawrence came here immediately and obtained a warrant for the couple's arrest.

Mrs. Lawrence was once the wife of George M. Pullman Jr., son of the founder of the Pullman Company, but they were divorced.

Leaps Off Manhattan Bridge Into River; Dies After Rescue by Two Swimmers

An unidentified young man, believed to be either Chinese or Japanese, leaped from Manhattan Bridge into East River near the Brooklyn shore early last evening. He was rescued by two young men who were swimming in the river and was taken to Cumberland Street Hospital. He was unconscious and probably was injured internally, and died a few hours later.

The bridge jumper wore a cheap, dark suit. He was about 23 years old, five feet five inches tall and weighs 120 pounds. There was nothing in his pockets by which he could be identified. He had no money.

Martin Gannon, 25 years old, of 72 Caliman Street, Brooklyn, and Harry O'Hagan, 15 years old, of 209 Jay Street, Brooklyn, were swimming off the foot of Washington Street when they saw a man hurtling through the air. They swam out to where he struck the water, seized him when he came up and held him until a tug, owned by O'Brien Bros. Towing Company, steamed up and a rope was thrown to them.

MARINO GOES BACK TO MURDER SCENE

SEEK ANOTHER AS SLAYER

Fearing a possible outbreak because of the feeling which was caused by the brutal killing of an inspector and a motorman in the hold-up of a one-man trolley car in Mount Vernon on July 20, a score of policemen were on guard at Police Headquarters in Mount Vernon yesterday when John (Dopey) Marino, charged with being one of the murderers, was taken there from Manhattan.

Marino, who was captured in the Bronx on Thursday afternoon, was conveyed to Mount Vernon in an automobile with John Barillo, arrested early yesterday as a material witness. As the automobile containing the prisoners and four detectives pulled up at the main entrance of the building in Mount Vernon a crowd of over a thousand which had assembled drew closer. Mutterings about violence were heard. The police formed a hollow square and kept back the crowd while the prisoners were led inside.

A formal charge of homicide was lodged against Marino, who was almost in a state of collapse after a long questioning the night before at Manhattan headquarters. Late in the afternoon, it was said, he broke down in his cell and cried:

"I didn't do it. I'm not to blame. Why do they call me Dopey? I don't use dope."

Search for a Drug Addict.

The man who did the actual shooting in the hold-up is believed to have been a drug addict who had used a hypodermic syringe which was found near the trolley car after the murder. Marino was at first thought to have been the man who fired the shots, but Deputy Sheriff Frank Cherico said that in interrogating him he had received information that led him to believe that another man was the actual slayer. This man was said to be an addict.

This suspect, according to the Deputy Sheriff, bears a striking resemblance to Marino and is known as John Daly. He said that the resemblance might account for the fact that passengers in the trolley car at the time of the hold-up had identified Marino as the killer from photographs.

The name of Daly was obtained both from Marino and from his friend, Marion Mooney, Cherico declared. Miss Mooney was released Thursday morning under $1,000 bail as a material witness. Cherico said that she supplied part of the information which led to Marino's arrest. Cherico declared that he was also supplied with the name of two others who took part in the hold-up. He said that the men were known to be here and that their arrest was expected shortly.

Marino and Borillo will be held at Mount Vernon for at least two days before being removed to the County Jail at White Plains. The case will be placed before the Grand Jury as soon as possible, it was said.

Medical Examiner Amos O. Squire will direct the questioning today on his return from a fishing trip. He will confront Marino with the passengers in the trolley car.

Sought Funds to Escape.

Marino, according to the police, has admitted that he was at the scene at the time of the killing, but has denied that he did the shooting.

Marino was trying desperately to get funds to go to Havana when he was captured, it was learned. He went to Toledo after the murder, he is said to have admitted, and returned to the city because of the illness of a sister in the Kings County Hospital. When he discovered that detectives were aware of his whereabouts he hurriedly solicited his friends for money and had collected almost enough for passage to Cuba when captured.

The two men killed in the hold-up were Jacob Schumacher, an inspector, and Robert C. Nichols, a motorman. They were shot down without warning, and Schumacher's last words were:

"He never gave me a chance."

Schenectady Round-Up Totals 7, With $8,000 Loot Recovered.

SCHENECTADY, Aug. 14 (AP).—The arrest of three men here tonight charged with robbing the mails brought to seven the number of men now held in jail or on bail in connection with a series of robberies extending over ten months. In the homes of the men arrested tonight, and in homes of their friends, police said, more than $2,000 worth of stolen merchandise was recovered, making the total value of recovered goods about $8,000.

Those arrested tonight were:

According to the police, the men have signed confessions admitting the thefts.

Suicide Note Mystery Unsolved.

Efforts of the police to shed further light of the suicide note found Thursday night in the Pennsylvania Station were unavailing yesterday. The note declared that the author would have taken his life by the time the message was read. The signature read "W. B. Bayer," and the address at the heading was 350 Madison Avenue, which proved to be the Borden Building. The superintendent said he knew of no one employed in that building by the name of Bayer.

SCREAMS OF GIRL THWART HOLD-UP

TWO SUSPECTS CAPTURED

Shots and Auto Chase Precede Arrest—Detectives Seeking a Third Alleged Robber.

Shortly after three armed men held up Charles Quinn, manager of the Wegman Piano Company at 26 Tenth Avenue, yesterday and were frightened away by the scream of a girl employe, two young men who sped through the streets in an automobile and fired three shots at a policeman who commanded them to halt were arrested and identified as two of the hold-up men.

Mr. Quinn and two girl employes were preparing a $1,000 payroll on the first floor when the three men appeared at the door and commanded them to hold up their hands. All complied, but one of the girls involuntarily screamed.

The cry seemed to upset the intruders. One struck Mr. Quinn on the head with a pistol and all ran down to the street, followed by the manager, who saw them jump into an automobile and disappear north on Tenth Avenue.

A few minutes later Detective Thomas McVeigh, standing at Ninth Avenue and Fifteenth Street, saw a touring car containing two men drive rapidly through Fifteenth Street toward Tenth Avenue. He recognized the occupants as young men known to the police. They ignored his command to halt, and as the detective reached for his pistol one fired three shots at him. The car then disappeared around the corner of Tenth Avenue.

Accompanied by Detectives Kane and Smith, McVeigh went to 463 West Nineteenth Street and there later they arrested John Murray, 17, and John Reilly, 19, who, McVeigh said, were in the automobile. They were taken to the Wegman Piano Company and Mr. Quinn identified them as two of the men who had entered the shop. The police are seeking a third man.

The parkway drive heretofore has been used by motorists as far as White Plains. Mr. Downer at 11 o'clock tomorrow morning will take down the barriers that have closed the Valhalla Bridge. Some finishing work is still to be done along the parkway and on the Valhalla Bridge.

TO SELL MORTGAGED FARMS.

Northwestern Corporation Is Formed to Market Frozen Assets.

ST. PAUL, Aug. 14 (AP).—Frozen assets of more than one hundred Northwestern banks, trust companies, farm loan organizations and insurance companies will be marketed through a corporation organized for the purpose.

Howard Everett, formerly Democratic National Committeeman from Minnesota and a land colonizer, has announced the plan, formulated by the institutions holding the "frozen" paper.

Thousands of Northwestern farms have been turned over to this marketing agency and they will be sold on an easy payment plan to the type of farmers who more than a decade ago settled the last of the homesteads in this territory.

She Wins Enoch Arden Decree.

A decree under the Enoch Arden law, dissolving the marriage of Mrs. Ava E. Redding of 449 East Forty-ninth Street to Forman H. Redding, former army Lieutenant, was filed in the Supreme Court in Brooklyn yesterday. The decree, signed by Justice Benedict in Europe, was mailed to the court. Mrs. Redding said that she was married to Redding on Nov. 5, 1919, five months after his discharge from the 104th Field Artillery, in which organization he served overseas. He disappeared from their home in Gastonia, W. Va., in January, 1920.

WOMEN'S SWINDLER GETS 5-YEAR TERM

Hamilton Admits Victimizing Many Applicants for Domestic Jobs.

GOT $10 TO $650 FROM EACH

George Hamilton, 42 years old, of Boston, Mass., who swindled many women of small means out of their savings by posing as a wealthy physician and advertising in newspapers for a governess, was sentenced yesterday by Judge Francis X. Mancuso in General Sessions to serve five years in Sing Sing. He had pleaded guilty to a charge of grand larceny in the second degree.

Hamilton, who lived at the best hotels and whose aliases were almost as numerous as his victims, had been sought by detectives for six weeks previous to his arrest, July 23 last. When he was identified by one of his victims and taken to the West Thirtieth Street Police Station handcuffed to Detective Clancy, he laughingly told Captain of Detectives John Stapleton he had been living at the Hotel Breslin, Broadway and Twenty-ninth Street, less than three blocks from the station house.

He admitted victimizing many women and freely discussed case after case with Captain Stapleton, to whose questions he sometimes replied by saying, "Well, I guess I got her, too. I don't remember exactly. What did she look like?" or "Let's see, how much did I get from her? Oh, yes, now I remember." He admitted he had obtained amounts ranging from $10 to $650. He used such names as Dr. La Grande, Dr. Lamonde, Dr. Leroy and many others.

Hamilton was indicted on the complaint of Miss Rose Jager of the Swiss Home at 35 West Sixty-seventh Street, from whom he obtained $650, after he had "employed" her as a governess. In sentencing Hamilton, Judge Mancuso said:

"The Court is glad to emphasize the fact that newspapers of this city do everything possible to protect the public. This sentence should be a warning to others that the advertising columns of our newspapers cannot be used as a means of defrauding the public."

In addition to advertising for a governess, Hamilton answered advertisements by women seeking positions of that kind. At first he would send a rented automobile for the women who answered his advertisements, but later, through fear that the police would discover him by checking up the numbers of these cars, he used taxicabs. The prospective victim was "employed" and sometimes told he intended to deposit a large sum of money in her bank in her name, so that she might draw on that for expenses incurred by his children. Then he would announce that, as he once had been victimized, he would have to ask her to give him control of her savings account.

On other occasions he would take the woman on a shopping tour and suddenly announce he had only two Boston checks with him. The woman would be asked to cash them for him. At other times he would say merely that he had forgotten to bring any money along and would accept even $10 from his victim.

On one occasion he obtained $10 from a woman who had advertised for a position as chambermaid. But even to that type of victim he talked of his wonderful country estates, and in other ways conveyed the belief that he was a man of great wealth. He is said to have admitted to Captain Stapleton that he conducted his "business" systematically and tried to get something from some woman every day. When "business" was dull with him he would accept the smaller amounts obtained by the simpler expedient of telling the victim he had forgotten to put any money in his pocket before leaving his hotel.

Hamilton, Judge Mancuso was informed, had a criminal record which included terms for forgery in the States of Washington and Montana and in British Columbia. He is married. He said he had a sick child and decided he could make some "easy money" in New York.

CLERK THWARTS HOLD-UPS.

Surprises Two Men Robbing Storekeeper and Calls Police.

Frank Friedman, a clerk in George Ringelholz's confectionery at 191 Myrtle Avenue, Brooklyn, was in the basement last midnight when a young man entered the shop and asked Ringelholz for a bar of chocolate. As Ringelholz reached for the candy a second man came in holding a pistol and commanded the confectioner to hold up his hands.

The two men threw Ringelholz down and were tying and gagging him when Friedman came up the basement stairs and saw them. Softly he retreated to the basement, ascended stairs leading to the sidewalk and called Patrolman Frank Vogel.

The two men had taken $57 from the cash register and were leaving the shop when the policeman arrived, holding his pistol. He told them to stop, but one dropped the pistol he held and ran at the policeman, who struck him over the head with his nightstick, stopping him, whereupon the second man surrendered.

They said they were Morris Mager, 21 years old, of 60 First Street, and Thomas Burns, 27 years old, of the Olympia Hotel, Forty-second Street and Third Avenue, both of Manhattan. Burns said he was once a policeman at Niagara Falls and was dismissed for intoxication.

ARREST POLITICIAN'S SON.

Police Say Wagner, Separated From Wife, Tried to Take Son.

George H. Wagner of 2,543 165th Street, Flushing, son of John Wagner, former Postmaster of Long Island City and Republican leader of the First Assembly District, is under $500 bail to appear in the Flushing Police Court next Tuesday on a charge of disorderly conduct. He was arrested at Depot Lane and Twenty-fourth Street, Flushing, Thursday night by Patrolmen Edward Doyle and George Ferguson of the Flushing precinct.

Wagner and his wife were separated by a decree in the Queens Supreme Court several weeks ago. The wife received custody of their five-year-old son part of the time. On Thursday evening Wagner met his wife at Broadway and Twenty-second Street, walking with the child. He tried to persuade the child to go with him, but the latter refused, the police say. Then he picked up the boy and started away with him. The child's screams caused a crowd to collect. Then the policemen came up and arrested Wagner.

Rudder Mishap Delays Ferryboat.

Staten Island commuters were delayed for a half hour yesterday morning, when the ferryboat Mayor Gaynor lost that much time through a jammed rudder, which made it necessary on the 8:10 A. M. trip from Whitehall Street to back the vessel into the slip at St. George.

GIRL, 10, IS DROWNED TEN FEET FROM SHORE

Two Boys Saved After Waves Drag Them From Beach—Unidentified Body Recovered.

Evelyn Barker, 10 years old, living with her parents in Tent 116, Camp City, Coney Island, was seized with cramps yesterday while swimming off the foot of Twenty-fifth Avenue, Brooklyn, only ten feet from shore.

John Barker, her father, swam to her aid. She had gone down once but came to the surface quickly and he got her ashore easily, but she was unconscious and his efforts and those of Dr. Rosen of Coney Island Hospital failed to revive her.

George Milykou, 2 years old, of 358 East 158th Street, and Francis Welsh, 2, of 1,376 Brook Avenue, both of the Bronx, were standing in knee-deep water at Orchard Beach on Long Island Sound near City Island yesterday afternoon when the storm came up and pushed up waves which carried them twenty-five feet out into the Sound.

The screams of their mothers and other women attracted Milton Fallberg of 1,157 Fox Street, the Bronx, who ran into the watar, grasped a child in each hand and got them ashore. Members of the Black Rock Life Saving Station worked over the two boys until the arrival of Dr. Levy of Fordham Hospital, who revived them with a pulmotor and took them to that institution.

The body of an unidentified man was recovered from the East River between Twenty-third and Twenty-fourth Streets yesterday after John Anderson, captain of the steamship lighter Rockaway told the police he had seen the man fall from a boathead into thirty feet of water. The man seemed about 45 years old, weighed 150 pounds, had black hair and a mixed gray mustache and wore a brown suit, black shoes and socks and a polka dot tie. In the pocket was found a laundry ticket with the address 388 First Avenue.

The body of Walter Ersmeyer, 20 years old and the son of a grocer of 124 Hudson Street, Hoboken, was recovered from the North River yesterday near the foot of Sixteenth Street, Jersey City. Ersmeyer is believed to have stumbled from a barge upon which he was delivering groceries Wednesday night and drowned.

Drowns Before Aid Can Reach Him.

WILDWOOD, N. J., Aug. 14.—An unidentified bather was a considerable distance from shore off the foot of Taylor Avenue here today when other bathers heard him cry for help. Before he could be reached he was drowned. He was about 5 feet 9 inches tall and had dark hair and a small gray mustache.

DRIVERS COULD NOT WRITE.

Taxi Men Say 'Notary' Signed Their Chauffeurs' Licenses.

Assistant United States Attorney Herman Forster notified the office of State License Commissioner Charles A. Harnett yesterday that two taxicab drivers arrested Thursday for an alleged violation of the prohibition law, held chauffeurs' licenses to which some one else had signed their names. Both prisoners, Mr. Forster said, admitted they could not write.

The chauffeurs, Joe Morone of 78 Mulberry Street and James Froreti of 151 Jackson Street, told Mr. Forster their names had been written upon the licenses by "the notary." Mr. Forster said Commissioner Harnett would look into the matter. At Mr. Harnett's office it was said that he had gone on his vacation.

Morone and Froreti, with five others, were arrested in front of 82 Mulberry Street where, it was alleged, alcohol had been unloaded from a truck. They showed their drivers' licenses as identification, but when told to write their names said they could not do so.

STOLE FURNITURE FOR BRIDE

Prisoner Says He Intended to Use It in Home After Marriage.

David T. Harmon of 14 Lincoln Place, Brooklyn, pleaded guilty yesterday before County Judge Alonzo G. McLaughlin in Brooklyn to third degree burglary on a charge of removing all the furniture early last month from the apartment of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Vallette of 97 East Eighteenth Street, Brooklyn. He was remanded for sentence.

Harmon, who was arrested on July 29, went to the home of the Vallettes peddling burglar alarms, and finding the family away entered the apartment by a dumbwaiter. He gave as a reason for removing the furniture to a storage warehouse on Atlantic Avenue that he was about to be married to a girl in the Bronx, whose name he refused to divulge, and that he had taken the furniture to put in the home he intended to establish. Vallette gave the value of the furniture as $1,300.

Before his plea of guilty Harmon said the furniture had been returned and that he was willing to pay for any damage.

JAILED FOR TAXI HOLD-UP.

Stole Driver's $15 Because He and Wife Were Starving, Walters Says.

Jack Walters, 21 years old, of 1,249 La Salle Street, Chicago, who said he robbed because he was starving, was sentenced yesterday by Judge Francis X. Mancuso, in General Sessions, to serve from six months to three years in the penitentiary. He had pleaded guilty to a charge of assault in the second degree.

Walters said he and his wife walked here from Chicago to look for work and were starving when they held up and robbed Henry Archmofsky, a taxicab driver, of 256 Monroe Street, on July 21. They entered the taxicab at Fourteenth Street and Second Avenue, ordered Archmofsky to drive uptown, and on Cooper Street Walters pressed a pistol against the driver's back and robbed him of $15. The couple surrendered on advice of Assistant District Attorney Albert B. Unger, and the indictment against Mrs. Walters was dismissed.

MISS FONTAINE WINS POINT.

Whitney's Answer in $1,000,000 Suit Must Follow Court's Order.

Supreme Court Justice Churchill denied yesterday the application by the attorneys for Cornelius Vanderbilt Whitney to compel counsel for Evan Burrows Fontaine, dancer, to accept his answer in her $1,000,000 breach of promise suit. Miss Fontaine's attorney asserted that the answer contained matter previously stricken out by the Court.

Justice Churchill directed Mr. Whitney's attorneys to comply with the previous Court order, and stated that they might ask permission subsequently to file a further answer.

Crowd Sees Man Die on Third Rail.

Scores of men and women, waiting on the Elm Street Station of the Fulton elevated line, in Brooklyn, yesterday afternoon, saw Patrick Finnigan, 25 years old of 1,849 Broadway, Brooklyn, a B. M. T. track walker, slip and stumble on the third rail. He was thrown ten feet into the air and fell back on the third rail, his clothing bursting into flame. The power was shut off and the body was removed.

HURLS A LEAD PIPE INTO BANK WINDOW

Nephew of McNeil, Restaurateur, Says He Was Tricked Into Deeding Property to Wife.

NOW SEPARATED FROM HER

Business in the Title Guaranty and Trust Company at 176 Broadway came to a sudden halt yesterday when the sound of shattered plate glass, accompanied by the thud of a piece of lead pipe falling on the floor, was heard throughout the bank.

Some one on the sidewalk had thrown the pipe through the window facing Broadway. Outside a well-dressed, middle-aged, gesticulating man, asserting he had been "robbed of a fortune," stood surrounded by a crowd.

He was arrested and said he was Samuel McNeil, 55 years old, of 619 Macon Street, Brooklyn. He asserted he had accumulated $100,000 in the restaurant business at Vesey and Washington Streets with his uncle, Thomas McNeil, a member of the famous old firm of Smith & McNeil, and that a Brooklyn agent of the Title Guaranty and Trust Company had persuaded him to sign a paper which he later had learned transferred his property to his wife, from whom he is separated.

Clinton D. Burdick, President of the bank, said that several years ago McNeil went to the Brooklyn office of the bank voluntarily and asked to have drawn a deed transferring his property to his wife. Recently, he continued, McNeil had caused considerable annoyance there by charging he had been tricked into signing the transfer.

McNeil was held by Magistrate Goodman in the Tombs Court in $2,500 bail for Special Sessions, and the Magistrate said he would recommend an investigation of his sanity.

MARY'S ONE-EYED DO

6 IMMIGRANTS LAND UNDER NEW SYSTEM

All Hail From Wales, Whence Came the First Alien Who Was Not Examined Here.

CHARLES LANCTOT ARRIVES

Canadian Official Back on Aquitania After Discussing Colonial Problems in London.

The Cunarder Aquitania, which arrived yesterday from Southampton and Cherbourg, brought six more immigrants from Pontypridd, South Wales, who had passed the medical examination by the public health officers at Southampton and were allowed to land at the pier after the immigration inspectors had seen them on the way up from Quarantine.

They all hail from the same part of Wales as the lone immigrant who arrived on the Homeric Wednesday night. It is also the birthplace of the Secretary of Labor, John J. Davis.

Among the first-cabin passengers was Charles Lanctot, K. C., Deputy Attorney General for the Dominion of Canada, who was returning from London, where he had appeared before the Privy Council on colonial matters. One, he said, was the question as to who owns the bed and banks of the St. Lawrence River at Montreal, where the harbor works have been constructed at a cost of $20,000,000.

The cases as to the St. Lawrence River dispute, he said, would be decided in October. The issue, he continued, involved is "Can the Dominion Parliament, in the exercise, of its legislative jurisdiction, appropriate public lands belonging to the Provinces without the consent of the Provinces concerned?"

Attitude on Macmillan Trip.

He was asked what the attitude of Canada would be if Macmillan discovered any land at the North Pole and claimed it for the United States.

"That is something which the future alone may decide," the Deputy Attorney General replied. "I cannot make any conjectures." He added that if such a question as that did come up he felt confident that, like many others between the United States and Canada, it would be settled amicably at Washington.

Another passenger on the Aquitania was J. A. de Bianchi, Portuguese Minister to China, on his way to Peking, who said he had traveled via the United States to call at Washington.

"It is important," said the Minister, "that I discuss the American program in the Far East with the Administration in Washington, as the American Government is the dominant factor in determining the general foreign policy in China." He added that he would spend some time in Tokio with the Japanese Government officials before continuing to Peking.

Also on the liner was Major F. Fetherstonhaugh, manager of the King's stables at Buckingham Palace, who is going with Sir Glynn West of Armstrong, Whitworth & Co., and Lady West, to the races at Saratoga Springs on their way to Montreal.

BERLIN, Aug. 14 (AP).—The Siemens-Schuckert Electrical Company of Berlin has signed a contract with the Irish Free State Government for the construction of a large hydroelectric plant on the River Shannon to supply light and power to a large area in the Free State. The Siemens-Schuckert firm declined today to make known the sum involved.

The work will be carried by a subsidiary company to be known as the Siemens Construction Union.

EXPERTS TO DRAFT SECURITY COMPACT

Meeting of French, British and German Legal Advisers Will Take Place at an Early Date.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Aug. 14.—Austen Chamberlain's report on the result of his conference with M. Briand has been heartily approved by the British Cabinet, which is much pleased with what was accomplished. The French reply to the German note, which was considered at the meeting of the two foreign Ministers, will, it is expected, be dispatched to Berlin next week. It will contain a clause which it is hoped will give the German Government opportunity of beginning negotiations that will lead to the final compact.

These negotiations are likely to begin by a personal conversation among legal experts of France, Great Britain and Germany, perhaps before the end of the month. Sir Cecil Hurst, legal expert of the British Foreign Office; M. Fromageot, who occupies the same position at the Quai d'Orsay, and Dr. Gaus, the German legal adviser, will meet to discuss the compact and its implications from the legal point of view. It is presumed Dr. Gaus would bring the version as the German Government desires it, as stress is laid here on the fact that the compact is a German suggestion and Germany enters the negotiations on absolutely equal terms with England and France. Fromageot and Hurst would, of course, have the draft which they have already drawn up as representing their ideas, and from these documents the final compact, it is hoped, will be evolved.

These conversations will be absolutely confidential, but the place is not yet fixed. It is possible they may be held in London, but that is a matter for future decision.

Brussels and Rome Consulted.

PARIS, Aug. 14 (AP).—The French note on the proposed security pact, which with the approval of the Allies will be sent to Germany early next week, already has been approved in principle by the Belgian Government, to which it was communicated unofficially while the London negotiations were in progress.

The note will be sent to Rome this afternoon, and the approval of the Mussolini Government of the text is expected to be received in Paris in time to forward the note to Berlin Monday or Tuesday.

It is learned from members of Foreign Minister Briand's party who returned from London last night that the original French text was used as the basis for the final draft of the note. It is stated that the changes made at the request of Austen Chamberlain, the British Foreign Secretary, did not affect the main lines of policy.

PARIS, Aug. 14 (AP).—Count Alexander Skrzynsky, Polish Foreign Minister, who arrived in Paris today on his return from a visit to the United States, speaking of the proposed European security compact, said Poland naturally would have preferred the Protocol adopted by the Assembly of the League of Nations last September. But, he added, his country was prepared to receive favorably any security compact which did not run counter to the Protocol and which would safeguard Poland's frontiers as defined in the treaties.

Security of Southeast Europe Will Be Discussed at Geneva.

BELGRADE, Aug. 14.—The Briand-Chamberlain conversations have provoked a decision of the Foreign Ministers of the Little Entente States to meet at Geneva before the opening of the League of Nations Assembly for the purpose of discussing security in Southeastern Europe.

The Little Entente statesmen are anxious to reach an agreement on this problem before the projected Rhineland compact is drawn up.

The conference of press representatives of Little Entente States is now going on at Sinaf for the purpose of creating better sources of information and formulating a scheme for the defense of common aims.

PRISONERS TO GET LUNCHEONS IN JAIL

HITS UNCLEAN COURT PENS

In Report to Prison Body He Asks That County Authorities Justify Such Detention Places.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, Aug. 14.—Prisoners confined in the Magistates' Court pens in Queens County who are detained over the noon hour are to have luncheon served to them if the recommendation made by John S. Kennedy, President of the State Commission of Prisons, is put into effect. The commission also has approved a resolution that the Chief City Magistrate be informed of the conditions and requested to apply for an appropriation for these luncheons.

The recommendation is made for Queens, Flushing, Jamaica and Far Rockaway. Commissioner Kennedy asserts that unless some of the other recommendations repeatedly made by the commission are heeded the commission, in the performance of its duty, will issue closing orders.

Commissioner Kennedy says in his report that Commissioner Joseph Sullivan, in charge of building in the borough, has cooperated with the commission. He has furnished copies of plans for improvements in the Second District Magistrate's Court at Flushing and of the Town Hall of Jamaica.

The principal fault found by Mr. Kennedy is that the court pens are not only insanitary but that they are overcrowded, forty-five persons being crowded in a small room at times.

In Flushing from Jan. 1 to date 3,847 cases have been heard, and while the prisoners were awaiting arraignment or trial they were herded into a small room adjoining the court room. Those transferred to jail are held from 9 in the morning until late in the afternoon without food or a chance to get it. No accommodations are provided for the separate detention of women.

It is recommended that an additional prison van be obtained and that at least one additional court attendant be appointed.

Commissioner Kennedy recommends, in the case of Far Rockaway, that the authorities be called before the commission to show cause why the court pens should not be closed under Section 46 of the Prison law. It is pointed out that these pens are crowded on Tuesdays and Thursdays of each week, when many are arraigned. In Summer from forty to fifty men are packed in a room 15 feet by 10.

Jamaica is to have new quarters for its detention pens when the new police station is finished. Since Jan. 1, 6,194 prisoners have been handled in this court. Women are forced to sit in the court room and hear all kinds of cases.

Traffic court detention pens, a room on the second floor of a building at 182 Clermont Street, Brooklyn, formerly used as a synagogue, were visited by Commissioner Kennedy. Later he is to go back and make another inspection and possibly will recommend a permanent place for the detention pens.

To prevent suicides of prisoners in the Twenty-fourth Precinct Police Station, at 3,016 Webster Avenue, the Bronx, Commissioner Kennedy, who with Commissioner Leon C. Weinstock made an inspection, recommends that heavy, close wire mesh be used for the tops of the cells instead of the present open bar construction. Open bars in the Richmond Hill police station also were recommended.

The Forty-ninth A Precinct Police Station, in Brooklyn, is condemned because it is located in an old building, has gas jets and has the usual accompaniments and furnishings which go with that period. It is recommended that if the prison is to be used it should be refurnished.

Foundling Hospital Valued at $32,500 in 1741, Sells London Property for $8,250,000

By Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Aug. 14.—Another London landmark is doomed to disappear. It is the Foundling Hospital, which is renowned for its singing children and the fact that Handel played the organ there and bequeathed to the institution the manuscript of his oratio, "The Messiah."

Its estate in the centre of the Bloomsbury district was sold today for £1,650,000 (about $8,250,000). It will be reestablished in the country. The estate covers fifty-six acres and the sale is a record for property in the middle of London.

The hospital and grounds occupy nine acres. The rest is covered with small shops and old dwelling houses. The district will be transformed by the erection of modern buildings, one suggestion being the setting up of a vegetable market to replace the famous Covent Garden.

The hospital was founded in 1739 by Thomas Coram, a retired sea captain, who was so distressed by the plight of abandoned children that he gave his entire fortune to provide a refuge and before his own death had to seek aid from the charity he established.

The value of the estate now sold was only £6,500 ($32,500) in 1741.

Although founded by Captain Thomas Coram in 1739 for "deserted children" and still bearing the name of "Foundling Hospital," the institution has not been used in connotation of its object and name since 1760, when it was turned into a home for illegitimate children "whose mothers are known."

At an early date it became the custom of English artists to present to the hospital specimens of their work, and the pictures thus given in time overflowed the board room and the secretary's room and a picture gallery was established. By the end of thirty years so many pictures came that a hanging committee had to be established; to be "hung" in the Foundling Hospital became a coveted honor, particularly after the inauguration of annual exhibitions.

It is said that one of the strongest reasons for the founding of the Royal Academy was an attempt of rejected artists to compete with the artists whose work had been accepted by the hospital. The pictures there present what is credited with being the most valuable collection of English eighteenth century art in the world.

In the chapel is an altarpiece by the Anglo-American, Benjamin West, representing Christ blessing little children—a picture which has been copied all over the world. The organ was a gift from Handel.

MONTEVIDEO CHEERS THE PRINCE OF WALES

He Receives Greatest Welcome in City's History as He Lands From South Africa.

MONTEVIDEO, Aug. 14 (AP).—A welcome unprecedented in the annals of Montevideo was accorded the Prince of Wales today when he touched the Uruguayan shore on his voyage from South Africa.

Transferring early this morning from the battleship Repulse to the cruiser Curlew, the Prince reached the pier here at 10 o'clock. Thousands of Uruguayans lined the shore and the dock and cheered the royal visitor.

Foreign Minister Blanco boarded the Curlew officially to welcome the Prince in the name of the Government and people. The royal visitor landed at 11 A. M. and was received by President Serrato and his Cabinet.

The party then motored to Government Palace through streets lined with cheering people and with bands at various points along the route blaring the British National Anthem. Arriving at the palace the Prince reviewed the troops from a balcony.

His appearance on the balcony was a signal for renewed cheering and applause. Later he was entertained at an informal luncheon by President Serrato at a restaurant in the Municipal Park. There were no speakers.

W. J. FALLON SERIOUSLY ILL.

Lawyer Has Been Under Care of Physician for More Than a Week.

William J. Fallon, the widely known criminal lawyer, is reported to be seriously ill. At his office it was said yesterday that he had been away for more than a week and that he was under the care of a physician and trained nurses. It was said that he was suffering from liver trouble.

Mr. Fallon's career has been one of the most spectacular in the New York bar. Coming here from Westchester County, where he was District Attorney and had a long record of convictions, he took up the defense of criminals with equal success. Among the important cases in which he took part was that of Nicky Arnstein. He also defended Charles W. Fuller, who was indicted on a charge of bucketing, last year. In connection with the Fuller trial Fallon was indicted for bribing a juror, defended himself in the action and secured his own acquittal.

FEAR DEBT FUNDING MAY HURT OUR TRADE

Labor Leaders Consult Bankers on Effect on Industry if Europe Pays in Goods.

FINANCIERS NOT WORRIED

They Say Exports of Debtor Nations to America Would Not Be Affected by Payments.

Worried by reports that several European countries which are expected soon to fund their war debts to this country might make their payments in the form of merchandise, thus affecting industries and reducing employment in the United States, officials of the American Federation of Labor have been consulting bankers and economists for advice, it was learned yesterday. William Green, President of the American Federation of Labor, and several of his associates are seeking expert counsel as to what may be expected in the way of industrial developments if France, Belgium and Italy undertake debt payments to the United States, and what policy American labor had best adopt to meet an excessive influx of foreign products.

No definite movement has been launched, the principal aim at present being to gather information. It was reported yesterday that action would be started through the National Civic Federation, which is made up of representatives of labor and of business, but this report was denied by officials of the Federation. They said that the subject was too political in nature to be taken up by the Federation and that any labor members interesting themselves in the subject were doing so not as members of the National Civic Federation but as representatives of labor organizations. Alton B. Parker is President of the National Civic Federation and the late Samuel Gompers was a Vice President. Mr. Gompers's place will be filled at an election next Fall.

Several bankers who were interviewed on the subject yesterday expressed the opinion that the labor leaders' fears were groundless. They declared that exports of debtor countries to the United States would not be affected by debt payments, contending that American purchases of foreign products would continue to be governed by business conditions and demand in this country. The bankers said that if the debtor countries should find it necessary to increase their exports in order to make payments to this country, the new exports would go to nations other than the United States.

Bankers interviewed also disagreed with the view that these increased exports to other countries would present harmful competition to American foreign trade. The exporting countries, it was said, would need to buy raw materials in larger quantities and much of this raw material would come from countries to which the United States sells manufactured goods. This, it is contended, would increase the purchasing power of some of the good customers of the United States and stimulate trade.

The triangular method by which payment of the debts would be made, in the opinion of bankers, would benefit all concerned.

LIEUT. BECCI DEPARTS; GETS JEWELRY BACK

Sets Value of Gems at $6,250—Silent on Broken Troth With Miss Sayles.

Lieutenant Ernesto Ladinelli Becci, Assistant Secretary of the Interior of the Italian Government, who arrived a week ago to marry Miss Nancy Sayles of Pawtucket, R. I., and received his congé by radio in mid-Atlantic, sailed yesterday on the Fabre liner Providence for Naples, which was the vessel on which he came to New York.

Before the Providence left her pier, foot of Thirty-first Street, Brooklyn, at noon, Lieutenant Becci received his jewelry, which he had bonded with the customs authorities during his stay in this country. He declared the value to be $6,250.

Friends of Lieutenant Becci said that he had nothing to say for publication regarding the breaking off of the engagement by Miss Sayles. He did not go to Pawtucket to attempt to see her nor call at the Hotel St. Regis in New York when she was stopping there with her mother on Aug. 8.

LONG FIGHT FOR 5 CENTS.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BERLIN, Aug. 14.—Defenders of bureaucratic "efficiency" won a decisive battle over the criticizers of the red tape system today when the national coffers were enriched by the receipt of 5 cents after ten months of letter writing, conferences, investigations and frantic telephoning.

Last November an export firm attached tax stamps to the value of 20 pfennigs to a document which legally required 40 pfennigs. Though the document originated in Berlin the error was not discovered until examined by the Finance Department at Rostock. Immediate steps were taken to recover the loss, but, due to the fact that the responsible person could not be located immediately, it was necessary to take extraordinary steps to protect the Government.

It was once proposed to sell the letters which were exchanged for waste paper as a means of recovering the amount, but the idea was spurned by the system lovers who are now pointing with pride to the infallibility of their methods while critics point out that big industrialists still are fighting the Government's demands to pay taxes amounting to millions.

WANT TRIO IN SWIM.

Mlle. Sion Urged to Start With Misses Ederle and Harrison.

BOULOGNE, France, Aug. 14 (AP).—Miss Lillian Harrison of Buenos Aires, who was compelled to abandon her fourth attempt to swim across the English Channel on Monday when about eight miles from the English Coast, has about made up her mind to have another try on Monday night, especially if Miss Gertrude Ederle, the New York girl, decides to start then. Efforts are being made to induce Mlle. Jane Sion, French swimmer, who was forced to abandon her attempt to swim the Channel early this month when a mile and a half from the goal, to start out on Monday night, thus making it a feminine trio. But the French woman does not command the same resources as the others and says she will not be ready to start until the end of the month or early in September.

When Miss Ederle went for her morning swim today she wore a new pair of goggles, which had been especially designed for her, to prevent the salt water from getting into her eyes.

NATURE BODY BACKS REFUGES FOR BIRDS

American Association Approves Bill to Protect Game and Provide Shooting Lands.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 14.—Taking a stand for bird refuges, as advocated in a NEW YORK TIMES editorial on Aug. 13, and public shooting grounds legislation, the American Nature Association, of which Charles Lathrop Pack is President, through Arthur Newton Pack, its Secretary, today issued the following statement:

"The unreserved and unappropriated lands of the United States exceed 175,000,000 acres. Under regulations the unreserved land would support more game, more domestic stocks, more families than at present.

"A migratory bird refuge and public shooting grounds bill is now before the Senate, having been passed by the House at the last session. The primary purpose of this act is to authorize and provide means for the public acquisition of some of the marsh swamp and water areas essential to the existence of migratory wild fowl. Through such acquisition, indispensable acres will not only be protected from drainage, but will be permanently available as public shooting grounds. Some such bill is one which every public-spirited and forward-looking organization could and should endorse and support."

There is now no legal authority, according to officers of the American Nature Association, under which the United States may accept title to lands which the owners desire for game refuge purposes. To remedy this a bill was introduced in the Senate which will authorize the President, upon the recommendation of the Secretary of Agriculture, to accept lands donated to the United States as preserves or refuges for wild birds and animals and for other purposes. Such authority, the nature association holds, would make it possible greatly to increase the effectiveness of refuges containing private lands within their limits.

ROBBERS GET $87,478 IN WINNIPEG HOLD-UP

Five Men Beat Traction Cashier in a Busy Street and Escape With the Payroll.

WINNIPEG, Manitoba, Aug. 14 (AP).—In a daring daylight hold-up of the cashier of the Winnipeg Street Railway Company five robbers obtained a payroll pouch containing $87,478 and escaped in an automobile.

The cashier was beaten into unconsciousness by the robbers. The car later was found abandoned in the outskirts of the city.

The hold-up occurred on one of the busiest corners and in plain view of a number of persons. Returning from the bank with the wages of the company's staff of 1,500 men, the cashier was surrounded by the five men as he stepped from the automobile in which he made the trip. With a pistol thrust against his stomach, he refused to hand over the pouch and was slugged over the head with a weapon in the hand of another of the group.

Jumping into the car, the quintet ordered the driver to put on speed and dashed through the gathering crowd. There was almost an immediate pursuit, including police on motorcycles and in automobiles, but the robbers got away.

DAYTON, Ohio, Aug. 14 (AP).—A robber held up six employes of the North Dayton branch of the Dayton Savings and Trust Company today and escaped with about $20,000. The hold-up man apparently had been hiding in the basement of the building all night.

MRS. MORGAN DIES AT GLEN COVE HOME

free from occasional attacks of illness for some time. A few minutes later, however, she again complained and left the church.

On the way to the Morgan estate on Matinecock Point, East Island, several miles from the church, she explained that she appeared to be suffering from double vision. As the auto carrying her neared the long concrete approach to the island Mrs. Morgan said that her head had began to ache violently.

Arriving at home, she was put to bed at once. Her bedroom on the second floor of the big three-story brick house was over the library and to the left of the porch. A short time after being put to bed Mrs. Morgan became very ill. Efforts were being made meantime to reach Dr. Henry S. Patterson, her regular physician. Dr. Patterson, however, was absent, and in his place Dr. Jessup, a practitioner at Glen Cove, was summoned.

Dr. Jessup, after an examination, diagnosed her illness as lethargic encephalitis, a type of sleeping sickness distinct from the African ailment, which is usually caused by the bite of the tsetse fly. Mr. Morgan was absent on his yacht, the Corsair, cruising in Long Island Sound. Arrangements were made to establish communication with him, but, fearing to alarm him, Dr. Frederic Tilney was summoned by Dr. Jessup to consultation. Dr. Tilney confirmed his colleague's diagnosis.

Husband Reaches Bedside.

The summons to Mr. Morgan was then flashed by wireless. The Corsair picked up the call while cruising off the Connecticut coast. Mr. Morgan had planned to return to the landing stage at Glen Cove in time to take his wife aboard. They then had planned to go to the Harvard-Yale boat races in the Thames off New London. For years Mr. Morgan, a graduate of Harvard, had witnessed the races. The yacht, upon receiving the summons, put about and raced for Glen Cove.

Mr. Morgan stepped ashore before sundown. He went at once to his wife's bedside. She had not then lapsed into unconsciousness. After a brief stay at the bedside, he turned to give the physician an opportunity to consult and shape their course. Dr. Keating, Dr. Howe and, shortly, Dr. Patterson arrived, and it was determined that a blood transfusion was needed at once. Mrs. Morgan, they saw, was sinking steadily.

Dr. Frank Bishop, a specialist in transfusion, was summoned. A telephone call to St. Luke's Hospital, Manhattan, was put in. A donor of blood and nurses were sought. Dr. F. Warren Bishop, an interne at the hospital, volunteered. Five nurses were requisitioned and they, with Dr. F. W. Bishop, started by motor for the Long Island home. The nurses were Mrs. Vetta Gallant and the Misses Winifred Bennett, Mary Thomas, Ella Srehsee and Alfy Folsberry.

Before the transfusion was made, however, the physicians desided to resort to an injection of dextrose, to reduce inflammation which was indicated by some of the symptoms. A solution of dextrose was administered at 8 o'clock that night. Mrs. Morgan began to improve at once.

Resort to Blood Transfusion.

Her condition, however, continued very grave. After a consultation of the physicians it was decided to go through with the blood transfusion. Dr. Howe, it was understood, advised that eight ounces of blood be transfused from Dr. Bishop to the patient. This operation was performed at 10 o'clock. Mr. Morgan was not in the room when the operation was performed with perfect success. Word of its success was carried to him as he waited anxiously in an adjoining room.

News of Mrs. Morgan's illness had been sent to members of the family within reach. Soon after Mrs. Morgan reached the house her daughters arrived. They were Mrs. Paul Geddes Pennoyer, who was Miss Frances Treacy Morgan, and Mrs. George Nichols, who was formerly Miss Jane Norton Morgan.

Facing a disease about which little has been definitely discovered, the physicians decided to continue the administration of dextrose and, when necessary, to employ blood transfusion. It was reported that several transfusions were found necessary during the course of Mrs. Morgan's illness, but this could not be confirmed last night. It was learned, however, that dextrose, injected intravelnously, had been administered every morning during the nine weeks since the attack.

To be prepared for any sudden development in Mrs. Morgan's illness it was decided that at least one physician should be constantly in the house. The five nurses were retained, two of them to be on duty while two rested, and one remained in reserve. In the first week of Mrs. Morgan's illness two physicians remained at the Matinecock Island estate.

Husband Remained at Home.

Owing to the fact that Mrs. Morgan fell into a coma it was necessary to resort to artificial feeding. Every three hours Mrs. Morgan received nutriment in the form of vegetable puree, cream soups or other forms of liquid food.

When his wife's serious illness was apparent, Mr. Morgan decided to remain at the home, cutting off communication with his great banking house. As the days passed, however, and Mrs. Morgan seemed to respond to the treatment, he was advised that danger had passed. It was not until three weeks had passed, however, and Mrs. Morgan had further improved that the banker, plainly showing the strain of his wife's illness, resumed attendance at St. John's Church. With his daughters he heard the rector give thanks for his wife's improvement.

For a week after Mrs. Morgan became ill bulletins on her condition were issued daily at the office of J. P. Morgan & Co. Then, when it was felt that her condition justified discontinuance of the bulletins, they were stopped. It was learned last night that Mrs. Morgan's gain in July had been especially gratifying. Last Tuesday, however, she had an attack of indigestion. Just how severe this seizure was could not be ascertained last night. The extra burden, however, placed upon the heart caused symptoms which occasioned alarm. These symptoms, however, moderated and finally disappeared.

Yesterday morning Dr. Howe motored from Manhattan out to Glen Cove. Dr. Jessup was at the Morgan home. The dextrose was administered at 11 o'clock, and shortly after Dr. Howe started to return to his office here. Dr. Jessup was in the house when the end came and Dr. Tilney was on his way to Glen Cove from Bay Shore.

Sons on the Yacht Corsair.

Junius Spencer Morgan, oldest child of the Morgans, who is associated with his father in the banking firm, was on the yacht Corsair. With him was his brother, Henry Sturgis Morgan and their brother-in-law, George Nichols. They had sailed early yesterday morning from New London and planned to participate in the annual cruise of the New York Yacht Club. Just as their father had been reached by radio when Mrs. Morgan first became ill, so the wireless was employed to carry to the Corsair the news of Mrs. Morgan's sudden death.

The sons reached the Morgan estate late yesterday. Last night the home was plunged into darkness when the electric plant went out of service following a storm. Candles were produced and these were used to illuminate the big house until repairs could be made to the electric plant.

Mrs. Morgan, who was Miss Jane Norton Grew of Boston before her marriage, was fond of an old-fashioned home life. Her interest was in her children, and when they grew up and married, in her grandchildren. Several months ago when one of the children of Mr. and Mrs. Pennoyer was seriously ill, Mrs. Morgan insisted upon nursing the child herself and it was to her unremitting care that friends credited the child's recovery.

Mrs. Morgan was the daughter of Henry Sturgis Grew, banker, mill owner and director in many New England financial institutions. He was a descendant of a family prominent in New England during the Colonial period. Jane Norton Grew and Mr. Morgan were married on Dec. 11, 1890, in the Arlington Street Church, Boston. Mr. Morgan in 1889 had graduated from Harvard University, receiving the degree of B. A. Shortly after their marriage the young couple went to London.

Couple Presented at Court.

The late J. Pierpont Morgan, having destined his s n to succeed him in the direction of the great international banking house, thought that the entry of his son in the London branch of the house would be the first step toward the goal he had set. During their stay in London Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Morgan were presented at Court to Queen Victoria and, later, to King Edward VII.

Of the four children born to Mr. and Mrs. Morgan, Junius Spencer was the eldest. He served throughout the World War in the naval aviation section. Jane Norton Morgan, who married Mr. Nichols in 1917, was their next child, and then Frances Treacy Morgan, who married Mr. Pennoyer in the bridal year of her sister. Henry Sturgis Morgan is the youngest.

Mrs. Morgan's fondness for flowers was well known. She took personal charge of the greenhouses and gardens at the Glen Cove estate. Several weeks ago her tulips took first place at a flower show at Glen Cove.

Although she had given often and generously to various philanthropic enterprises, her gifts were never disclosed, for she gave anonymeusly. It was learned recently, however, that she had joined her husband in a substantial donation to further archaeological work in Greece which is to be conducted under the auspices of the American School of Classical Studies.

Mrs. Morgan was a member of the American League for Political Education and was keenly interested in the building of Town Hall, in West Forty-third Street, between Sixth Avenue and Broadway, which the league erected. She also was a member of the Colony Club.

"Mrs. Morgan was a woman of great dignity and charm," said a neighbor who had known her for years. "She was humane and friendly. She cared nothing for Long Island society, and her whole devotion was centred upon her family and upon her eleven grandchildren. She was interested in Orchard House, an Italian settlement in Glen Cove, and was a member of the Garden Club, membership in which requires that the amateur gardener actually dig in his or her garden."

The neighbor praised Mrs. Morgan's courage. In this connection it was recalled that Mrs. Morgan once saved her husband's life. On July 3, 1915, a man named Frank Holt, once a Professor of German at Cornell University, forced his way into the Morgan home on East Island. Brooding over the war had made him insane. He confronted the Morgans in the hall of their home. Firing twice, he shot Mr. Morgan.

Mrs. Morgan before the firing, sprang in front of her husband. Mr. Morgan, however, had quickly pushed her out of the path of the bullets and attacked his assailant. He knocked Holt down, and the man, sprawling on the floor, lifted his pistol as if to fire again. Mrs. Morgan grasped the man's wrist, and her husband, although wounded, jerked the weapon from Holt's hand.

Mrs. Morgan was an authority on the famous art treasures collected by her husband and by the late J. Pierpont Morgan. She was especially interested in snuff boxes and in miniatures. The home at Glen Cove is filled with the rare things of the art world and Mrs. Morgan knew the story of all of them. She was an authority on the Morgan library and collection of manuscripts.

She actively directed the management of the household, and took a personal interest in in the little problems of the many servants employed on the estate. Mrs. Morgan was a regular attendant, during the Summer months, at St. John's Episcopal Church, Locust Valley. Only recently she gave the church a beautiful interior, a copy of the famous interior of St. Giles Cathedral, Edinburgh.

The rector of St. John's, the Rev. Dr. Charles W. Hinton, was a daily caller at the Morgan home during her illness. Several days ago, worn by his pastoral duties, Dr. Hinton went to Saranac Lake to recuperate. He was notified of Mrs. Morgan's death by wire last night.

Besides her husband, two sons and two daughters, Mrs. Morgan leaves a brother, Edward W. Grew, and two sisters, Mrs. S. B. R. Crosby and Mrs. Boylston Deal, all of Boston.

The manner in which Mrs. Morgan became infected with the germ of lethargic encephalitis puzzled her physicians and friends. The disease, which often has been noted as an aftermath of influenza, had several victims near Glen Cove at about the time that Mrs. Morgan became ill. Three cases of the malady had been reported in New York City, during the week of June 14, according to Health Department records, which were examined the day following the disclosure of Mrs. Morgan's illness. Announcement that she was ill was not made to the public until four days after the disease manifested itself.

According to health officers there has been a noticeable increase in the number of cases of so-called sleeping sickness in this country, the increase dating from the widespread epidemic of influenza here in 1918. In New York alone, it was said, there has been an average of from two to five deaths a week. Statistics available last night, showing the deaths for the week ended June 6, disclosed that six persons had died then, as against five in the corresponding week in 1924.

There are two forms of sleeping sickness, according to Dr. William H. Park, Director of the Health Department laboratories. The first is common to Africa and is known as trypanosamiasis.

Dr. Park said that the more common form, encephalitis lethargica, is not really sleeping sickness. The symptoms, he explained, are not always the same, and while in some persons they are manifested by a lethargy or drowsiness, in other patients they take the form of high nervous excitement. Dr. Park said little was known regarding the cause of or cure for sleeping sickness. Still less, he said, was known of the means by which it was transmitted.

He said that many physicians were of the opinion that the malady was a germ disease, but that the germs apparently were so minute as to have escaped detection.

Sleeping sickness, reported to have existed even before the time of Herodotus, made its first appearance in this country in 1919. At that time physicians believed it had been brought here from Vienna, a severe epidemic of the disease having been reported there in 1916.

The first three months of 1919 in this country disclosed that 183 cases of sleeping sickness, with fourteen deaths, had been reported to the Department of Public Health in Washington. Surgeon General Blue detailed medical officers to make a study of the disease. Dr. H. F. Smith, one of the physicians detailed, reported finding evidence of relationship between influenza and sleeping sickness, but said that he had found little data that could be used for diagnostic purposes.

During January and February, 1923, there was another outbreak of the disease. This epidemic was largely confined to New York, where 360 cases and 112 deaths were reported. In 1924 there was a severe manifestation of the disease in England where, during the first six months of the year, 1,409 cases were treated. The mortality rate there was about 50 per cent. This year the disease again showed itself there, but to a lesser extent. One of the victims, however, was Viscount Milner, former Secretary of War, who died in England on May 13, last.

MORGAN YACHT SPEEDS HOME.

Special to The New York Times.

BLOCK ISLAND, R. I., Aug. 14.—Former Commodore J. P. Morgan's steam yacht Corsair, acting as the flagship of the New York Yacht Club cruising squadron, had arrived off the west harbor here this afternoon at about 5 o'clock when the news of Mrs. Morgan's death was received by wireless. The Corsair, flying the flag of Commodore George Nichols, who is Commodore Morgan's son-in-law, immediately turned to the westward, leaving the fleet, and went full speed ahead for Glen Cove.

Junius and Harry S. Morgan, the sons of Commodore and Mrs. Morgan, were racing on the thirty-footer Phryne when the Corsair arrived alongside this yacht in Block Island Sound. The boys were transferred to the Corsair, which then proceeded westward. Vice Commodore Vincent Astor on the Nourmahal will assume charge of the big cruising squadron for the remaining runs.

URGE LEAGUE AID IN CHINA'S CRISIS

"DAWES BOARD" SUGGESTED

Dr. Batchelder Tells the Politics Institute Nation's Finances Must Be Stabilized.

ROOTS DEFENDS CHINESE

Special to The New York Times.

WILLIAMSTOWN, Mass., Aug. 14.—Discussion of plans for the rehabilitation of China, at the Institute of Politics today, fell to the suggestion that the League of Nations intervene in order to reconcile the interests of the powers in China with the Chinese demands for the modification of foreign control, in order to prevent the present situation from developing into chaos and possibly war between the Orient and the western nations. A "Dawes Commission" for China also was recommended.

Lionel Curtis of London, editor of The Round Table, suggested the League as the agency for solving the problem. Dr. William E. Rappard, Swiss member of the Permanent Mandates Commission, endorsed the proposal with the qualification that he was speaking for himself and not as an official of the League.

"In my opinion," said Dr. Rappard, "the League would be delighted to assume the task, on two conditions: first, that China should not only accept but welcome, and indeed request, the intervention of the League; second, that the United States Government should assure its cooperation.

"The mechanism of the League may be peculiarly adapted to matters of this kind. Chinese nationalists necessarily resent foreign intervention, but China being a member of the League and asking for the assistance of her associates is not thereby subjected to foreign interference."

Batchelder Suggests Dawes Board.

Dr. C. C. Batchelder, Professor of International Relations, New York University, and former acting commercial attaché in China, said he thought the Chinese would accept intervention by the League, but he was certain they would oppose a settlement by the treaty powers alone.

Dr. Batchelder said that foreign assistance was necessary to solve the industrial, economic and financial problems involved in the Chinese problem, as the Chinese are practically without experience in these fields.

"What is needed," he went on, "is a general reorganization along modern lines, and some experts advocate a so-called Dawes Commission for China, with the great difference that its duties would be purely advisory and that it would be appointed by the Chinese Government, upon its own initiative, to recommend a plan of reorganization."

Dr. Batchelder suggested that the commission have a Chinese Chairman and include members of the Dawes commission because of their experience and prestige. The international consortium of bankers, he thought, would finance the plan.

Such a commission, he continued, would inevitably recommend the reform of finances and balacing of the budget, which now provides for a monthly expenditure of $10,000,000 against an income of $1,000,000. He said this could be done by increasing the customs duties, now limited to 5 per cent., by old treaties, and that the foreign powers might consent to this change for the sake of mutual advatage through increased trade.

Roads and railroads, which he said were the great need in order to develop the great natural resources of China, would also be provided for in this plan, according to Dr. Batchelder. He urged foreign loans for railroads and the operation of the Government railroads in an independent organization, separate from the general budget, as in India and Germany. A national bank, owned by Chinese and foreign bankers and independent of the Government, he added, was necessary to stabilize finances. He also suggested banking laws governing all banks in Chia, including foreign banks.

Dr. Batchelder said the Chinese would be willing to listen to reason if convinced that the powers were willing to abandon their old policy of coercion, and that the situation was not as bad as that of Europe before the adoption of the Dawes plan.

Edmunds Disagrees With Balfour.

Dr. Charles K. Edmunds, provost of Johns Hopkins University and former President of Canton Christian College in China, disagreed with Earl Balfour's recent declaration to the British Parliament that foreign action was not responsible for the present state of affairs in China. Dr. Edmunds said that Western intercourse with China was indisputably the cause of the present troubles.

"The fundamental cause of the present international situation," he went on, "is psychological, and is related to the manner in which the foreign nations have dealt with China and in which foreign residents in China have dealt with the Chinese."

He said that reports attributing all the agitation to Bolshevik propaganda were exaggerated, but that there was a skillful movement of Russians in China, and that only the prompt adoption of a conciliatory attitude towards China by the other nations could remove Bolshevik influence.

"The United States," he continued, "has the responsibility of adopting and inducing such an attitude."

The trouble in Shanghai, he asserted, was caused by an attempt to coerce Chinese labor and to apply Western methods in factory work without regard for the difference in conditions. Strikes, he said, were a natural result.

Dr. Edmunds said that the British demand for the restoration of law and order in the treaty ports before an international commission shall meet to discuss Chinese complaints was "putting the cart before the horse."

The Chinese could not do what the powers want, he went on, until they had adequate authority over Chinese territory.

He quoted Lord Morley to show that opium smuggling by British subjects was the origin of the conflict between Great Britain and China which led to the extra territoriality and tariff control problems, and pointed out that Great Britain at Geneva last year refused to cooperate with China and the United States for the control of opium smuggling.

Roots Would Speed Riots Inquiry.

Bishop Logan H. Roots of Hanchow, China, urged that the cause of the Shanghai troubles be cleared up. He said that the Chinese were at least not wholly to blame, pointing out that the commission appointed by the diplomatic corps and the Peking Government had not published its report, he said:

"The suspicion is widespread that it was not published because it hurt certain persons or nationalities, but now a demand is being made for further judicial inquiry. I read in the newspapers of Aug. 3 that Chinese officials abroad had been asked to communicate to the Government to which they are accredited China's unwillingness to have another inquiry.

"Is it not right and wise that we foreigners should make it plain to our Governments that we, the people of the Western Powers, demand that our Governments settle this matter quickly."

Rappard Praises World Court

Dr. Rappard, in a lecture tonight, said that the World Court was the great hope of the future and that the trend toward the Court in America was encouraging for international peace. He discussed sanctions and disarmament as weapons of the League of Nations for outlawing war, pointing out that the whole character of the League has been changed in the last few years by interpretations of Articles X and XVI, which have "interpreted those articles into insignificance."

He said that the diminishing of the coercive power of the League had "deprived the enemies of international cooperation of their main argument, based on the fear of entanglements and the alleged menace of the so-called superstate." At the same time, he declared, it had lessened the importance of the League as a security against war and had impeded the progress of disarmament.

Dr. Rappard said that the great lesson which the last years have taught is that peace can be securely founded only on justice, for the establishment of which compulsory arbitration is the necessary tool. He added:

"To develop sanctions before fully providing for arbitration is like organizing police forces before setting up police courts. Sanctions may preserve peace for a time, as they may also consolidate the rule of violence. They can never alone secure just peace, which is the only peace worth securing.

"That is why I regard the creation of the Permanent Court of International Justice as the greatest and most lasting achievement of the League, which began its career with the intention of forcing peace, and has been led by circumstances to pursue it in the route of outlawing war. And this is why, also, if I may be allowed as a foreigner to express an opinion on this question of American policy, 'the movement toward the Court which, I understand, is setting in in America, is a most sound and hopeful movement. To outlaw war definitely one must first definitely establish law. That is the purpose of the Court, and that is the great hope of the future."

Maurice Discusses Armaments.

Major General Sir Frederick Maurice, Chief of Operations of the British General Staff during the war, at his round table on the limitation of armaments said that the unofficial objections in the British Empire to the Geneva Protocol were that the protocol would in effect commit the British Empire to war without the consent of its citizens.

"But the official objections were more serious," he said. "By far the most important was the objection that the British navy might be used by the League to blockade an aggressor State, and that the United States, not being a member of the League, the British navy might be called upon to interfere with the military traffic of the United States and so bring about the very conditions which had brought America into war on three previous occasions."

Professor Bernadotte Schmitt of the University of Chicago at the round table of European political conditions suggested the policy of exchanging minorities, which has been used by the Greeks and Turks, as a solution of Central European minority problems. He intimated that the expulsion of Germans from Poland might be in pursuance of this policy.

At the round table on Inter-American relations Dr. Leo S. Rowe, Director General of the Pan American Union, praised the American Federation of Labor for having pointed the way to cooperation between the American and Mexican peoples.

STEAMER RAMS LIGHTSHIP.

DOVER, England, Aug. 14 (AP).—Passing Dover at 10 o'clock this evening the United States Shipping Board steamer Aquarius signaled that all was well with the East Goodwin lightship, with which she came into collision today during a fog.

The Aquarius reported that she had stood by the lightship until tugs arrived on the scene to ascertain the damage caused by the collision.

This was difficult owing to the heavy fog still prevailing, but it appeared to be much slighter to both vessels than at first was feared. The Aquarius continued her voyage to the United States.

The collision occurred after the lightship had sounded a gun to warn the American vessel she was in danger of running on a sand bank. The Aquarius misunderstood the warning and, in suddently altering her course, rammed the East Goodwin.

1870 FRONTIER RESTORED.

PARIS, Aug. 14 (AP).—A treaty between France and Germany defining the frontier between the two countries was signed at the Foreign Office today by M. Laroche, director of the political section of the German Frontier Delimitation Commission.

The document is of a purely administrative character and restores the line to where it was at the time of the outbreak of the Franco-Prussian war in 1870. With a few slight modifications under the treaty the sovereignty of France will extend to the middle of the Rhine.

CHINA MORE UNEASY AS POWERS DELAY

DEADLOCK HOLDS AT PEKING

Diplomats Seem Disposed to Shun Blame for Delaying Shanghai Report.

By THOMAS F. MILLARD.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

SHANGHAI, Aug. 14.—The general situation in China has not improved and there are no signs of progress toward a settlement of the outstanding issues. On the contrary, new disturbing elements are increasingly manifest.

Chinese laborites are getting in an ugly mood and out of hand, and are now directing their resentment toward Chinese Chambers of Commerce in addition to foreign interests. These developments are causing great uneasiness and indicate that external labor influences are the active cause of the extension of the strike.

The action of the Chinese authorities in Tientsin and other places in taking strong measures to suppress riots, perhaps for only temporary effect, carries a grave danger, because the native troops and police are strongly impregnated with anti-foreign ideas. They sympathize with the nationalist movement and may join the rioters at any time. This makes the position of the Government, and also of provincial officials precarious and influences their attitude toward interantional questions.

There is a tendency to blame students for the strikes and boycotts, but the influence of the student bodies is somewhat superficial because, while the students are employed as active agitators, they really carry out the directions of the radical leaders, who plan and obtain the broad results affecting China's entire international position.

Fail to Effect Compromise.

Efforts continue to compromise the Shanghai local situation. Negotiations in private are proceeding between the Foreign Municipal Council and the Chinese Commerce Chambers, the latter, because of recent disorders, being anxious to tranquilize the situation.

However, it is doubtful that a compromise would be effective, because these Chinese chambers are unable to obtain popular acceptance of their ideas and they fear strong reactions against them if they oppose the prevailing spirit of nationalism. The passage of months without anything effective to adjust matters makes the situation always more difficult to control, causes fresh complications, rouses various forces and weakens the conservative elements.

Meanwhile it is evident that there has been no progress among the powers regarding a common policy to meet the crisis.

News cables from London and also the British press in China continue to befog the atmosphere, trying to show that the American Government is entirely in accord with the standpat policy. Washington should realize fully that this is a conflict between the American China policy and Bourbonism based upon the historic British and European policies in Asia; that Bourbonism imbues the attitude of the major foreign interests here and also the local Municipal Council, which is entirely unreceptive to new ideas or to deal with new conditions.

The leading British newspaper here constantly refers to American impractical altruism, and also that it terms the pledge alleged to have been given recently by President Coolidge that there will be no discussion of broad treaty revision until the existing disorders are ended and a stable Government is established throughout China.

That so-called pledge is based upon distorted press reports of some statement given out at Swampscott.

The Peking diplomats are still deadlocked. The Chinese press is demanding the publication of the report of the Diplomatic Commission on the Shanghai shooting incident. The French Minister expresses his willingness provided the British Legation agrees. These moves reveal the tendency of various powers to sidestep responsibility for the obstructive tactics to hold up the conferences. It is now apparent that the proposed judicial inquiry of the Shanghai shooting would be quite useless to quiet Chinese sentiment, and could only establish the police responsibility for the shootings, which now are of minor consequence and are not related to the broader issues.

Peking's Doubting Attitude.

While the Peking Government outwardly is proceeding toward convening the Tariff Conference under the Washington Treaty, it is becoming more dubious that such a conference can secure anything important. It may be that China will decline to participate unless its scope is enlarged.

Several prominent Chinese leaders recently have warned the people against being deceived into accepting minor benefits which would leave the nation's sovereignity impaired and permit the retention of foreign control of China's territory and fiscal affairs. It must be reiterated that a strong-arm policy will be ineffective unless the powers are prepared to back it up with actual military force.

The evidence grows that foreign Bourbonism here is willing to see chaos ensue provided this provokes military intervention, thereby extending indefinitely the existing foreign privileges.

END BRITISH TEXTILE STRIKE

Workers Will Go Back Under Old Wages Pending New Agreement.

LONDON, Aug. 14 (AP).—A settlement was reached today, through Government mediation, in the textile dispute, which has been in progress about three weeks since the mill owners announced a wage reduction of 8 per cent.

An agreement was reached today by representatives of operators and the workers, meeting at the Ministry of Labor, under which the strikers will resume work at the old scale of wages pending the negotiation of a new wage agreement based on the finding of a court of investigation which is to be appointed.

About 200,000 textile workers in Yorkshire are affected.

VENICE, Italy, Aug. 14 (AP).—A terrific storm today spread alarm among the visitors of many nationalities at the famous Lido Beach, where the violence of the wind and waves was such as to sweep out to sea forty-five bathing houses.

The storm was also severe inside the City of Venice, where it uprooted one of the three enormous flagpoles in the Square of St. Mark's. The city authorities have forbidden traffic in the neighborhood until the pole is fixed securely again.

By Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BERLIN, Aug. 14.—The Prussian Government this evening called a halt on attempts of Berlin banks to force Edmund Stinnes to pool a part of his inheritance with other Stinnes property by shutting off credit when, it is declared, Edmund must receive sufficient funds to meet the payrolls at his Aga Automobile plant tomorrow.

The banks contend that Edmund received more than his share—his immediate inheritance was 14 per cent. of the Stinnes estate—when he received properties valued at 25,000,000 gold marks. For the last two weeks they have been attempting to induce Edmund to return a portion of this property but without success. Their tactics attempted today failed only because the Prussian authorities refused to have 2,000 men at the plant thrown out of work.

The Aga Automobile Company is still a going concern with plenty of visible assets, mostly in the shape of bills of exchange and promissory notes which the banks had refused to handle.

This evening there were sufficient credit to Edmund's account to tide him over his difficulties.

Negotiations for the sale of the Matthias Stinnes mine on which the family fortune was founded had been going on for several days between the Rhineland Electric Company—in which the Stinnes firm was formerly deeply interested and which was taken over by the Prussian Government—and Stinnes bankers. It is believed the sale will be concluded within the next few days. The purchase price will be between 40,000,000 and 50,000,000 gold marks, leaving Stinnes organization with 90,000,000 gold marks outstanding debts.

PAINLEVE REJECTS RIFF INDEPENDENCE

Insists Abd-el-Krim Must Accept Terms Offered or Take the Consequences.

ARMY PREPARATIONS GO ON

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, Aug. 14.—French official sentiment in regard to Morocco appears for the moment to have taken a turn away from peace efforts and in the direction of making a large military effort against Abd-el-Krim. With the Riff leader demanding prior recognition of the independence of the Riff before entering negotiations, Premier Painlevé before leaving for a vacation today issued a statement saying that neither France nor Spain had the intention of recognizing the independence of the Riff in their peace terms. A measure of autonomy for the Riff as part of Morocco being specified, the peace conditions must include Abd-el-Krim's recognition of the sovereignty of the Sultan.

M. Painlevé said France had shown a fair desire to make peace before using the force she has now available, and that it was for the Riff leader to talk on the basis of conditions made by Spain and France or stand the consequences.

"Negotiations regarding Morocco have given rise recently to contradictory comments. On the one hand the Government has been blamed for not having notified Abd-el-Krim or published the Franco-Spanish peace conditions, and on the other hand the Government is blamed for having delayed military preparations in Morocco in order to engage in useless or premature negotiations.

"It is useful to get things straight. His agents have declared the desire of Abd-el-Krim to stop the spilling of blood; the French and Spanish Governments have agreed to conditions of a just and lasting peace in Morocco.

"Although Abd-el-Krim has believed himself cunning in not up to now taking note of these conditions, through authorized agents he knows what these conditions are. He knows their essential clause, conforming to the wishes of the representatives of the French nation, guarantees the Riffian and Djebella tribes administrative, economic and political autonomy within the limits of existing treaties—that is, under the condition that they recognize the sovereignty of the Sultan and Khalifat delegation.

"Up to the present agents, who are without formal mandate from Abd-el-Krim but have pretended to speak in his name or know his intentions, addressing themselves individually now to French officials at Tangier, now to General Primo de Rivera, have all agreed in declaring Abd-el-Krim before any negotiation demands prior recognition of the complete independence of the Riff, a condition contrary to existing treaties and international engagements which France and Spain must observe toward the other powers, a condition the acceptance of which would dangerously reopen the whole Moroccan question.

"The Government feels it has done everything in accord with the will of the nation to spare the shedding of blood of our soldiers, but French generosity cannot exceed the limit beyond which it would create for tomorrow dangers more grave than those of today.

"On the other hand, contrary to declarations in certain quarters, the negotiations or conversations have at no moment delayed the preparation of military operations or the sending of forces capable of replying to the aggression of which we have been victims. Once more France has gone to all possible limits to bring peace in Morocco before using her force. The Riffians must choose between peace and war."

Riffian rebel forces are reported moving steadily northward in the eastern sector, and in explanation of this advance it was suggested here tonight in military circles that the movement is intended to meet the landing of Spanish troops at Alhucemas.

Chieftains of the dissident clans in the Quergha River district have sent a letter to Abd-el-Krim, the rebel leader, to the effect that they are prepared to fight the French if the latter invade them, but are unwilling to take the initiative in hostilities. Abd-el-Krim, in reply, warned the chieftains that he would not tolerate such an attitude and threatened to punish those who failed to carry on the campaign.

The Riffian war lord told the chieftains that they should be prepared to give full support to his movement to drive the "infidels" from the country. He said he intended to establish an independent Mussulman nation in North Africa to compete with the whole world. Abd-el-Krim's letter to the chieftains has been reproduced and thousands of copies posted in all mosques in Morocco.

The report that Marshal Pétain is returning to Morocco to direct the Franco-Spanish offensive against Abd-el-Krim has shaken the devotion of many of the Moorish chieftains who have been supporting the Riffian war lord.

Petain to Leave Next Week.

PARIS, Aug. 14 (AP).—The departure of Marshal Pétain for Morocco, where he is expected to direct the decisive phase of the Franco-Spanish operations against the Riffians, has definitely been fixed for Aug. 20.

Marshal Pétain will go by train to Toulouse, where he will board the regular Rabat air line plane, stopping either at Malaga or Alicante, Spain, to meet General Prime de Rivera, head of the Spanish Military Directorate, who is personally directing the Spanish operations in Morocco. The Spanish commander will make a special trip from the Moroccan front for this conference with Marshal Pétain.

Sadoul Escapes Treason Charge.

PARIS, Aug. 14 (AP).—All proceedings against Captain Jacques Sadoul, charged with high treason in connection with his activities in Soviet Russia after he left the French military mission in Moscow in 1918, were ended today by the investigating Magistrate, who ruled that there was no case to prosecute him for giving intelligence to the enemy.

BALDWIN DELAYED ON COAL COMMISSION

LONDON, Aug. 14 (AP).—Premier Baldwin finds that he has set for himself a difficult task in choosing the personnel of the Royal Commission to investigate the coal situation and satisfy all parties to the coal-mine dispute. The prospect seems that the names of those who are to make up the commission will not be known for another fortnight.

Today Mr. Baldwin received the Executive Committee of the miners' federation at his office in Downing Street, and the whole mining situation again was discussed for a couple of hours, but without very satisfactory results.

Not even an agreement was reached as to who is to be the Chairman of the Royal Commission. So many commissions investigating this question in the past have failed to untangle the snarl that eligible men are reluctant to serve again.

A. J. Cook and Tom Smith, leaders of the miners, again today pressed to have the miners' federation represented on the commission, but Mr. Baldwin remained firm in declining to permit this. He said the miners could have technical observers present and be represented by witnesses to elucidate facts, as in an ordinary court.

Messrs. Cook and Smith expressed themselves as dissatisfied, but as the exclusion applies equally to the mine owners, they agreed to attend the commission's sittings under protest, thus withdrawing their previous threat not to participate on the commission unless with representation.

Mr. Baldwin said today that the rules of the commission would allow the widest inquiry into every aspect of the situation.

One interesting development today was that Mr. Cook announced that he had received a warning from the British Fascist Party. The note to him said: "We are ready for you and your dupes—swift, sudden and sure."

Commenting on this Mr. Cook said it was time that the Government took action against persons threatening trade-union leaders. Open encouragement of them, he added, would only lead to the organization of similar bodies among the working classes, thus bringing a threat of a serious conflict and perhaps civil war.

BERGSON QUITS LEAGUE BODY

By Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

GENEVA, Aug. 14.—Continued illness has forced Professor Henri Bergson, French philosopher, to resign his position as President of the League of Nations Commission on International Intellectual Cooperation.

The letter of resignation, which was addressed to the President of the Council, says, in part:

"Illness which for months has kept me confined to bed and chair and has given no symptom of amelioration has prevented me from taking part in the recent meetings of the commission. Now I learn that even if I recover a fair degree of health I must reduce to a strict minimum the number of hours of work, and above all live far away from Paris the greater part of the year.

"Under these circumstances, and considering the Institute of Intellectual Cooperation, which so happily has been established, will increase the task of the French member of the commission and make essential his presence in Paris, I am obliged, with deep regret, to hand to the Council my resignation."

In conclusion, Professor Bergson says: "If anything can ease my regret it is the thought that the commission has now conquered the greater part of the difficulties with which such a new enterprise was faced and that the creation of the International Institute, in furnishing the means for a widely increased range of action, will permit the commission to work more efficiently toward the great ideal of the League of Nations.

DEMANDS TRIAL IN FRANCE.

Duke of Manchester Insists on Divorce Suit Hearing There.

PARIS, Aug. 14 (AP).—The Duke of Manchester, who filed application for divorce at Nice on July 25, insisted today that he is entitled to have his suit tried in the French courts. This statement was in answer to a claim advanced by the Duchess's solicitors in London recently that a divorce by a French court would in no way affect the validity of the marriage of the Duke and Duchess, according to English law.

The Duke's lawyer, Leroy B. Delaney, an American, said tonight that the Duke claims domicile in France, and therefore is privileged to file a petition for divorce in the French courts.

"There has been no defense such as that alleged recently by the Duchess's solicitors in London, filed to date," said Mr. Delaney.

Mr. Delaney reiterated his client's decision to fight the case through to an end on this side of the Channel.

GREEK VOLCANO ERUPTS.

LONDON, Aug. 14 (AP).—The Athens correspondent of The Daily Express reports that the volcanic eruption which began several days ago on the island of Thira, north of the island of Crete, is continuing.

The volcano is throwing up tongues of fire 300 feet high, accompanied by strong submarine seismic shocks between the islands of Kaimeni and Thira. A new island is said to be rising, owing to the volcanic action.

Thira Island, or Santorin, which is of volcanic origin, has about 35,000 square miles and a population of about 20,000. It has suffered no eruptions since 1866.

ONE ARCTIC PLANE WRECKED AT ETAH

TWO OTHERS DEFY STORM

WASHINGTON, Aug. 14.—Pounded by the waves during a storm in Foulke Fjord, the anchorage of the MacMillan Arctic expedition at Etah, Greenland, the naval plane NA-2 was so badly damaged that she is now probably "out of the game," according to a radio message forwarded to the National Geographic Society by Arthur A. Collins, amateur operator at Cedar Rapids, Iowa.

Despite the severity of the storm through which the planes passed while at their Etah anchorage, the message added, the other two planes—NA-1 and NA-3—were to make an attempt today to establish an intermediate base at the head of Flagler Bay.

The heavy winds of yesterday have died down, MacMillan stated in his message to the Geographic Society, and better weather prevails today. The aviators, while handicapped by weather conditions, have been aided by the midnight sun, making flights possible at any time that wind and weather conditions were favorable.

Eberle Sees Schedule Maintained.

Admiral Eberle, Chief of Naval Operations and Acting Secretary of the Navy, stated that so far the naval aviators have been operating on schedule time despite weather handicaps.

"MacMillan told me before he left Washington," said the Admiral, "that the aviation reconnoissance work would have to be done between Aug. 15 and about Sept. 3, and for that reason the planes must be at Etah not later than Aug. 1. The expedition and its planes were at Etah on time and were expeditiously unloaded.

"Three unfavorable elements have been encountered. First, it is unfortunate that no land base could be established for the planes on the shore at Etah, and the planes have thus been forced to anchor in the bay. Second, the extensive fog and cloud banks encountered over Ellesmere Land have made it difficult to locate the intermediate bases. Third, mountains higher than were known to exist in the interior of Ellesmere Land, some of them more than 7,300 feet high, will force the planes, which must carry considerable loads in progressively moving their fuel and supplies forward to the advance air base, to fly at higher altitude than was anticipated."

The dispatches from the expedition have all emphasized the fog enveloping Ellesmere Land to the right of the line of flight toward Cape Thomas Hubbard, and they are taken to mean that after the intermediate base is established at Flagler Bay or some other point approximately half way between Etah and Cape Thomas Hubbard the aviators will be greatly handicapped in proceeding from that base to the latter cape, unless the fog disappears.

It is possible that the aviators may not be able to reach Cape Thomas Hubbard, Admiral Eberle said, if the fog in that direction continues, and also that when they reach that cape the polar sea may be found frozen tight, in which event the aviators may not be able to land there and establish their advanced air base, unless they are able to find a suitable landing site ashore.

Tells of Hayes Fjord Landing.

Commander MacMillan's dispatch on the NA-2 damage was confirmed in official radio messages received during the day by the Navy Department from Lieut. Commander Richard E. Byrd, through the naval radio station at Great Lakes, Ill. The first of these, delayed in transmission, disclosed that the aviators flew as they planned Tuesday night, in an effort to establish a sub base at Bettsted Fjord, but that they were unable to make a landing at that point, landing instead at Hayes Fjord beyond.

This message, sent at 10 P. M., Aug. 12, read:

"Left Etah last night at 9:30 P. M. for Bettsted Fjord; NA-3, Reber and McDonald; NA-2, Schur and Rocheville; NA-1, Byrd and Bennett. At 10 o'clock, NA-2 had to turn back due to low temperature of motor.

"NA-1 and NA-3 reached eastern end of Bettsted Fjord at 11 P. M. Did not land in Bettsted Fjord due to strong cross wind from southwest. This fjord is magnificent. Its cliffs rise straight from the water for 2,000 feet. Landed western end of Hayes Fjord, but strong wind rushing down from glaciers made anchoring or taking planes up to the rocky coast line impossible.

"Took off and both planes reached ship at midnight. Have found another spot free of ice where a landing might be made, the western end of Flagler Fjord. Commander MacMillan has agreed to establish a base there as soon as the weather permits. It blew a gale most of the day and Ellesmere Land has been covered with fog."

The second message from Lieut. Commander Byrd was sent at 11 o'clock last night and read:

Disabled NA-2 Nearly Sinks.

"Weather continued bad all night and strong wind continued until 4 P. M. Had great difficulty keeping small icebergs from demolishing planes. Continued pounding of water sprung seams and filled two forward compartments of NA-2 and she went down by the nose until the wings touched water. Got her alongside the Bowdoin and with great difficulty prevented her from sinking. Later hoisted her aboard the Peary and proceeded to repair hull and change motors. Weather is now calm. NA-1 and NA-3 defying storm. They will start out some time tonight to deposit supplies and fuel at base."

The message from Commander MacMillan to the Geographic Society also reported that the expedition's photographers are getting excellent results in natural-color pictures of the Arctic flora and fauna. Littleton Island, near Etah, a breeding place of the little auk, was visited by Maynard Owen Williams, who succeeded in taking many pictures of this most typical of all Arctic birds. Williams also obtained views of walruses sunning themselves on the steep rocky shores of the island.

Jacob Gayer, color photographer, is enthusiastic over results obtained in reproducing the contrasting colors of Arctic fish and the iridescence of glaciers under the light of the midnight sun.

Flier Gets an Eskimo Kiloute.

CHICAGO, Aug. 14 (AP).—Lieut. Commander E. F. McDonald Jr. of Chicago, who is with the MacMillan Arctic-Navy expedition, has received from the Eskimos a kiloute, a musical instrument made something like a tennis racquet.

In a radio message received by an associate, H. H. Roemer, today, McDonald, referring to the radiocasting from the exploration ship Peary last Wednesday night when the voices of Eskimos were heard in Chicago, said:

"The Eskimos seem to enjoy broadcasting as much as we. They presented me with a kiloute, the most permanent musical instrument in the world. It is built like a tennis racquet, with skin stretched across it, and sounds like a drum when it is beaten with a walrus rib."

McCARL ALTERS AIR ROUTE.

Objection to Fuel Contract Forces Planes to Avoid Langlin Field.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 14 (AP).—The Army Air Service and Controller General McCarl are engaged in a row, with the result that for the present at least the army aviators must take up a new route in flying between Washington and the West.

A dispute over the method of purchasing gasoline lies at the bottom of the trouble. The Controller General decided that the fuel supplies for planes stopping at Langlin Field, Moundsville, W. Va., should be advertised for and purchased in the open market. The Air Service had let its contract to a single individual.

Until the controversy is adjusted machines from the East have been ordered to fly by way of Cumberland, Md., and Columbus, Ohio, and not to land at Langlin except in emergency. There is no intention of abandoning the Langlin Field, and Air Service officers hope when the difference with the Controller General ends to resume normal use of the Moundsville station.

DEAF MUTE ALIEN SUES TO STAY HERE

LAW OF 1924 IS INVOLVED

Petitioner Contends That It Permits Quota Excess Already Then in America to Remain.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 14. — Through legal proceedings invoked here to prevent the deportation of an alien the question has been raised whether an act of Congress approved June 7, 1924, and permitting some aliens to enter in excess of the quota did not in effect provide that all aliens who were here before that date were entitled to remain unless subject to deportation for the ordinary causes.

Aron Poliszek, alias Harry Fishbone, a deaf mute, has filed a petition in the Supreme Court of the District of Columbia for an injunction against Secretary Davis and other officials to enjoin them from forfeiting his bond and deporting him, and a rule to show cause has been issued by Chief Justice McCoy.

Through Raymond M. Hudson, Poliszek tells the Court that he came to this country in 1922 and was admitted for six months on his giving a bond not to become a public charge. This bond has been extended from time to time. He now says he has learned to read and write in Hebrew and English and to become an efficient plumber and engineer. In the Connecticut State School for Deaf Mutes.

The suit raises an issue as to the meaning of the joint resolution of June 7, 1924, Mr. Hudson contending that Congress in the joint resolution intended to wipe the slate as of June 7, 1924, and to permit all who had come in at that time to remain permanently unless there were other causes for deportation.

The Assistant Secretary of Labor at that time wrote a letter to the House Committee on Immigration advocating a resolution covering a great many more aliens and showing the necessity for admitting them. The committee granted these requests and added to them the phrase, "Aliens heretofore temporarily admitted under bond to relieve cases of extreme hardship."

If the construction contended for by Poliszek is sustained by the courts it will affect many aliens in this country, Mr. Hudson says.

OKMULGEE, Okla., Aug. 14 (AP).—Four miners were arrested today at Henryetta, charged with violation of the recent order of Sheriff John Russell, forbidding public prayer meetings of miners in the mining area. The arrests were made by National Guardsmen who are operating under direction of the sheriff.

Mine union officials declared that the arrests were made to test the legality of the sheriff's proclamation.

The American Civil Liberties Union received yesterday a telegram from J. W. Hinton, Secretary of the Henryetta (Okla.) Coal Association, saying:

"The press carries an article on your offer of aid to striking miners. May we ask that you investigate situation before taking any steps. No religious service interfered with. The proclamation of the Sheriff meets with approval of taxpayers. Can show you many instances where striking miners have invaded constitutional rights of working citizens. Wire churches here or Rotary Club or Lions Club or Chamber of Commerce or send a man here to investigate. The radicals are using the religious propaganda as a shield. No constituted religious body or church is behind this fanatic move."

Arthur Garfield Hays, writing for the Civil Liberties Union, sent the following reply to Mr. Hinton:

"We appreciate your suggestion that we investigate the situation in the Henryetta coal district before taking steps to defend the locked-out miners, who claim they have been deprived of their ordinary civil rights—particularly the right to hold outdoor prayer meetings.

"Coincidental with our offer to defend the striking miners to the full extent that their civil rights have been violated, we took action to acquaint ourselves thoroughly with the facts of the situation. From our representative in McAlester, Okla., we received a wire which confirmed our fears that the Okmulgee County authorities, with the open approval of tacit approval of Governor Trapp, have broken the law in prohibiting peaceful assemblage of the miners. We are not concerned with whether they meet for the purpose of prayer, for the regular conduct of their strike affairs, or for any other lawful purpose. We are interested primarily in supporting their civil rights of assemblage and free speech. That the proclamation of the Sheriff meets with the approval of the taxpayers does not make it any more legal. If it is true that the taxpayers are satisfied with such flagrant flouting of the Constitution, it is clear evidence of a marked decline of the local respect for historic American traditions.

"That the churches, Rotary Clubs, Lions Clubs or Chambers of Commerce, to which you refer us for information on the situation, endorse the action of the Sheriff does not change the fact that such action is illegal.

"If it is true that the locked-out miners have committed acts depriving others of constitutional rights, we will make every effort to get them to desist or we will gladly volunteer our services for the defense of such civil rights."

FINDS JOBLESS COUPLE HUNGRY AND DRENCHED

Policeman Buys Them a Meal, Sends Man to Lodging House and Wife to Bellevue.

"Say, officer," he said, "can you help us out."

"Sure," said McEneny. "Who is us?"

"Myself and my wife," was the answer, the young man pointing to the steps of the Hippodrome, where a young woman was sitting, exhausted, with the rain dripping on her. "We haven't had anything to eat for three days."

The couple, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Martin of Philadelphia, said they had come here to find work, but not finding any had to walk the streets and go without food. The policeman bought them a meal in a near-by restaurant.

The woman was sent to Bellevue and the man to the Municipal Lodging House. Mrs. Martin was discharged from the hospital about noon.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 14.—The Emergency Fleet Corporation received three bids each today for the sale of the American Export Lines, the American Diamond Line and the American Yankee Line, all engaged in freighter service between the North Atlantic Coast and European ports.

The American Export Lines, operated by the Export Steamship Corporation of New York, has twenty freighters, ranging in tonnage from 7,500 to 8,600, sailing from New York, Philadelphia and Baltimore to Mediterranean and Black Sea ports.

The American Yankee Line runs six vessels from Philadelphia, Baltimore, Boston and Norfolk to German ports.

CHICAGO, Aug. 14.—Mrs. Doris Pack, wife of Albert Pack, President of the Hubbard Steel Foundry Company, will receive $132,500 alimony under the terms of an agreement announced at a divorce hearing before Judge John J. Sullivan in the Superior Court today.

The Judge indicated he would grant a decree to her after hearing her recitations of alleged acts of cruelty. The alimony is to consist of $32,500 in money and $100,000 in personal property, including rugs, a horse and her wedding presents.

Mrs. Pack testified to seven acts of cruelty of which she said her husband was guilty since their marriage in August, 1921. Once, she said, he threw a glass of water at her, another time a jug, another time slapped her, and on another occasion threatened to throw her out of the dining car of a train.

HOSPITAL ATTENDANT CONFINED AS DESERTER

George M. Grill, 25 years old, an attendant in the Manhattan State Hospital for the Insane on Ward's Island, who complained recently that the hospital authorities tied him to a bed for seven and one half hours, believing him insane, was arrested yesterday by the New York police after a request for his apprehension had been sent here by Lieutenant A. A. Hildreth of the Forty-ninth Bombardment Squadron at Phillips Field, Aberdeen, Md., who recognized him as a deserter.

Lieutenant Hildreth compared Grill's photograph which appeared in newspaper stories at the time of his complaint against the hospital with pictures of men wanted as deserters and declared that he had deserted from Phillips Field on July 2, 1924. Detectives Lynch and Walsh of the East 104th Street Station arrested Grill yesterday at the hospital, and turned him over to the army authorities at Governors Island. He was hysterical in the military prison there, according to officers, and became violent last night.

Grill told the prison officials that he was a musician, and when his request for a violin was refused, he threw himself on the floor of his cell and beat his head against the wall. After guards subdued him, they considered removing him to the hospital, but he suddenly became calm and gave them no further trouble. He will be kept in the prison until his sanity is determined. According to Grill, he has suffered from a nervous disorder which broke his health in 1924, forcing him to leave Johns Hopkins Hospital, where he worked in a clinic.

VENGEANCE STORY FAILS.

Supreme Court Justice Donohue refused yesterday to believe a story of a woman's revenge and denied an application by Mrs. Angelina Randazzo for a certificate of reasonable doubt and release on bail, pending her appeal from conviction in Special Sessions on May 18 of having drugs in her possession.

Mrs. Randazzo's story was that her sister-in-law placed the drugs in her valise to "fix her" because she had accused the sister-in-law of stealing jewelry from her, and then, caused Mrs. Randazzo to be stopped in the Grand Central Station and her luggage searched while she was on the way to Cleveland.

The papers in the case show that Mrs. Randazzo is the wife of Frank Randazzo of 1,665 West Eleventh Street, Brooklyn, and that they have a grocery store at 234 Kings Highway. Mrs. Randazzo said that on the day of her arrest she was on her way to Cleveland to attend to some property she owned there, and that before leaving home her sister-in-law, who lived with her, asked her to take a package to Cleveland and Mrs. Randazzo agreed. The package which, she said, her sister-in-law put into her valise was the one opened in the station and found to contain twenty-five one-ounce cans of cocaine and eighteen envelopes of heroin.

Justice Donohue in his opinion said that the jury had rejected the story of Mrs. Randazzo and that no reasonable doubt of her guilt was raised in his mind. The Court said:

"It does not seem reasonable that the defendant, a few days after having accused her sister-in-law of having stolen some jewelery, would be willing to do the sister-in-law the service of delivering a package in a distant city. Nor does it seem reasonable that the package should have been accepted without an examination for the purpose of seeing whether it contained the stolen jewelry. Furthermore, it is wholly unlikely that the sister-in-law, whose husband is so poor that he was selling his blood for blood transfusions, should have the means to purchase cocaine and heroin in quantities for the purpose of obtaining revenge."

BANK SUES BOLTON HALL.

Trust Company Wants Him to Account for Miss Brown's Funds.

A suit for an accounting of more than $100,000 was filed in the Supreme Court yesterday against Bolton Hall, lawyer, single tax advocate and friend of the late Henry George, by the Bankers Trust Company, as executor under the will of Mary E. Brown, who died Feb. 1. The complaint alleged that in 1913 Miss Brown and the defendant made an agreement under which she was to furnish funds for the purchase of property for their joint account. She was to receive not less than 4½ per cent. income on the money furnished, it was stated, and was to get one-third of the net profit resulting from the transactions. Mr. Hall was to get two-thirds.

It was further stated that Miss Brown paid more than $100,000 to Mr. Hall and that he still holds some property purchased with her funds. The suit is stated that it was dissatisfied with the manner in which Mr. Hall performed his duties and had elected to terminate the agreement. It demanded the money due the estate, but payment had been refused, it was alleged.

Bolton Hall is a son of the late Rev. Dr. John Hall, pastor of the Fifth Avenue Presbyterian Church, who in his will placed the son's share of his estate in trust. This action was said to have been due to Bolton Hall's advocacy of the theories of Henry George.

BRIDAL PAIRS DEFY HOODOOS

CHICAGO, Aug. 14 (AP).—Three couples today defied all manner of superstition when at thirteen minutes after 1 o'clock, the thirteenth minute of the thirteenth hour of Friday, they were married in death cell No. 13 of an old British convict ship here.

Thirteen guests carrying thirteen black cats witnessed the ceremony, which was concluded amid the shattering of thirteen mirrors. Each bride carried a coal black kitten. The jinx-defying sextette was selected from eight non-superstitious couples who applied after advertisements for brides and grooms in newspapers.

One happy couple received $100 in thirteen coins and a diamond wedding ring with thirteen diamonds. Another received $50 in $2 bills and a hard luck opal ring, and the third couple received a $50 money award and a plain gold wedding ring.

South Dakota Town Reproduces Old Gold Camp Scenes.

Streets of the once most widely known gold camp in the world are again filled with bewhiskered men. Stores are slabbed to represent primitive cabins. Bearded miners pan gold daily in Whitewood Creek, which flows through the town, and the old-time dance halls have been reproduced.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 14.—A sixty-hour sleeplessness test with eight George Washington students as subjects was begun today at 8 A. M. and is due to end at 6 P. M. on Sunday if any of the volunteers are still awake. Half of the quartet are women, and all are said to be around 19 years old. A number of the students are Government workers who attend part-time classes at the university.

After exhaustive physical and mental tests conducted this morning by Professor Fred A. Moss head of the Department of Psychology and Dr. Oscar A. Hunter, Dean of the Medical School, the "specimens," as they are called by the experts, proceeded about their ordinary vocations the Government clerks resuming work at their desks and the others living their accustomed lives.

This evening, for a short period, the group was put through mental and physical reactions which will be used as bases for comparison with results of the same tests to be taken later.

Afterward they attended the theatre, but when the performance was through they went to the home of one of the professors to spend the night under the scrutiny of Professor Moss and Dr. Hunter. Games were played and questions asked at intervals, the experts putting down data of various kinds.

A test employed there was to ascertain how quickly the mind responded in an emergency. Each student sat in the seat of a dummy automobile operating on a treadmill, its wheels revolving at a rapid rate. In front of the student hung a large pair of automobile lights which swung sharply toward him. A lever at his side enabled him to control the moving of these lights.

Very soon after the automobile was set in motion at a speed equivalent to twenty-five miles an hour, the lights suddenly swung toward the "driver," and he was expected to stop the lights in time to avoid hitting a hypothetical approaching car. The scientists calculated with stop watches the mental reactions in attempts to prevent the "collisions."

Not until early tomorrow morning, the experts stated, would the strain begin to tell, normal human beings heretofore having gone without sleep for sixteen or eighteen hours before showing marked fatigue.

The "specimens" will be examined at regular intervals all day tomorrow and on Sunday. Sunday evening, when the tests end, they will sleep twelve hours, and will then again be examined to demonstrate their recuperative powers.

Four well-dressed young men entered the jewelry showrooms of Gerstein blith Brothers on the twelfth floor of the loft building at 15 West Thirty-seventh Street shortly after 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon, bound and gagged Simon Gerstein blith and his son Harry and a young woman stenographer, Miss Jenny Kenaf, and made off with jewelry valued at $5,000.

Only one man of the quartet displayed a gun. He covered the two men and the girl, while his companions bound them with twine and covered their mouths with adhesive tape. The robbers then took a stickpin valued at $500 from Simon Gerstein blith, his watch and his son's watch, disdaining a ring and wrist watch worn by Miss Kenaf. They also took $100 in cash from the two men.

After tinkering with the safe for about twenty minutes, and failing to open it, the robbers seized a sample case of jewelry and made their escape. Miss Kenaf, who released herself before the others, notified the police of the Thirtieth Street Station, and detectives were immediately sent to the building. They questioned employes of the building in an effort to find how the robbers had entered and left the showroom, but no one had seen them arrive or leave, leading the police to the conclusion that the four had hidden themselves in the building earlier in the day. The detectives got good descriptions of the robbers from Miss Kenaf and the Gerstein bliths.

The costume she is supposed to have worn when she left home was a dark tan crêpe de chine, rather short and sleeveless, flesh colored stockings and black patent leather shoes, with a silk coat of the same shade as her dress trimmed with light brown fur.

Although near-sighted she never uses glasses except when she reads. She is said to be devoted to reading fiction.

She was married to Mr. Thompson in the Spring of 1922 at the Marble Collegiate Church, a marriage which came as a surprise to their friends as she was to have made her début in society the following Winter. She lived at that time with her aunt, Miss de Puy, at 129 East Fortieth Street. She is a niece of Mrs. Walter Rush Bynner of Lakewood, N. J., and a cousin of Mrs. I. de Puy Agnew of this city.

Mr. Thompson, who was graduated from Columbia in 1920, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. George Thompson of 162 East Sixty-first Street, who at present are at Kinder Rook, their lodge in Onteora Club, in the Catskills. They also have a large country place at Oyster Bay.

He is a brother of Mrs. A. H. Wengell, the former Miss Zillah T. Thompson, who is spending the Summer in Paris, and of the late Alanson R. Thompson.

After being graduated from Columbia Mr. Thompson took a post-graduate course there, and in 1922 he was given the Honorary Fellowship in European History, and for two years taught European history at the university.

Miss Colburn, Principal of the Rayson School on Riverside Drive, where the young Mrs. Thompson attended school, is a godmother of the Thompsons' child. The young mother before her marriage also studied at the Art Students' League.

OSLO, Norway, Aug. 14 (AP).—Norway today celebrated the formal taking possession of the islands of Spitzbergen, or Svalbard, as they were named by the ancient vikings, who discovered them in 1194.

The assumption of sovereignty over this archipelago in the Arctic Ocean put into effect the Spitzbergen treaty, signed in Paris Feb. 9, 1920, awarding the islands to Norway in accordance with the decision of the Allied Supreme Council.

Norway's sovereignty was inaugurated at Longyear Valley, or Advent Bay, the principal settlement of Spitzbergen, where Paal O. Berg, Minister of Justice, read the notification of possession and the Norwegian flag was hoisted. A detachment from the Government patrol boat Heimdal formed a guard of honor, and the Heimdal fired salutes. The national anthem was sung and a prayer offered for Norway.

Minister Berg declared Spitzbergen to be Norwegian territory and subject to Norwegian law and justice. Deputy Prefect Lassen of the Ministry of Justice assumed office.

The day was celebrated throughout Norway by decoration of the cities with flags and firing of salutes from fortresses. In Oslo Premier Mowickel issued a statement declaring that "the incorporation of Svalbard makes Aug. 14 a red-letter day in our history. What happens today is an extension of Norwegian territory, and all Norwegians must rejoice that such an important territory in the Arctic Ocean becomes a part of Norway."

Svalbard, the name given by the ancient Norsemen to the islands they discovered in 1194, means "cool coast." The political control of the archipelago was under dispute during the latter half of the last century, and it was decided only after the World War by the Supreme Council at Paris, which awarded the Islands to Norway.

The Spitzbergen treaty of 1920, confirming the Supreme Council's decision, was signed by the United States, the British Empire, France, Italy, Japan, Holland, Denmark, Sweden and Norway.

Standing in front of the Second Precinct Police Station in Union City early yesterday, Captain Charles Dillman saw three men going past in a horse-drawn wagon containing two barrels. Captain Dillman took the men to the station house, where, he said, they confessed that they had broken into the cellar of Mazzini Hall at 167 West Street and had taken the barrels.

The prisoners said they were George Harper of 419 Cortlandt Street, Union City, and his brother, Eugene, of 129 Washington Street, Hoboken, and John Anderson of 118 Summitt Avenue, Union City. As they were being booked the police opened the barrels.

"Well, boys," said the Captain, "you did not get much for your trouble. There is olive oil in these barrels."

"Well, what do you know about that?" said Anderson. "Why, we were tipped off that the cellar was filled with liquor and all we would have to do was grab the first barrel we saw."

"Is that so?" answered the Captain. A short time later he procured a search warrant and with several policemen raided the hall and seized assorted liquors valued at $4,000 and arrested the manager, Frank Zanorino.

MORE SCRAP RUBBER USED.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 14.—The Department of Commerce is making a survey of the consumption of crude rubber in the United States during the first seven months of the present year. Returns so far received indicate that no decrease in consumption is to be expected, despite the high prevailing price of rubber.

Largely as a result of these high levels the reclaimed rubber industry is booming, and indications are that 135,000 tons of reclaimed rubber will be consumed. It is expected that reclaimed rubber will form approximately 40 per cent. of the total consumed, as the amount tends to vary with the price of crude.

During 1924 production of reclaimed rubber ammounted to 67,072 tons, compared to 69,534 tons in 1923 and 54,438 tons in 1922. During the first quarter of 1925 production was 25,353 tons. Figures for the second quarter apparently will show a production in excess of 30,000 tons.

During the first quarter of 1925 73,191,200 pounds of scrap rubber was consumed—nearly 3,000,000 pounds in excess of the consumption for the last three months of 1924.

KILLED AS WALL CRUMBLES.

Contractor Supervising Construction Buried Under Debris.

Buried in more than a ton of cement building blocks, Fred Schmatz, 35 years old, Vice President of the George J. Schmatz Iron and Steel Company of 380 Broadway, was fatally injured yesterday morning when a one-story-high section, fifteen feet wide, of an old wall on the J. T. Whelan Furniture Company warehouse at 463 West 155th Street gave way during construction of an addition.

Released from the debris, Schmatz was taken to Columbus Hospital with internal injuires and a fractured skull. He died shortly after his arrival there.

Schmatz was superintending the construction of the addition when the accident occurred. A hole was driven into the lower part of the old wall to make a resting place for an iron girder. Schmatz was examining the hole when the wall above gave way.

By Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Aug. 14.—A contract for the establishment of a commercial air service between Egypt and India was signed today by the Air Ministry with Imperial Airways, Ltd. The contract is for five years and a subsidy of about £87,000 annually is granted the company, and the Government itself will spend another £13,000 annually in connection with the enterprise.

The Government intends to maintain a ground staff along the route in order to keep control of the development of flying in these little known areas. The commercial service probably will not be ready until the Fall of next year.

The Air Ministry has expressed the wish that the company use three engined machines in view of the unsettled nature of a large portion of the route, which would make forced landings dangerous, and it will take more than a year to build the necessary planes.

Until Imperial Airways, Ltd., is able to take over the present fortnightly military service it will be retained. The distance from Kantara, Egypt, to Karachi, India, is 2,500 miles, and when once the through flights are made, Egypt will be commercially within hours only from India.

Sir Sefton Branker, Director of Civil Aviation, representing the Government, and Colonel Birchall and Lieut. Col. Minchin, representing Imperial Airways, Ltd., are about to fly to the East to inspect the route and make the necessary arrangements.

POLICEMAN ARRESTED; INVADED APARTMENT

Accused of Drunkenness, Flourishing Gun and Threatening Writer and Guests.

Michael J. Byrnes, a policeman attached to the Special Service Division, was arrested yesterday, charged with unlawful entry and felonious assault in the apartment of Shannon Cormack, a newspaper writer, at 102 West Forty-third Street.

Mr. Cormack and Mrs. Cormack were entertaining Walter Gilbert, a player in "Aloma of the South Seas," Mrs. Gilbert and Charles G. Kaufman, a newspaper writer, yesterday afternoon, when, Mr. Cormack told the police, Byrnes, apparently intoxicated, entered the open door of their apartment.

Mr. Cormack said he put Byrnes out of the room and led him to the head of the stairs, whereupon he shut and locked the door, but in a moment, he continued, Byrnes broke open the door and entered the room, holding a pistol and a blackjack.

Mr. Cormack said he went to the telephone to call the police, but Byrnes forced him with the pistol to leave the instrument. Mr. Kaufman spoke to the policeman, asking him to leave the apartment, and, he said, Byrnes aimed a blow at him head with the blackjack, and Mr. Kaufman in warding it was badly injured on the wrist. Next, he went on, Byrnes struck at Mr. Gilbert and when Mrs. Gilbert ran to her husband's aid the policeman shoved her roughly over a chair.

Meanwhile Mrs. Cormack ran to Sixth Avenue, where she got Traffic Patrolman Block, who said later he found Byrnes standing in the room holding the pistol and blackjack, and then, Mrs. Cormack telephoned the West Forty-seventh Street Police Station.

Police Captain William Kelleher, Deputy Inspector Patrick McCormick and Lieutenant John Flynn came and arrested Byrnes. At the West Forty-seventh Street Station they found he carried a pint flask of whisky. Police Surgeon Charles A. Dillon, who was called to examine Byrnes, said he was under the influence of whisky unfit for duty.

Magistrate Farrell in Night Court granted Byrnes's request for a postponement of his hearing until next Tuesday and fixed bail at $1,000. He was unable to furnish it and was locked up. The charge was changed in Night Court to disorderly conduct and intoxication.

FLORENCE, Italy, Aug. 14 (AP).—Two American students, Joseph Donell, 21 years old, and Walter Metzger, 23, both of Chicago, were arrested here today charged with having severely beaten Mario Sodi, a porter of the Savoy Hotel, after a dispute in the hotel corridor.

After the alleged attack on the porter the crowd, incensed by reports of it, entered the hotel and searched the corridors until they found Donell and Metzger. The crowd barred the Americans' escape from the hotel and were beginning to manhandle them when the police arrived.

Donell and Metzger were imprisoned in the Murate Prison and are being held for trial on the charge of assault. Court action is expected speedily.

Patrolman Charles Sauer of the Hamilton Avenue Precinct, Brooklyn, followed a man acting suspiciously early yesterday morning into a cellar at 35 Hamilton Avenue, stepped into a foot of water which had flooded the floor and commanded the man to come out.

He was answered by a shower of bricks, thrown apparently by several men. Sauer fired his pistol. Instantly came another shower of bricks. Again the policeman fired, and a cry of pain told him he had struck some one.

Two men came out. One, who said he was James Giordano, 26 years old, of 67 Carroll Street, Brooklyn, was wounded in the thigh and sent to Kings County Hospital. The second man said he was Albert Mello and that he lived on President Street, near Clinton Street.

Sauer told Magistrate Dale in the Fifth Avenue Court he found a hole cut from the cellar into the tailor shop of Harry Zaslof, and Mello was held without bail for a hearing on Aug. 24 on the charge of attempted burglary. The Magistrate commended the policeman and said he would call the attention of the Police Commissioner to his bravery.

Mr. Cartwright, according to the cable, was killed in an automobile accident while driving from Chester to Birkenhead, near Liverpool. His niece, Miss Florence Cartwright, who was with him at the time, was also killed. Mr. Cartwright had several war decorations. He was 38 years old and single.

That Anderson has been near this city has been known by the police for some time and every effort was being made to close the net about the criminal at the time of the killing. It is the theory of police officers that Hance probably had other information tending to incriminate the gang, and that he was killed to close his mouth.

Story of An Eyewitness.

Mrs. Charles Cromer, the wife of the man who went to the aid of Hance in the cornfield, was the only known eyewitness to the murder. Her story was as follows:

"Three automobiles came down the road. A coupé occupied by two men and bearing an Ohio license plate was first. Hance's car was just behind it and a large red car brought up the rear. The red car passed the other two and then the shooting began.

"In an effort to halt Hance's machine the two men in the coupé opened fire. One shot pierced the radiator and another went through the ventilator on the hood. The Hance car stopped. The coupé pulled up in front of it and also stopped.

"Mrs. Hance was the first to alight from the machine. Barefooted, she started running down the road, and one of the two murderers opened fire. She fell dead with a bullet through her head.

"Hance stepped out from the other side of the car, and he and the man supposed to be 'Dutch' Anderson began wrestling. Several shots were fired at close range. Freeing himself from the clutches of the man, Hance leaped over a fence into the cornfield. Other shots were fired at him, and before he had traveled twenty-five feet he fell."

Mrs. Cromer added that when the coupé drew alongside the Hance car a conversation ensued between the men supposed to be Anderson and Wolfe and the Hances. An automobile containing a man and two children which passed by stopped further on on the sound of the shots, and the man believed to be Anderson sent two bullets after it to speed it on its way. The motorist later notified the police. A car with several negroes also went by and was fired upon.

Mrs. Hance, it is said, has lived in mortal dread of being murdered ever since her husband informed the police of the arch criminal's whereabouts. At the time her husband went to Hartford to testify against Chapman she refused to accompany the party, preferring to stay at home, fearing she would be killed as she stepped on the witness stand or while she was passing through the streets of Hartford.

On several occasions while her husband was in the East the woman called the local police headquarters, asking for protection, telling officers that her home was being watched.

Hance and his wife were both 40 years old. They were known to have harbored dangerous criminals and Hance himself had been accused of larceny. He is said to have betrayed Chapman in order to get the larceny charge against himself dismissed.

After hearing Cromer's story of the finding of Hance and of the body of his wife the authorities said they believed Hance's car was approached from behind by another car in which were Anderson and one or more others, that they opened fire and Hance tried to speed up and get away and that Mrs. Hance fell from the car when she was shot.

Hance, they think, likely got out of his car and tried to escape into the cornfield, but was followed by at least one of the pursuers and shot down.

Hance Testified Against Chapman.

Hance declared in an interview, while here, that Chapman was one of the finest men he ever knew and that he testified against him only because he had to and that he hated to see Chapman hanged.

Hance, a tall, raw-boned Hoosier farmer, who had never talked into a telephone before he came to Hartford, attracted considerable attention in the court room. That he dreaded the ordeal of facing Chapman, whom he had harbored in his farm house after Chapman's escape from the penitentiary, was easily understood when he took the witness stand. Chapman gave him a stony glare under which the big, good-natured farmer shrank. Under the State. Attorney's examination, he gave deadly testimony against Chapman, identifying murderous weapons found on the scene of the Skelly murder in the New Britain department store and in the murder car as articles Chapman had in his possession, when he and other members of the gang staged at Hance's home in the Spring and Summer of last year.

Hance and the four Muncie policemen who captured Chapman were seated in a line of chairs directly in front of the cage where Chapman sat after the jury had returned a verdict of guilty. Chapman was seen to be looking intently at Hance and to mutter something under his breath.

Warden H. K. W. Scott of the State prison said tonight that the news of the killing of Ben Hance and his wife near Muncie by Anderson would not be communicated to Gerald Chapman unless it was told him by his attorneys.

In reply to a question whether extra guards would be thrown about the prison in anticipation of a possible attack by Chapman's gang, he said "the prison is always carefully guarded and will continue to be."

Walter Shean, who was considered the State's star witness against Chapman until Lillian Knell, a Meriden waitress, testified, has been locked up in the Hartford County Jail since the Chapman trial, State's Attorney Alcorn having deferred his trial pending the outcome of Chapman's appeal to the Supreme Court, which is to be argued in October.

Fearing reprisals by Chapman's confederates on the outside, Shean is said to have requested to be kept inside. He was not disturbed tonight to be told of the killing of Hance and his wife.

When Judge Frederick J. Groehl of New York, Chapman's senior counsel, was notified at his Summer home in Monterey, Vt., tonight of the murder of Hance and his wife, he said:

"Offhand, I would say that I don't think Anderson had anything to do with it; they can't help Chapman by reprisals. That's self-evident. Of course, that is only my opinion, but there could be no incentive. Hance's testimony didn't hurt Chapman seriously. Chapman did not deny that he had stayed with Hance, and Hance was unable to swear that he saw Chapman handling those guns and other articles. He wasn't sure when I asked him whether they were Chapman's or the other men's belongings. It's a terrible thing, but I don't think Anderson would be foolish enough to think he could help Chapman that way."

Anderson Tunneled Out of Atlanta.

ATLANTA, Ga., Aug. 14 (AP).—George "Dutch" Anderson, charged with complicity in a double killing at Muncie, Ind., escaped from the Federal penitentiary here a year and a half ago, tunneling his way under the prison walls with two companions.

Anderson's get-away followed the sensational escape of his confederate, Gerald Chapman, by several month. Chapman's daring departure was under the eyes of guards and accompanied by a hail of bullets, which resulted in the wounding of the notorious robber.

The escape of Anderson was undiscovered by prison officers until the prisoner had successfully left the penitentiary and gained some distance on his pursuers. Authorities believed that the tunnel under the walls must have required from one to six months to dig.

Linked in Crime With Chapman.

The names of Gerald Chapman and George Anderson have been inseparably linked in crime for years. Their biggest "job" together was the robbery of about $2,400,000 in cash, securities and jewels from a United States mail truck at Broadway and Leonard Street on Oct. 24, 1921. They were convicted of that crime and sent to Atlanta Penitentiary for twenty-five years.

In March, 1923, Chapman and a forger escaped from the prison, but were recaptured the following day after a gun-fight in which Chapman was shot three times.

He was taken in a serious condition to a hospital in Athens, Ga., and on the night of April 3, 1923, escaped by making a rope of his bedclothes. After Chapman's escape Anderson got away by burrowing under the fifty-foot prison wall. It was believed by the police that the two notorious criminals were together again, which proved to be the fact, at least when they were in Muncie at the Hance home.

The police of the world were on the lookout for them. During the International Police Conference which met in this city descriptions of the men were sent throughout this and other countries, but Anderson was never apprehended.

Chapman is believed to have planned with Anderson the looting of the store at New Britain, Conn. He was convicted and sentenced to hang for the murder of Policeman James J. Skelly on the night of the robbery. Anderson is believed to have helped Chapman in every possible way during his trial for that murder, and is said to have supplied money for Chapman's defense.

Chapman was accused by the Atlanta Penitentiary authorities of having, in some unexplained way, aided Anderson to escape. Gratitude for this is alleged to have caused Anderson to remain close to Hartford, Conn., while Chapman was on trial there. There were several rumors at that time that Anderson was actually in Hartford and was planning to aid Chapman to escape while he was en route to or from the Court House.

Chapman's arrest in Muncie was brought about by local officials and Federal agents. He had been reported to the authorities as making his headquarters in Hance's home. At that time, it is said, the Hances, Chapman, Anderson and Wolfe were all on very friendly terms and that Hance's home was headquarters for a desperate gang of criminals.

As a result of information furnished by Hance to save himself from a charge of larceny, the police accosted Chapman in the streets of Muncie on Jan. 18. He was surrounded by officers and taken toward an automobile, from which another officer was alighting. Chapman suddenly whipped out a revolver and fired, but the shots went wild and he was quickly overpowered and subdued.

He was taken to the Muncie jail and Federal officials were notified. A few hours later he was turned over to the Federal authorities and rushed to Indianapolis to forestall an expected effort of Anderson and others to stage a jail delivery in Muncie.

When he was being questioned by officials at Indianapolis he repeatedly muttered about "people who turned me up for blood money." His resentment was bitter and was directed chiefly against Hance. Anderson is believed to have known just how Chapman was "turned up" and to have sworn to get "revenge" for his pal.

MISS SCOPES TO TEACH GIRLS AT TARRYTOWN

LEXINGTON, Ky., Aug. 14 (AP).—Miss Lela V. Scopes, sister of John T. Scopes, convicted violator of the Tennessee anti-evolution law, announced today she had signed a contract to teach at the Highland Manor School for Girls at Tarrytown, N. Y. Miss Scopes was refused reappointment to her position in the Paducah, Ky., schools because she, like her brother, accepted the evolution theory.

TARRYTOWN, N. Y., Aug. 14.—Miss Alice Barnes, acting head of the Highland Manor School for Girls, said tonight that the school has been negotiating for the services of Miss Lela V. Scopes as a teacher of science and mathematics next year. The Principal of the school, Dr. Eugene H. Lehman, is now on vacation at North Sebago Lake, Me.

It is understood here that Miss Scopes will teach in the college preparatory department of the school and will live in a dormitory with her students. Her salary is to be $1,000 a year and all expenses, and she will be placed in an administrative position where she will have an opportunity to advance to an executive position. She is 24 years old and has been teaching for three years.

SKULLS TERRIFY TENANTS.

Janitor Dispels Fear When He Explains That a Lodge Used Them.

Tony Augusta, 19 years old, of 205 East Ninety-seventh Street, and Tony Guirato, 19, of 225 East Ninety-seventh Street, passing through the basement of a negro tenement at 208 East Ninety-seventh Street yesterday, kicked a round object, stooped to look at it and ran screaming to the street.

The block buzzed with excitement as more negroes ran from the building and stood uneasily on the sidewalk. Some one telephoned the police, and detectives Carrol and Kotchman found the skull in the basement. They also found two thigh bones. Then while a hush enveloped the tenants they discovered a red banner with gold lettering of the words "Doric," "Ionic" and "Corinthian," and at this juncture appeared Franklin White, a negro

By JAMES R. HARRISON

Thanks to some nimble mental gymnastics by John J. McGraw, the Giants won two games from the Robins yesterday at the Polo Grounds. Twenty-five thousand fans who came to admire the home-coming Giants remained to lavish praise on the talented head of Mr. McGraw, whose lofty thinking brought a 5-3 victory in the finale after the Giants had captured the first soiree, 3 to 2.

When Uncle Wilbert Robinson passed Hartley intentionally in the eighth to get at Jack Bentley, McGraw yanked his pitcher back to the bench and sent Frank Snyder forward to hit. The score was tied and the bases were full, and it was a distinct triumph for the intelligentsia when Frank flogged a single to right, driving home the winning runs.

Mr. McGraw thought the Giants exactly one-half a game nearer the Pirates, who slaughtered the Reds. The race is now practically a two-horse affair, with the Giants stepping so spryly that the Pirates will have to take care for their coat tails. Four games lie between the two contenders.

In the first exhibit yesterday the Giants bumped off Mr. Tiny Osborne comparatively early in the competition, falling on the pachyderm for all three of their runs in the first inning. But in the second affray it was a close call all the way.

Uncle Wilbert surprised everybody by sending Lloyd Andrew Brown, a new left-hander, to the hillock against Bentley. Lloyd Andrew was once with the Phillies but, aside from that unfortunate experience, has never been in the big leagues. He was hatched for the first time yesterday and was closely scrutinized by the 25,000 fans. The Giants also looked at him closely but failed to see much until the sixth, when they carved out a 3-1 lead.

Terry Starts Winning Drive.

Two were out in the Giant half before the lads started doing or dying. Terry cracked a single to left, and so did Lindstrom. Lindstrom stole second, and then Uncle Robbie ordered Hartley passed purposely.

At this point Mr. McGraw pressed his fingers to his brow and did some deep thinking. Shortly the lofty looking was brewing over Coogan's Bluff. Rain and darkness threatened, and if the Giants didn't win the game in this inning they might never get another chance.

Clearly it was a time for action, and as quick as a flash McGraw instructed Snyder to walk to the plate and knock the ball as far as he could, preferably where there were no Brooklyn fielders.

From now on Mr. McGraw will probably do all the thinking for his team. A few days ago some lofty thinking by several of the athletes cost a ball game at Pittsburgh, and it will not be allowed to happen again.

Freddy Lindstrom, the child prodigy, astounded his elders by hitting three triples in the two contests. All three were solid smashes and provided the most healthful kind of exercise for the Robin outfielders. Freddy tapered down later and hit two singles.

The Giants checked their erratic dispositions at the gate coming in. They were full of running. Lindstrom made a brilliant catch of a foul, nearly falling into a box and breaking his valuable neck. Frisch was a gladsome sight at short. The hitting was compactly bunched, and Jack Scott, Bentley and Wayland Dean, in holding the Dodgers to four runs, did a full day's work.

Southworth Upsets Tiny.

Southworth started Osborne's one bad inning by prodding a single to right. Frisch drew a walk and Young and Meusel singled to left. These gladsome proceedings sent two runs over the plate and left pedestrians on first and second. Terry tassed cold water on the rally by hitting into a double play, but Young, who advanced to third, scored when Kelly dumped a most timely hit in left.

Three runs were all that Scott asked of a cruel world. Once or twice he was in trouble, but only in the sixth did the Robins make a scraping acquaintance with the plate. Fournier was first at bat, and the Frenchman rocketed a single to right. Cox did the same to left, and the bases became loaded when Brown smashed a liner off Lindstrom's glove.

Cotton Tierney had a chance to make himself famous for life, but his grounder to Frisch started a double play, in the course of which Fournier scored. Taylor singled to right and put Cox over the pan.

The Robins overlooked an elegant chance in the fourth when Cox and Brown started fire with singles. Tierney, Taylor and Osborne rolled over and played dead for Scott.

Brooklyn scored first in the second game, but the Giants had the last word. In the fourth round, with Wheat neatly stowed away, Fournier socked a single to right and was forced by Cox, who would have been easily doubled at first if Terry had squeezed Kelly's perfect toss. This faux pas was fatal, but no more so than a subsequent misplay by Kelly and Young, who played "Button, button, who's got the button?" on Ed Brown's tall fly to short right.

With all this New York generosity, Flatbush scored a run but the Giants tied the standing in the fifth on Terry's walk, Lindstrom's infield bingle and Hartley's one-bagger to left. Southworth's short hit to centre put three on after Bentley had fanned, but Lloyd Arthur Brown was noble in the pinch. He induced Frisch to force Lindstrom at the plate and then struck Young out.

Two More for New York.

In the next inning, which was the sixth, the native New Yorkers hauled in two more tallies on Kelly's single, his force-out by Terry, Linstrom's triple to furthest left centre, Hartley's walk and a double steal, with Lindstrom on the sliding end.

Nothing daunted, the Dodgers rushed at Mr. Bentley for the tying runs in the eighth, gaining this foothold on Stock's single, Wheat's double, which sent Stock to third, Fournier's out via Terry and Cox's short single back of second.

LUQUE FALLS IN SECOND

Four Other Hurlers Also Fail and 6-Run Rally in Eighth Clinches Victory.

Special to The New York Times.

PITTSBURGH, Aug. 14.—In a loosely played game featured by a batting list of nineteen Redlegs, the Pittsburgh Pirates defeated Cincinnati here today, 14 to 6.

Adolph Luque started for the Reds but his occupancy of the mound was limited to one and one-third innings during which the Pirates annexed a big lead which was further increased as the game progressed. Four relief pitchers injected into the line-up could not stem the tide of base hits, although old Rube Benton did temporarily, but he too disappeared under a fusillade of hits in the Pirates' second big inning, the eighth.

A walk, an erro, a single and a sacrifice fly gave the Pirates two runs in the first frame and in the next inning they opened on Luque in earnest. Moore and Gooch got doubles and after Meadows's ineffectual attempt to bunt caused the death of Gooch, Carey doubled. McInnis then singled, scoring a pair and driving Luque from the mound.

Jakie May was greeted by a single by Cuyler. Barnhart's fly was deep enough in centre to allow both runners to advance and then Traynor singled, scoring another pair of runs, which caused May to vanish. Biemiller stopped the Buccaneers and was lifted for a pinch-hitter later.

Cincinnati pulled a big inning in the fourth. Walker singled and after the next two men had been retired, Caveney doubled and Bohne ran for him. Hargrave walked and Pinch-Hitter Smith smote a double. Zitzmann scratched a single and Traynor made a wild throw, two runs scoring. Pinelli singled, but no more trouble came, as Roush was an easy out. Three singles netted the Reds another run in the sixth.

McInnis's triple and Barnhart's single scored another tally in the seventh and in the eighth they had a big time. Moore opened with a triple and Gooch walked. Meadows, Carey and McInnis hit singles, which were followed by an error and Benton left the mound. Barnhart tripled and Traynor produced a sacrifice fly, which ran the total for the inning up to six runs.

Two singles by the Reds in the ninth after two were out netted them their sixth and final run.

Plans to Enjoin Kaplan-Herman Bout

BOSTON, Aug. 14 (AP).—Charles Cardio, manager of Red Chapman, Chelsea featherweight, said today he would seek an injunction restraining Kid Kaplan from meeting Babe Herman in a title bout at Waterbury, Conn., Aug. 27. Cardio declared the champion signed to meet Chapman in a championship bout in June and has not fulfilled it.

Pickups and Putouts

Travis Jackson is out again, this time indefinitely, although he practiced at the Polo Grounds yesterday. He has a trick knee like Heinie Groh and Joe Dugan and there is no telling when it will be strong enough to let him resume.

Travis went into the Pittsburgh series against the advice of Dr. Walsh, the club physician, and, as exclusively predicted by the medico, Jax hurt his knee again.

In the sixth with two out and men on first and third, Bentley batted right-handed for the first time, perhaps, in his life. As soon as the Giants had put over the double steal, Jack went back to normalcy.

Dazzy Vance will pitch this afternoon, ladies and gentlemen. In the other corner will be Kid Nehf, who will try to keep the Robins in fifth place, whither they were pushed yesterday.

Charles W. Paddock, California sprinter, and Loren Murchison of the Newark A. C., reported at the headquarters of the Amateur Athletic Union yesterday to file a detailed statement of the receipts and expenses in connection with their recent athletic tour around the world. The statement shows that they received $4,635 from the various athletic orgaizations for which they competed in Japan, China, the Philippine Islands, Germany, France, England, Sweden and Finland. The trip cost them $5,690, or $1,055 in excess of the amount received.

Murray Hulbert, President of the A. A. U., and Secretary Frederick W. Rubien subjected Murchison and Paddock to a vigorous cross-examination regarding all details of their expenses. Later it was announced that a transcript of the examination together with the expense accounts would be forwarded to the Registration Committees of the Metropolitan and Southern Pacific Association with which Murchison and Paddock are affiliated, respectively. Copies also will be sent to the Foreign Relations Committee of the A. A. U. of which William C. Prout of Boston is Chairman.

Pending an analysis of the accounts and formal action by these committees, President Hulbert said last night he would make no further comment on the matter for the present.

OKMULGEE, Okla., Aug. 14 (AP).—Four miners were arrested today at Henryetta, charged with violation of the recent order of Sheriff John Russell, forbidding public prayer meetings of miners in the mining area. The arrests were made by National Guardsmen who are operating under direction of the sheriff.

Mine union officials declared that the arrests were made to test the legality of the sheriff's proclamation.

The American Civil Liberties Union received yesterday a telegram from J. W. Hinton, Secretary of the Henryetta (Okla.) Coal Association, saying:

"The press carries an article on your offer of aid to striking miners. May we ask that you investigate situation before taking any steps. No religious service interfered with. The proclamation of the Sheriff meets with approval of taxpayers. Can show you many instances where striking miners have invaded constitutional rights of working citizens. Wire churches here or Rotary Club or Lions Club or Chamber of Commerce or send a man here to investigate. The radicals are using the religious propaganda as a shield. No constituted religious body or church is behind this fanatic move."

Arthur Garfield Hays, writing for the Civil Liberties Union, sent the following reply to Mr. Hinton:

"We appreciate your suggestion that we investigate the situation in the Henryetta coal district before taking steps to defend the locked-out miners, who claim they have been deprived of their ordinary civil rights—particularly the right to hold outdoor prayer meetings.

"Coincidental with our offer to defend the striking miners to the full extent that their civil rights have been violated, we took action to acquaint ourselves thoroughly with the facts of the situation. From our representative in McAlester, Okla., we received a wire which confirmed our fears that the Okmulgee County authorities, with the open or tacit approval of Governor Trapp, have broken the law in prohibiting peaceful assemblage of the miners. We are not concerned with whether they meet for the purpose of prayer, for the regular conduct of their strike affairs, or for any other lawful purpose. We are interested primarily in supporting their civil rights of assemblage and free speech. That the proclamation of the Sheriff meets with the approval of the taxpayers does not make it any more legal. If it is true that the taxpayers are satisfied with such flagrant flouting of the Constitution, it is clear evidence of a marked decline of the local respect for historic American traditions.

"That the churches, Rotary Clubs, Lions Clubs or Chambers of Commerce, to which you refer us for information on the situation, condone the action of the Sheriff does not change the fact that such action is illegal.

"If it is true that the locked-out miners have committed acts depriving others of constitutional rights, we will make every effort to get them to desist or we will gladly volunteer our services for the defense of such civil rights."

FINDS JOBLESS COUPLE HUNGRY AND DRENCHED

"Sure," said McEneny. "Who is us."

"Myself and my wife," was the answer, the young man pointing to the steps of the Hippodrome, where a young woman was sitting, exhausted, with the rain dripping on her. "We haven't had anything to eat for three days."

The couple, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Martin of Philadelphia, said they had come here to find work, but not finding any had to walk the streets and go without food. The policeman bought them a meal in a near-by restaurant.

The woman was sent to Bellevue and the man to the Municipal Lodging House. Mrs. Martin was discharged from the hospital about noon.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 14.—The Emergency Fleet Corporation received three bids each today for the sale of the American Export Lines, the American Diamond Line and the American Yankee Line, all engaged in freighter service between the North Atlantic Coast and European ports.

The American Export Lines, operated by the Export Steamship Corporation of New York, has twenty freighters, ranging in tonnage from 7,000 to 8,600, sailing from New York, Philadelphia and Baltimore to Mediterranean and Black Sea ports.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, Aug. 14.—Mrs. Doris Pack, wife of Albert Pack, President of the Hubbard Steel Foundry Company, will receive $132,500 alimony under the terms of an agreement announced at a divorce hearing before Judge John J. Sullivan in the Superior Court today.

The Judge indicated he would grant a decree to her after hearing her recitations of alleged acts of cruelty. The alimony is to consist of $32,500 in money and $100,000 in personal property, including rugs, a horse and her wedding presents.

Mrs. Pack testified to seven acts of cruelty of which she said her husband was guilty since their marriage in August, 1921. Once, she said, he threw a glass of water at her, another time a jug, another time slapped her, and on another occasion threatened to throw her out of the dining car of a train.

George M. Grill, 23 years old, an attendant in the Manhattan State Hospital for the Insane on Ward's Island, who complained recently that the hospital authorities tied him to a bed for seven and one half hours, believing him insane, was arrested yesterday by the New York police after a request for his apprehension had been sent here by Lieutenant A. A. Hildreth of the Forty-ninth Bombardment Squadron at Phillips Field, Aberdeen, Md., who recognized him as a deserter.

Lieutenant Hildreth compared Grill's photograph which appeared in newspaper stories at the time of his complaint against the hospital with pictures of men wanted as deserters, and declared that he had deserted from Phillips Field on July 2, 1924. Detectives Lynch and Walsh of the East 104th Street Station arrested Grill yesterday at the hospital, and turned him over to the army authorities at Governors Island. He was hysterical in the military prison there, according to officers, and became violent last night.

Grill told the prison officials that he was a musician, and when his request for a violin was refused, he threw himself on the floor of his cell and beat his head against the wall. After guards subdued him, they considered removing him to the hospital, but he suddenly became calm and gave them no further trouble. He will be kept in the prison until his sanity is determined. According to Grill, he has suffered from a nervous disorder which broke his health in 1924, forcing him to leave Johns Hopkins Hospital, where he worked in a clinic.

Supreme Court Justice Donohue refused yesterday to believe a story of a woman's revenge and denied an application by Mrs. Angelina Randazzo for a certificate of reasonable doubt and release on bail, pending her appeal from conviction in Special Sessions on May 18 of having drugs in her possession. Mrs. Randazzo's story was that her sister-in-law placed the drugs in her valise to "fix her" because she had accused the sister-in-law of stealing jewelry from her, and then, caused Mrs. Randazzo to be stopped in the Grand Central Station and her luggage searched while she was on the way to Cleveland.

The papers in the case show that Mrs. Randazzo is the wife of Frank Randazzo of 1,665 West Eleventh Street, Brooklyn, and that they have a grocery store at 234 Kings Highway. Mrs. Randazzo said that on the day of her arrest she was on her way to Cleveland to attend to some property she owned there, and that before leaving home her sister-in-law, who lived with her, asked her to take a package to Cleveland and Mrs. Randazzo agreed. The package which, she said, her sister-in-law put into her valise was the one opened in the station and found to contain twenty-five ounces of cocaine and eighteen envelopes of heroin.

Justice Donohue in his opinion said that the jury had rejected the story of Mrs. Randazzo and that no reasonable doubt of her guilt was raised in his mind. The Court said:

"It does not seem reasonable that the defendant, a few days after having accused her sister-in-law of having stolen some jewelery, would be willing to do the sister-in-law the service of delivering a package in a distant city. Nor does it seem reasonable that the package should have been accepted without an examination for the purpose of seeing whether it contained the stolen jewelry. Furthermore, it is wholly unlikely that the sister-in-law, whose husband is so poor that he was selling his blood for blood transfusions, should have the means to purchase cocaine and heroin in quantities for the purpose of obtaining revenge."

BANK SUES BOLTON HALL.

Trust Company Wants Him to Account for Miss Brown's Funds.

A suit for an accounting of more than $100,000 was filed in the Supreme Court yesterday against Bolton Hall, lawyer, single tax advocate and friend of the late Henry George, by the Bankers Trust Company, as executor under the will of Mary E. Brown, who died Feb. 1. The complaint alleged that in 1913 Miss Brown and the defendant made an agreement under which she was to furnish funds for the purchase of property for their joint account. She was to receive not less than 4½ per cent. income on the money furnished. It was stated, and was to get one-third of the net profit resulting from the transactions. Mr. Hall was to get two-thirds.

It was further stated that Miss Brown paid more than $100,000 to Mr. Hall and that he still holds some property purchased with her funds. The trust company stated that it was dissatisfied with the manner in which Mr. Hall performed his duties and had elected to terminate the agreement. It demanded the money due the estate, but payment had been refused, it was alleged.

Bolton Hall is a son of the late Rev. Dr. John Hall, pastor of the Fifth Avenue Presbyterian Church, who in his will placed the son's share of his estate in trust. This action was said to have been due to Bolton Hall's advocacy of the theories of Henry George.

BRIDAL PAIRS DEFY HOODOOS

CHICAGO, Aug. 14 (AP).—Three couples today defied all manner of superstition when at thirteen minutes after 1 o'clock, the thirteenth minute of the thirteenth hour of Friday, they were married in death cell No. 13 of an old British convict ship here.

Thirteen guests carrying thirteen black cats witnessed the ceremony, which was concluded amid the shattering of thirteen mirrors. Each bride carried a coat black kitten. The jinx-defying sextette was selected from eight non-superstitious couples who applied after advertisements for brides and grooms in newspapers.

One happy couple received $100 in thirteen coins and a diamond wedding ring with thirteen diamonds. Another received $50 in $2 bills and a hard luck opal ring, and the third couple received a $50 money award and a plain gold wedding ring.

Streets of the once most widely known gold camp in the world are again filled with bewhiskered men. Stores are slabbed to represent primitive cabins. Bearded miners pan gold daily in Whitewood Creek, which flows through the town, and the old-time dance halls have been reproduced.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 14.—A sixty-hour sleeplessness test with eight George Washington students as subjects was begun today at 8 A. M. and is due to end at 6 P. M. on Sunday if any of the volunteers are still awake. Half of the quartet are women, and all are said to be around 19 years old. A number of the students are Government workers who attend part-time classes at the university.

After exhaustive physical and mental tests conducted this morning by Professor Fred A. Moss head of the Department of Psychology and Dr. Oscar A. Hunter, Dean of the Medical School, the "specimens," as they are called by the experts, proceeded about their ordinary vocations the Government clerks resuming work at their desks and the others living their accustomed lives.

This evening, for a short period, the group was put through mental and physical reactions which will be used as bases for comparison with results of the same tests to be taken later.

Afterward they attended the theatre, but when the performance was through they went to the home of one of the professors to spend the night under the scrutiny of Professor Moss and Dr. Hunter. Games were played and questions asked at intervals, the experts putting down data of various kinds.

A test employed there was to ascertain how quickly the mind responded in an emergency. Each student sat in the seat of a dummy automobile operating on a treadmill, its wheels revolving at a rapid rate. In front of the student hung a large pair of automobile lights which swung sharply toward him. A lever at his side enabled him to control the moving of these lights.

Very soon after the automobile was set in motion at a speed equivalent to twenty-five miles an hour, the lights suddenly swung toward the "driver," and he was expected to stop the lights in time to avoid hitting a hypothetical approaching car. The scientists calculated with stop watches the mental reactions in attempts to prevent the "collisions."

Not until early tomorrow morning, the experts stated, would the strain begin to tell, normal human beings heretofore having gone without sleep for sixteen or eighteen hours before showing marked fatigue.

The "specimens" will be examined at regular intervals all day tomorrow and on Sunday. Sunday evening, when the tests end, they will sleep twelve hours, and will then again be examined to demonstrate their recuperative powers.

Four well-dressed young men entered the jewelry showrooms of Gerstenbilth Brothers on the twelfth floor of the loft building at 15 West Thirty-seventh Street shortly after 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon, bound and gagged Simon Gerstenbilth and his son Harry and a young woman stenographer, Miss Jenny Kenaf, and made off with jewelry valued at $5,000.

Only one man of the quartet displayed a gun. He covered the two men and the girl, while his companions bound them with twine and covered their mouths with adhesive tape. The robbers then took a stickpin valued at $300 from Simon Gerstenbilth, his watch and his son's watch, disdaining a ring and wrist watch worn by Miss Kenaf. They also took $100 in cash from the two men.

After tinkering with the safe for about twenty minutes, and failing to open it, the robbers seized a sample case of jewelry and made their escape. Miss Kenaf, who released herself before the others, notified the West Thirtieth Street Station, and detectives were immediately sent to the building. They questioned employes of the building in an effort to find how the robbers had entered and left the showroom, but no one had seen them arrive or leave, leading the police to the conclusion that the four had hidden themselves in the building earlier in the day. The detectives got good descriptions of the robbers from Miss Kenaf and the Gerstenbilths.

She was married to Mr. Thompson in the Spring of 1922 at the Marble Collegiate Church, a marriage which came as a surprise to their friends as she was to have made her début in society the following Winter. She lived at that time with her aunt, Miss de Puy, at 129 East Fortieth Street. She is a niece of Mrs. Walter Rush Bynner of Lakewood, N. J., and a cousin of Mrs. I. de Puy Agnew of this city.

Mr. Thompson, who was graduated from Columbia in 1920, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. George Thompson of 162 East Sixty-first Street, who at present are at Kinder Rook, their lodge in Onteora Club, in the Catskills. They also have a large country place at Oyster Bay.

He is a brother of Mrs. A. H. Wenzell, the former Miss Zillah T. Thompson, who is spending the Summer in Paris, and of the late Alanson R. Thompson.

After being graduated from Columbia Mr. Thompson took a post-graduate course there, and in 1922 he was given the Honorary Fellowship in European History, and for two years taught European history at the university.

OSLO, Norway, Aug. 14 (AP).—Norway today celebrated the formal taking possession of the islands of Spitzbergen, or Svalbard, as they were named by the ancient vikings, who discovered them in 1194.

The assumption of sovereignty over this archipelago in the Arctic Ocean put into effect the Spitzbergen treaty, signed in Paris Feb. 9, 1920, awarding the islands to Norway in accordance with the decision of the Allied Supreme Council.

Norway's sovereignty was inaugurated at Longyear Valley, or Advent Bay, the principal settlement of Spitzbergen, where Paal O. Berg, Minister of Justice, read the notification of possession and the Norwegian flag was hoisted. A detachment from the Government patrol boat Heimdal formed a guard of honor, and the Heimdal fired salutes. The national anthem was sung and a prayer offered for Norway.

Minister Berg declared Spitzbergen to be Norwegian territory and subject to Norwegian law and justice. Deputy Prefect Lassen of the Ministry of Justice assumed office.

The day was celebrated throughout Norway by decoration of the cities with flags and firing of salutes from fortresses. In Oslo Premier Mowickel issued a statement declaring that "the incorporation of Svalbard makes Aug. 14 a red-letter day in our history. What happens today is an extension of Norwegian territory, and all Norwegians must rejoice that such an important territory in the Arctic Ocean becomes a part of Norway."

Svalbard, the name given by the ancient Norsemen to the islands they discovered in 1194, means "cool coast." The political control of the archipelago was under dispute during the latter half of the last century, and it was decided only after the World War by the Supreme Council at Paris, which awarded the islands to Norway.

The Spitzbergen treaty of 1920, confirming the Supreme Council's decision, was signed by the United States, the British Empire, France, Italy, Japan, Holland, Denmark, Sweden and Norway.

Standing in front of the Second Precinct Police Station in Union City early yesterday, Captain Charles Dillman saw three men going past in a horse-drawn wagon containing two barrels. Captain Dillman took the men to the station house, where, he said, they confessed that they had broken into the cellar of Mazzini Hall at 167 West Street and had taken the barrels.

The prisoners said they were George Harper of 419 Cortlandt Street, Union City, and his brother, Eugene, of 129 Washington Street, Hoboken, and John Anderson of 116 Summitt Avenue, Union City. As they were being booked the police opened the barrels.

"Well, boys," said the Captain, "you did not get much for your trouble. There is olive oil in these barrels."

"Well, what do you know about that?" said Anderson. "Why, we were tipped off that the cellar was filled with liquor and all we would have to do was grab the first barrel we saw."

"Is that so?" answered the Captain. A short time later he procured a search warrant and with several policemen raided the hall and seized assorted liquors valued at $4,000 and arrested the manager, Frank Zanorino.

MORE SCRAP RUBBER USED.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 14.—The Department of Commerce is making a survey of the consumption of crude rubber in the United States during the first seven months of the present year. Returns so far received indicate that no decrease in consumption is to be expected, despite the high prevailing price of rubber.

Largely as a result of these high levels the reclaimed rubber industry is booming, and indications are that 135,000 tons of reclaimed rubber will be consumed. It is expected that reclaimed rubber will form approximately 40 per cent. of the total consumed, as the amount tends to vary with the price of crude.

During 1924 production of reclaimed rubber ammounted to 67,072 tons, compared to 69,534 tons in 1923 and 54,458 tons in 1922. During the first quarter of 1925 production was 25,353 tons. Figures for the second quarter apparently will show a production in excess of 30,000 tons.

During the first quarter of 1925 73,191,200 pounds of scrap rubber was consumed—nearly 3,000,000 pounds in excess of the consumption for the last three months of 1924.

KILLED AS WALL CRUMBLES.

Contractor Supervising Construction Buried Under Debris.

Buried in more than a ton of cement building blocks, Fred Schmatz, 35 years old, Vice President of the George J. Schmatz Iron and Steel Company of 380 Broadway, was fatally injured yesterday morning when a one-story-high section, fifteen feet wide, of an old wall on the J. T. Whelan Furniture Company warehouse at 463 West 155th Street gave way during construction of an addition.

Released from the débris, Schmatz was taken to Columbus Hospital with internal injuires and a fractured skull. He died shortly after his arrival there.

Schmatz was superintending the construction of the addition when the accident occurred. A hole was driven into the lower part of the old wall to make a resting place for an iron girder. Schmatz was examining the hole when the wall above gave way.

LONDON, Aug. 14.—A contract for the establishment of a commercial air service between Egypt and India was signed today by the Air Ministry with Imperial Airways, Ltd. The contract is for five years and a subsidy of about £87,000 annually is granted the company, and the Government itself will spend another £13,000 annually in connection with the enterprise.

The Government intends to maintain a ground staff along the route in order to keep control of the development of flying in these little known areas. The commercial service probably will not be ready until the Fall of next year.

The Air Ministry has expressed the wish that the company use three engined machines in view of the unsettled nature of a large portion of the route, which would make forced landings dangerous, and it will take more than a year to build the necessary planes.

Until Imperial Airways, Ltd., is able to take over the present fortnightly military service it will be retained. The distance from Kantara, Egypt, to Karachi, India, is 2,500 miles, and when once the through flights are made, Egypt will be commercially within hours only from India.

Sir Sefton Brancker, Director of Civil Aviation, representing the Government, and Colonel Birchall and Lieut. Col. Minchin, representing Imperial Airways, Ltd., are about to fly to the East to inspect the route and make the necessary arrangements.

POLICEMAN ARRESTED; INVADED APARTMENT

Michael J. Byrnes, a policeman attached to the Special Service Division, was arrested yesterday, charged with unlawful entry and felonious assault in the apartment of Shannon Cormack, a newspaper writer, at 102 West Forty-third Street.

Mr. Cormack and Mrs. Cormack were entertaining Walter Gilbert, a player in "Aloma of the South Seas," Mrs. Gilbert and Charles G. Kaufman, a newspaper writer, yesterday afternoon, when, Mr. Cormack told the police, Byrnes, apparently intoxicated, entered the open door of their apartment.

Mr. Cormack said he put Byrnes out of the room and led him to the head of the stairs, whereupon he shut and locked the door, but in a moment, he continued, Byrnes broke open the door and entered the room, holding a pistol and a blackjack.

Mr. Cormack said he went to the telephone to call the police, but Byrnes forced him with the pistol to leave the instrument. Mr. Kaufman spoke to the policeman, asking him to leave the apartment, and, he said, Byrnes aimed a blow at his head with the blackjack, and Mr. Kaufman in warding it was badly injured on the wrist. Next, he went on, Byrnes struck at Mr. Gilbert and when Mrs. Gilbert ran to her husband's aid the policeman shoved her roughly over a chair.

Meanwhile Mrs. Cormack ran to Sixth Avenue, where she got Traffic Patrolman Block, who said later he found Byrnes standing in the room holding the pistol and blackjack, and then Mr. Cormack telephoned the West Forty-seventh Street Police Station.

Police Captain William Kelleher, Deputy Inspector Patrick McCormick and Lieutenant John Flynn came and arrested Byrnes. At the West Forty-seventh Street Station they found he carried a pint flask of whisky. Police Surgeon Charles A. Dillon, who was called to examine Byrnes, said he was under the influence of whisky and unfit for duty.

Magistrate Farrell in Night Court granted Byrnes's request for a postponement of his hearing until next Tuesday and fixed bail at $1,000. He was unable to furnish it and was locked up. The charge was changed in Night Court to disorderly conduct and intoxication.

FLORENCE, Italy, Aug. 14 (AP).—Two American students, Joseph Donell, 21 years old, and Walter Metzger, 23, both of Chicago, were arrested here today charged with having severely beaten Mario Sodi, a porter of the Savoy Hotel, after a dispute in the hotel corridor.

After the alleged attack on the porter the crowd, incensed by reports of it, entered the hotel and searched the corridors until they found Donell and Metzger. The crowd barred the Americans' escape from the hotel and were beginning to manhandle them when the police arrived.

Donell and Metzger were imprisoned in the Murate Prison and are being held for trial on the charge of assault. Court action is expected speedily.

Patrolman Charles Sauer of the Hamilton Avenue Precinct, Brooklyn, followed a man acting suspiciously early yesterday morning into a cellar at 35 Hamilton Avenue, stepped into a foot of water which had flooded the floor and commanded the man to come out.

He was answered by a shower of bricks, thrown apparently by several men. Sauer fired his pistol. Instantly came another shower of bricks. Again the policeman fired, and a cry of pain told him he had struck some one.

Two men came out. One, who said he was James Giordano, 26 years old, of 67 Carroll Street, Brooklyn, was wounded in the thigh and sent to Kings County Hospital. The second man said he was Albert Mello and that he lived on President Street, near Clinton Street.

Sauer told Magistrate Dale in the Fifth Avenue Court he found a hole cut from the cellar into the tailor shop of Harry Zaslof, and Mello was held without bail for a hearing on Aug. 24 on the charge of attempted burglary. The Magistrate commended the policeman and said he would call the attention of the Police Commissioner to his bravery.

That Anderson has been near this city has been known by the police for some time and every effort was being made to close the net about the criminal at the time of the killing.

It is the theory of police officers that Hance probably had other information tending to incriminate the gang, and that he was killed to close his mouth.

Story of An Eyewitness.

Mrs. Charles Cromer, the wife of the man who went to the aid of Hance in the cornfield, was the only known eyewitness to the murder. Her story was as follows:

"Three automobiles came down the road. A coupé occupied by two men and bearing an Ohio license plate was first. Hance's car was just behind it and a large red car brought up the rear. The red car passed the other two and then the shooting began.

"In an effort to halt Hance's machine the two men in the coupé opened fire. One shot pierced the radiator and another went through the ventilator on the hood. The Hance car stopped. The coupé pulled up in front of it and also stopped.

"Mrs. Hance was the first to alight from the machine. Barefooted, she started running down the road, and one of the two murderers opened fire. She fell dead with a bullet through her head.

"Hance stepped out from the other side of the car, and he and the man supposed to be 'Dutch' Anderson began wrestling. Several shots were fired at close range. Freeing himself from the clutches of the man, Hance leaped over a fence into the cornfield. Other shots were fired at him, and before he had traveled twenty-five feet he fell."

Mrs. Cromer added that when the coupé drew alongside the Hance car a conversation ensued between the men supposed to be Anderson and Wolfe and the Hances. An automobile containing a man and two children which passed by stopped further on on the sound of the shots, and the man believed to be Anderson sent two bullets after it to speed it on its way. The motorist later notified the police. A car with several negroes also went by and was fired upon.

Mrs. Hance, it is said, has lived in mortal dread of being murdered ever since her husband informed the police of the arch criminal's whereabouts. At the time her husband went to Hartford to testify against Chapman she refused to accompany the party, preferring to stay at home, fearing she would be killed as she stepped on the witness stand or while she was passing through the streets of Hartford.

On several occasions while her husband was in the East the woman called the local police headquarters, asking for protection, telling the officers that her home was being watched. Next, he went on, Byrnes struck at Mr. Gilbert and when Mrs. Gilbert ran to her husband's aid the policeman shoved her roughly over a chair.

Hance and his wife were both 40 years old. They were known to have harbored dangerous criminals and Hance himself had been accused of larceny. He is said to have betrayed Chapman in order to get the larceny charge against himself dismissed.

After hearing Cromer's story of the finding of Hance and of the body of his wife the authorities said they believed Hance's car was approached from behind by another car in which were Anderson and one or more others, that they opened fire and Hance tried to speed up and get away and that Mrs. Hance fell from the car when she was shot.

Hance, they think, likely got out of his car and tried to escape into the cornfield, but was followed by at least one of the pursuers and shot down.

Hance Testified Against Chapman.

Hance declared in an interview, while here, that Chapman was one of the finest men he ever knew and that he testified against him only because he had to and that he hated to see Chapman hanged.

Hance, a tall, raw-boned Hoosier farmer, who had never talked into a telephone before he came to Hartford, attracted considerable attention in the court-room. That he dreaded the ordeal of facing Chapman, whom he had harbored in his farm house after Chapman's escape from the penitentiary, was easily understood when he took the witness stand. Chapman gave him a stony glare under which the big, good-natured farmer shrank. Under the State Attorney's examination, he gave deadly testimony against Chapman, identifying murderous weapons found on the scene of the Skelly murder in the New Britain department store and in the murder car as articles Chapman had in his possession, when he and other members of his gang stayed at Hance's home in the Spring and Summer of last year.

Hance and the four Muncie policemen who captured Chapman were seated in a line of chairs directly in front of the cage where Chapman sat after the jury had returned a verdict of guilty. Chapman was seen to be looking intently at Hance and to mutter something under his breath.

Warden H. K. W. Scott of the State prison said tonight that the news of the killing of Ben Hance and his wife near Muncie by Anderson would not be communicated to Gerald Chapman unless it was told him by his attorneys.

In reply to a question whether extra guards would be thrown about the prison in anticipation of a possible attack by Chapman's gang, he said "the prison is always carefully guarded and will continue to be."

Walter Shean, who was considered the State's star witness against Chapman until Lillian Knell, a Meriden waitress, testified, has been locked up in the Hartford County Jail since the Chapman trial, State's Attorney Alcorn having deferred his trial pending the outcome of Chapman's appeal to the Supreme Court, which is to be argued in October.

Fearing reprisals by Chapman's confederates on the outside, Shean is said to have preferred to be kept inside. He was not disturbed tonight to be told of the killing of Hance and his wife.

When Judge Frederick J. Grochl of New York, Chapman's senior counsel, was notified at his Summer home in Monterey, Vt., tonight of the murder of Hance and his wife, he said:

"Offhand, I would say that I don't think Anderson had anything to do with it; they can't help Chapman by reprisals. That's self-evident. Of course, that is only my opinion, but there could be no incentive. Hance's testimony didn't hurt Chapman seriously. Chapman did not deny that he had stayed with Hance, and Hance was unable to swear that he saw Chapman handling those guns and other articles. He wasn't sure when I asked him whether they were Chapman's or the other men's belongings. It's a terrible thing, but I don't think Anderson would be foolish enough to think he could help Chapman that way."

Anderson Tunneled Out of Atlanta.

ATLANTA, Ga., Aug. 14 (AP).—George "Dutch" Anderson, charged with complicity in a double killing at Muncie, Ind., escaped from the Federal penitentiary here a year and a half ago, tunneling his way under the prison walls with two companions.

Anderson's get-away followed the sensational escape of his confederate, Gerald Chapman, by several month. Chapman's daring departure was under the eyes of guards and accompanied by a hail of bullets, which resulted in the wounding of the notorious robber.

The escape of Anderson was undiscovered by prison officers until the prisoner had successfully left the penitentiary and gained some distance on his pursuers. Authorities believed that the tunnel under the walls must have required from one to six months to dig.

Linked in Crime With Chapman.

The names of Gerald Chapman and George Anderson have been inseparably linked in crime for years. Their biggest "job" together was the robbery of about $2,400,000 in cash, securities and jewels from a United States mail truck at Broadway and Leonard Street on Oct. 24, 1921. They were convicted of that crime and sent to Atlanta Penitentiary for twenty-five years.

In March, 1923, Chapman and a forger escaped from the prison, but were recaptured the following day after a gunfight in which Chapman was shot three times.

He was taken in a serious condition to a hospital in Athens, Ga., and on the night of April 5, 1923, escaped by making a rope of his bedclothes. After Chapman's escape Anderson got away by burrowing under the fifty-foot prison wall. It was believed by the police that the two notorious criminals were together again, which proved to be the fact, at least when they were in Muncie at the Hance home.

The police of the world were on the lookout for them. During the International Police Conference which met in this city descriptions of the men were sent throughout this and other countries, but Anderson was never apprehended.

Chapman is believed to have planned with Anderson the looting of the store at New Britain, Conn. He was convicted and sentenced to hang for the murder of Policeman James J. Skelly on the night of the robbery. Anderson is believed to have helped Chapman in every possible way during his trial for that murder, and is said to have supplied money for Chapman's defense.

Chapman was accused by the Atlanta Penitentiary authorities of having, in some unexplained way, aided Anderson to escape. Gratitude for this is alleged to have caused Anderson to remain close to Hartford, Conn., while Chapman was on trial there. There were several rumors at that time that Anderson was actually in Hartford and was planning to aid Chapman to escape while he was en route to or from the Court House.

Chapman's arrest in Muncie was brought about by local officials and Federal agents. He had been reported to the authorities as making his headquarters in Hance's home. At that time, it is said, the Hances, Chapman, Anderson and Wolfe were all on very friendly terms and that Hance's home was headquarters for a desperate gang of criminals.

As a result of information furnished by Hance to save himself from a charge of larceny, the police accosted Chapman in the streets of Muncie on Jan. 18. He was surrounded by officers and taken toward an automobile, from which another officer was alighting. Chapman suddenly whipped out a revolver and fired, but the shots went wild and he was quickly overpowered and subdued.

He was taken to the Muncie jail and Federal officials were notified. A few hours later he was turned over to the Federal authorities and rushed to Indianapolis to forestall an expected effort of Anderson and others to stage a jail delivery in Muncie.

When he was being questioned by officials at Indianapolis he repeatedly muttered about "people who turned me up for blood money." His resentment was bitter and was directed chiefly against Hance. Anderson is believed to have known just how Chapman was "turned up" and to have sworn to get "revenge" for his pal.

LEXINGTON, Ky., Aug. 14 (AP).—Miss Lela V. Scopes, sister of John T. Scopes, convicted violator of the Tennessee anti-evolution law, announced today she had signed a contract to teach at the Highland Manor School for Girls at Tarrytown, N. Y. Miss Scopes was refused reappointment to her position in the Paducah, Ky., schools because she, like her brother, accepted the evolution theory.

Special to The New York Times.

TARRYTOWN, N. Y., Aug. 14.—Miss Alice Barnes, acting head of the Highland Manor School for Girls, said tonight that the school has been negotiating for the services of Miss Lela V. Scopes as a teacher of science and mathematics next year. The Principal of the school, Dr. Eugene H. Lehman, is now on vacation at North Sebago Lake, Me.

It is understood here that Miss Scopes will teach in the college preparatory department of the school and will live in a dormitory with her students. Her salary is to be $1,000 a year and all expenses, and she will be placed in an administrative position where she will have an opportunity to advance to an executive position. She is 24 years old and has been teaching for three years.

SKULLS TERRIFY TENANTS.

Tony Augusta, 19 years old, of 203 East Ninety-seventh Street, and Tony Guirato, 19, of 223 East Ninety-seventh Street, passing through the basement of a negro tenement at 208 East Ninety-seventh Street yesterday, kicked a round object, stooped to look at it and ran screaming to the street.

Thanks to some nimble mental gymnastics by John J. McGraw, the Giants won two games from the Robins yesterday at the Polo Grounds. Twenty-five thousand fans who came to admire the home-coming Giants remained to lavish praise on the talented head of Mr. McGraw, whose lofty thinking brought a 5-3 victory in the finale after the Giants had captured the first soiree, 3 to 2.

When Uncle Wilbert Robinson passed Hartley intentionally in the eighth to get at Jack Bentley, McGraw yanked his pitcher back to the bench and sent Frank Snyder forward to hit. The score was tied and the bases were full, and it was a distinct triumph for the intelligentsia when Frank flogged a single to right, driving home the winning runs.

Mr. McGraw thought the Giants exactly one-half a game nearer the Pirates, who slaughtered the Reds. The race is now practically a two-horse affair, with the Giants stepping so sprily that the Pirates will have to take care for their coat tails. Four games lie between the two contenders.

In the first exhibit yesterday the Giants bumped off Mr. Tiny Osborne comparatively early in the competition, failing on the pachyderm for all three of their runs in the first inning. But in the second affray it was a close call all the way.

Uncle Wilbert surprised everybody by sending Lloyd Andrew Brown, a new left-hander, to the hillock against Bentley. Lloyd Andrew was once with the Phillies but, aside from that unfortunate experience, has never been in the big leagues. He was hatched for the first time yesterday and was closely scrutinized by the 25,000 fans. The Giants also looked at him closely but failed to see much until the sixth, when they carved out a 3-1 lead.

Terry Starts Winning Drive.

Two were out in the Giant half before the lads started doing or dying. Terry cracked a single to left, and so did Lindstrom. Lindstrom stole second, and then Uncle Robbie ordered Hartley passed purposely.

At this point Mr. McGraw pressed his fingers to his brow and did some deep thinking. A lively looking storm was brewing over Coogan's Bluff. Rain and darkness threatened, and if the Giants didn't win the game in this inning they might never get another chance.

Clearly it was a time for action, and as quick as a flash McGraw instructed Snyder to walk to the plate and knock the ball as far as he could, preferably where there were no Brooklyn fielders.

From now on Mr. McGraw will probably do all the thinking for his team. A few days ago some lay thinking by several of the athletes cost a ball game at Pittsburgh, and it will not be allowed to happen again.

Freddy Lindstrom, the child prodigy, astounded his elders by hitting three triples in the two contests. All three were solid smashes and provided the most healthful kind of exercise for the Robin outfielders. Freddy tapered down later and hit two singles.

The Giants checked their erratic dispositions at the gate coming in. They were full of running. Lindstrom made a brilliant catch of a foul, nearly falling into a box and breaking his valuable neck. Frisch was a gladsome sight at short. The hitting was compactly bunched, and Jack Scott, Bentley and Wayland Dean, in holding the Dodgers to four runs, did a full day's work.

Southworth started Osborne's one bad inning by prodding a single to right. Frisch drew a walk and Young and Meusel singled to left. These gladsome proceedings sent two runs over the plate and left pedestrians on first and second. Terry tossed cold water on the rally by hitting into a double play, but Young, who advanced to third, scored when Kelly dumped a most timely hit in left.

Three runs were all that Scott asked of a cruel world. Once or twice he was in trouble, but only in the sixth did the Robins make a scraping acquaintance with the plate. Fournier was first at bat, and the Frenchman rocketed a single to right. Cox did the same to left, and the bases became loaded when Brown smashed a liner off Lindstrom's glove.

Calvin Tierney had a chance to make himself famous for life, but his groundier to Frisch started a double play in the course of which Fournier scored. Taylor singled to right and put Cox over the pan.

The Robins overlooked an elegant chance in the fourth when Cox and Brown started fire with singles. Tierney, Taylor and Osborne rolled over and played dead for Scott.

Brooklyn scored first in the second game, but the Giants had the last word. In the fourth round, with Wheat neatly stowed away, Fournier socked a single to right and was forced by Cox, who would have been easily doubled at first if Terry had squeezed Kelly's perfect toss. This faux pas was fatal, but no more so than a subsequent misplay by Kelly and Young, who played "Button, button, who's got the button?" on Ed Brown's tall fly to short right.

With all this New York generosity, Flatbush scored a run but the Giants tied the standing in the fifth on Terry's walk, Lindstrom's infield bingle and Hartley's one-bagger to left. Southworth's short hit to centre put three on after Bentley had fanned, but Lloyd Arthur Brown was noble in the pinch. He induced Frisch to force Lindstrom at the plate and then struck Young out.

Two More for New York.

In the next inning, which was the sixth, the native New Yorkers hauled in two more tallies on Kelly's single, his force-out by Terry, Linstrom's triple to furthest left centre, Hartley's walk and a double steal, with Lindstrom on the sliding end.

Nothing daunted, the Dodgers rushed at Mr. Bentley for the tying runs in the eighth, gaining this foothold on Stock's single, Wheat's double, which sent Stock to third, Fournier's out via Terry and Cox's short single back of second.

LUQUE FALLS IN SECOND

Four Other Hurlers Also Fail and 6-Run Rally In Eighth Clinches Victory.

Special to The New York Times.

PITTSBURGH, Aug. 14.—In a loosely played game featured by a batting list of nineteen Redlegs, the Pittsburgh Pirates defeated Cincinnati here today, 14 to 6.

Adolph Luque started for the Reds but his occupancy of the mound was limited to one and one-third innings during which the Pirates annexed a big lead which was further increased as the game progressed. Four relief pitchers injected into the line-up could not stem the tide of base hits, although old Rube Benton did temporarily, but he too disappeared under a fusilade of hits in the Pirates' second big inning, the eighth.

A walk, an erro, a single and a sacrifice fly gave the Pirates two runs in the first frame and in the next inning they opened on Luque in earnest. Moore and Gooch got doubles and after Meadows's ineffectual attempt to bunt caused the death of Gooch, Carey doubled. McInnis then singled, scoring a pair and driving Luque from the mound.

Jakie May was greeted by a single by Cuyler. Barnhart's fly was deep enough in centre to allow both runners to advance and then Traynor singled, scoring another pair of runs, which caused May to vanish. Blemiller stopped the Buccaneers and was lifted for a pinch-hitter later.

Cincinnati pulled a big inning in the fourth. Walker singled and after the next two men had been retired, Caveney doubled and Bohne ran for him. Hargrave walked and Pinch-Hitter Smith smote a double. Zitzmann scratched a single and Traynor made a wild throw, two runs scoring. Pinelli singled, but no more trouble came, as Roush was an easy out. Three singles netted the Reds another run in the sixth.

McInnis's triple and Barnhart's single scored another tally in the seventh and in the eighth they had a big time. Moore opened with a triple and Gooch walked. Meadows, Carey and McInnis hit singles, which were followed by an error and Benton left the mound. Barnhart tripled and Traynor produced a sacrifice fly, which ran the total for the inning up to six runs.

Two singles by the Reds in the ninth after two were out netted them their sixth and final run.

ST. Plans to Enjoin Kaplan-Herman Bout

BOSTON, Aug. 14 (AP).—Charles Cardio, manager of Red Chapman, Chelsea featherweight, said today he would seek an injunction restraining Kid Kaplan from meeting Babe Herman in a title bout at Waterbury, Conn., Aug. 27. Cardio declared the champion signed to meet Chapman in a championship bout in June and has not fulfilled it.

VETERAN MAGNATE DIES.

SUNAPEE, N. H., Aug. 14 (AP).—Arthur H. Soden, 80, for many years President of the Boston National baseball club, died at his Summer home here today. His home was in Newton, Mass.

A Civil War veteran and successful Boston business man, he was regarded in the world of sport as the man who sponsored professional baseball in Boston. He was a member of a Boston roofing firm.

Pickups and Putouts

Travis Jackson is out again, this time indefinitely, although he practiced at the Polo Grounds yesterday. He has a trick knee like Heinie Groh and Joe Dugan and there is no telling when it will be strong enough to let him resume.

Travis went into the Pittsburgh series against the advice of Dr. Walsh, the club physician, and, as exclusively predicted by the medico, Jax hurt his knee again.

In the sixth with two out and men on first and third, Bentley batted right-handed for the first time, perhaps, in his life. As soon as the Giants had put over the double steal, Jack went back to normalcy.

Dazzy Vance will pitch this afternoon, ladies and gentlemen. In the other corner will be Kid Nehf, who will try to keep the Robins in fifth place, whither they were pushed yesterday.

Charles W. Paddock, California sprinter, and Loren Murchison of the Newark A. C., reported at the headquarters of the Amateur Athletic Union yesterday to file a detailed statement of the receipts and expenses in connection with their recent athletic tour around the world. The statement shows that they received $4,635 from the various athletic orgalizations for which they competed in Japan, China, the Philippine Islands, Germany, France, England, Sweden and Finland. The trip cost them $5,690, or $1,055 in excess of the amount received.

Murray Hulbert, President of the A. A. U., and Secretary Frederick W. Rubien subjected Murchison and Paddock to a vigorous cross-examination regarding all details of their expenses. Later it was announced that a transcript of the examination together with the expense accounts would be forwarded to the Registration Committees of the Metropolitan and Southern Pacific Association with which Murchison and Paddock are affiliated, respectively. Copies also will be sent to the Foreign Relations Committee of the A. A. U. of which William C. Prout of Boston is Chairman.

BLUEGE'S DOUBLE BEATS YANKS, 2-0

12,000 WOMEN SEE GAME

Ladies' Day Brings Record Gathering to Washington Park to Cheer Champions.

By HARRY CROSS.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Aug. 14.—The Yanks lost a heart-breaking game to the Senators this afternoon, 2 to 0, after Sam Jones and Dutch Ruether had indulged in one of the prettiest tossing arguments of the season.

After Sam had stopped the world's champions once with the bases full, he melted into the eighth when the sacks again were heaped high with a whole crowd of Senators and two out. Oscar Bluege here drilled a double past Joe Dugan, transporting Bucky Harris and Sam Rice over with the runs which brought spasms of chuckles to the baseball emotional seat of the nation's Government.

McNeely went out in the eighth on a rocket to Dugan and Manager Harris streaked a hit at second, which Wanninger could not wrestle with. Rice then almost knocked

THE SENECA IS WON BY SARATOGA MAJE

POST TIME IS DISQUALIFIED

By HENRY R. ILSLEY.

Special to The New York Times.

SARATOGA SPRINGS, N. Y., Aug. 14.—Saratoga Maje, chestnut son of Old Koenig and Beautiful Lady, which was bred by Willis Sharpe Kilmer within fifty miles of the Saratoga race track, this afternoon won the twenty-third running of the Seneca Claiming Stakes, carrying Mr. Kilmer's colors, running the six furlongs through slop fetlock deep in 1:15.

Held at 5 to 2 and well played, Saratoga Maje came home an easy winner by three lengths over J. L. Holland's Gnome Girl, the latter being four lengths in front of R. T. Wilson Jr.'s Hidalgo. C. J. Casey saddled the winner, which was ridden by Pony McAtee. He carried 107 pounds and earned $2,825 for his owner. Mr. Kilmer did not long retain possession of the colt he bred, as he was claimed by James Boden for $5,100.

The secondary feature, the Geyser Handicap, was no contest, as the La Brea Stable's Sunspero easily defeated J. E. Widener's cup candidate, Altawood, over the mile course, running the distance in 1:40 2-5 and earning $1,165 for his owner. Andy Schuttinger had the mount, and the winner was in receipt of sixteen pounds.

There was another suspension and disqualification today. In the fifth race the Hamilton Farm's Post Time was disqualified after winning because of the general rough riding of Jockey McDermott, who continually interfered with Harry Payne Whitney's Blondin, which finished second. McDermott was set down for five days, it being his second offense at the meeting.

Two were scratched out of the Seneca Stakes, leaving seven to face the barrier, and they lined up in the following order from the rail: Saratoga Maje, R. T. Wilson Jr.'s Faddist, C. C. Bostwick's Scorcher, George D. Widener's Kilashandra, Gnome Girl, Hidalgo, the other Wilson horse, with General J. Buchanan's Miss Greble on the outside. Scorcher, with Earl Sande up, was the 8-to-5 favorite. Saratoga Maje opened at 2 to 1, went to 7 to 2 and remained there. Miss Greble was third choice at 5 to 1.

Faddist Steps Out.

The field was away to a good start. Faddist showed in front for a while and then folded up. Gnome Girl then went to the fore and showed the way to the middle of the turn. Saratoga Maje was well ridden. McAtee rated him back of the pace to the turn, where he went up, caught Gnome Girl and drew out to win easily by three lengths.

Gnome Girl held on gamely to take the place by four lengths from Hidalgo, which broke slowly, worked his way up and finished with a rush to take the show money from Kilashandra by a head. Scorcher was in close quarters all the way and never had a chance to get going.

The Geyser Handicap was almost a runaway for Sunspero, which had so many followers that he was backed from 3 to 1 to 2 to 1, in the belief that Altawood would find the distance too short and the weight too much in the going. Their judgment was confirmed. Altawood opened at 1 to 4 and closed at 2 to 5 after the play on Sunspero.

The Liliane stables' Sunsinl and Bud Fisher's Flagship declined the issue, leaving it a match race. Altawood broke on top when the barrier lifted at the start in the chute, but Sunspero quickly raced into the lead. The gelding appeared to revel in the going, opened a lead immediately and made the gap wider the further they went. At the winning post he had a margin of ten lengths, Sande easing his mount toward the end.

The finish of the six furlongs dash for maiden two-year-olds, was a thriller that brought the great crowd to its feet in an uproar of excitement. From the middle of the turn to the wire Post Time and Blondin ran nose and nose, stirrup to stirrup, and the result was in doubt until the board proclaimed Post Time the winner, only to be followed by Post Time's disqualification. By the disqualification Blondin took first money, J. E. Widener's Profiteer got the place and J. E. Madden's Blue Light took third money.

All Stand Up In Chase.

Seven ran in the two-mile selling steeplechase and all stood up. It was an interesting race to watch, with the field well bunched for a full turn of the field, and with the first three horses driving at the finish. The going through the field was soft from the continuous rains and to their liking and all got the course. The winner was G. B. Elliott's old gelding Flying Frog, which had done all his jumping on the Canadian courses.

John Setzer's Amstello a 15 to 1 shot made all the pace, closely followed by R. A. McNeely's Knight of Greenane, Flying Frog being under wrap for two turns of the field. He moved up around the final turn, challenged the leaders after clearing the final jump and outgamed Amstello in the drive to the wire, winning by half a length. Amstello held on well to take the place by five lengths from Knight of Greenane.

$296,700 NEW MARK FOR YEARLING SALE

STAR HAWK COLT TOPS LIST

$26,000 Paid by Fitzsimmons—Son of The Finn Is Knocked Down to Rancocas Stable for $25,000.

Special to The New York Times.

SARATOGA SPRINGS, N. Y., Aug. 14.—All records in American thoroughbred yearling sales were broken tonight when the offerings of the Claiborne and Ellerslie studs of Arthur B. Hancock came under the hammer in the sales paddocks of the Fassig-Tipton Company. Fifty-one head of choice stock were knocked down for a total of $296,700, the average being the unprecedented amount of $5,817.

It was one of the most brilliant sessions in the history of yearling sales in this country. Leading breeders and racing men in the United States and Canada were present, besides many British turf authorities and titled personages from abroad. Every seat was occupied and hundreds in evening dress were unable to approach nearer than the outskirts of the great throng. The largest record previously was that of the sale of the yearlings offered by Philip Chinn of the Himyar Stud when the total realized was $277,400. Tonight's sale topped the Chinn sale by $19,300.

Top price was $26,000, paid by James Fitzsimmons for a bay colt by Imp—Star Hawk out of Imp—Breathing Spell. This clear bay, with a small star, is a half-brother to Busy American and Resting Time. The Rancocas Stable paid $25,000, the next highest price, for a brown colt by The Finn out of Codean.

Mr. Vanderbilt Pays $17,000 for Colt.

Mrs. William K. Vanderbilt 2d, who races under the name of the Fair Stable and who owns the great gelding Sarazen, went to $17,000 for a bay colt by Last Coin out of Umbra, this being a half brother to Umbria and High Cloud. Marshall Field, racing on both sides of the water and only this week entering the steeplechase game, paid $16,000 for a bay colt by imp. McGee out of Sweepings.

Another $16,000 sale was that to J. F. Byers, the Pittsburgh sportsman, who bought a bay colt by Man o' War out of imp. Batanoea. This dam was especially imported to be mated with the wonder horse, and there was a great deal of speculation before the sale as to the price he would bring. He bore little resemblance to his sire, and while the bidding was lively there was not the interest anticipated in view of the record price that was paid for the Man o' War filly on Monday.

Other sales of more than usual importance were as follows:

Chestnut colt by imp. Star Hawk-Imp. Set Square, J. E. Davis	7,500
Bay colt by imp. Star Hawk-Hidden Talent, Fair Stable	7,500
Brown filly by Jim Gaffney-Fiituway, Oak Ridge Stable	7,500
Chestnut colt by Thunderer-imp. Sarlin, J. T. Macomber	7,500
Chestnut filly by imp. Light Brigade-Pleasant Puss, E. J. Tranter, agent	6,600
Chestnut colt by Campfire-First Witch, Brookmeade Stable	6,500
Chestnut colt by High Time-Intricate, Log Cabin Stockfarm	6,500
Chestnut colt, by The Finn—Chemulpo, Mr. Marlow	5,000

Horses in Training Sold.

A sale of horses in training was held in the paddock of the Saratoga Association before the racing this afternoon by the Thoroughbred Sale Company. Auctioneer George A. Bain knocked down nineteen head for $52,100, an average of $2,742.

Greatest interest was taken in the lot which marked the final disposal of the stable of the late Julius Fleischmann, who died suddenly in Florida last Winter. Seven head of the Fleischmann lot brought $20,650, an average of $2,950.

Top price of the sale was $6,700, which J. L. Herkemer paid for the five-year-old gray horses imp. Away II, a steeplechaser and a winner in England, which is well engaged in the steeplechase stakes at Belmont Park next month.

Prince of Umbria, b. c. (3), by Imp. Brown Prince II—Umbria; William Baird	$6,000
Nose Dive, b. g. (6), by Aeronaut—Agnia; F. C. Bain	$5,700

SARATOGA SPRINGS, N. Y., Aug. 14.—The course of the Saratoga Association was a morass this afternoon. Despite the downpour of the early morning there was a remarkable attendance, every seat in the grandstand being occupied, with the lawns crowded between showers.

The sun came out as the horses paraded for the Geyser Handicap, disappeared, and came out again later. It was not until evening, however, that the skies cleared with a promise of fair weather for the big day of the meeting on the morrow. The track cannot be better than heavy.

Trainer J. B. McKee saddled and Andy Schuttinger rode two winners for the La Brea Stable, Sandy Man in the opener and Sunspero in the Geyser.

McDermott's suspension was inevitable. His foul riding was apparent to any one with half an eye.

The rich Spinaway Stakes for two-year-olds tomorrow has sixteen named with Walter J. Salmon's Martha Washington, and R. T. Wilson's Ethereal asked to give away weight to all the others. It appears a decidedly open race.

Niceas, French Stallion, Sold To German for 260,000 Marks

BERLIN, July 26 (AP).—The famous French stud stallion Niceas has been sold to a German stud for 260,000 marks. Agents refused to divulge the name of the purchaser. Niceas was foaled in 1920 and is a product of the stud of Baron M. de Rothschild. During three years' racing the stallion was the winner of more than 500,000 francs.

CLEVELAND, Aug. 14 (AP).—The victories of Wire Worthy, in the Rainy Day Sweepstakes Consolation for 2-year-old trotters, and Gordon Dillon, in the Sportsman, for 3-year-old trotters, and the smashing of the world's trotting and pacing records for a mile and an eighth featured today's Grand Circuit racing at North Randall.

Wire Worthy is owned by J. Merkle of Columbia, Ohio, who also is owner of Station Belle, winner of the main division of the stake yesterday. He was driven to a straight-heat victory by Ben White of Lexington, Ky., who also was behind Station Belle and who trained four of the money winners in the stake.

Although under a veterinarian's care, Gordon Dillon had no trouble in taking the inaugural racing of the Sportsman. He was sent away in the lead and never was in danger in the first two heats, but tired in the stretch in the third and finished fourth.

In winning the first heat of the 2:19 trot in 2:20 Truax, driven by Richard McMahon of Lexington, clipped a full second off the trotting mark for a mile and an eighth. The former record was set by Tennis Mere on July 8. This time also was lowered today when Peter S. won the second heat in 2:20 2-5, and paid $153.60 on a two-dollar mutuel ticket. The race was won by Dr. Strongworthy, which took the third heat and was the largest gross money winner.

The pacing record at 1¼ miles was twice lowered by Miss Czar Moko, an easy winner of the 2:08 pace. Driven by Neil Edman of Memphis, she stepped the first heat in 2:18 3-5 and the second in 2:18 2-5. Lily the Great, which set the former mark of 2:18 4-5 on this track on July 4, also was a starter, but finished far back in the first two heats and was withdrawn.

The 2:04 pace, unfinished from yesterday, went to the favorite, Tarzan Grattan, winner of the Kalamazoo $25,000 Derby. Tarzan Grattan took the two heats raced yesterday and had no trouble annexing the third today, with Jakie O'Connor second in each heat.

Mullins and Fitzsimmons Sign Tentative Fight Terms

He and Fitzsimmons Say Final Dempsey-Wills Articles Will Be Settled by Sept. 20.

KEARNS TO POST $25,000

Paddy Mullins, manager of Harry Wills, attached his signature yesterday to a preliminary agreement for a world's heavyweight championship match with Jack Dempsey, to be fought somewhere in the Middle West next July. Floyd Fitzsimmons, boxing promoter of Michigan City, Ind., and Benton Harbor, Mich., felt so confident that he had the match closed that he left on the 6 o'clock train last night for Chicago.

Just before he departed Fitzsimmons sent this telegram to Dempsey, in care of the Barbary Hotel, Los Angeles:

"Closed all details with Paddy Mullins this afternoon. Have been trying to get you on the long distance for hours, but all efforts failed. But the fight is in the bag. Leaving for Chicago at 6 P. M."

Mullins verified the statement made by Fitzsimmons.

"Yes, I have signed an agreement, but not the final articles," he said. "I know that Fitzsimmons has Dempsey's signature, for Dempsey told me so over the telephone. So it is evident if I want Wills to meet Dempsey I must negotiate with Fitzsimmons."

The signing took place at Mullins's home, 217 Ocean Parkway, Flatbush, at 1:30 o'clock yesterday afternoon. In addition to Fitzsimmons and Mullins, the only other person present was Charley Rose, a New York promoter, who helped to bring Fitzsimmons and Mullins together.

Fitzsimmons said that the final signing of the articles would take place in Chicago on or about Sept. 20. At that meeting, he said, forfeits would be posted by all parties and there would be no doubt as to the promoter of the fight and where it would be fought.

Kearns Sees Commission.

While Fitzsimmons and Mullins were settling the preliminaries of the fight Jack Kearns was having a busy time before the New York State Athletic Commission at its meeting in the Flatiron Building. The commission heard Kearns's plea for reinstatement but withheld a decision until Tuesday. Kearns is under the ban here for failing to sign for a match for Wills. The commission asked Kearns to post a forfeit of $25,000 and to sign for a fight with Wills, if he hoped to have the ban lifted. The officials gave Kearns until Tuesday to comply with this demand.

Chairman Farley, in his talk to the newspaper men after the meeting, implied that the Dempsey-Wills battle, if fought out of this territory, would not be recognized as a championship battle.

Tex Rickard also attended the meeting and he informed the Commissioners that Dempsey had told him over the long distance telephone on Thursday night that he had signed with Fitzsimmons.

When Kearns was informed that Mullins had signed with Fitzsimmons, he expressed surprise.

"Why, I was talking to Paddy at 4:30 this afternoon," he said, "and at that time he told me he had done nothing. But these are all preliminaries. You haven't seen any dough posted yet, have you? When the money's up it will be a different thing. Until that time you will hear nothing from me. But you can count on me to take a hand when the time is ripe. Jack Kearns will have much to say before this fight takes place. Don't forget to mention that Jack Kearns is far from out of this fight."

Meanwhile, it was announced that Jimmy De Forest of the Polo Grounds A. C. had offered to post a forfeit of $100,000 for a match between Wills and Gene Tunney at the Polo Grounds on the night of Sept. 25. Mullins rejected this offer. It was said that under the provisions of his agreement with Fitzsimmons, Wills can engage in no fight previous to the encounter with Dempsey.

Mullins, however, stated that he asked Fitzsimmons to modify this demand to the extent of permitting Mullins to make good on his promise to have Wills box for the National Sportsman's Club of Newark. Mullins said that he had a previous agreement with the Newark promoters whereby Wills was to meet Tunney and Charley Weinert, and that there was a possibility of Wills meeting some heavyweight selected by the Newark promoters for Wills's only battle this Fall.

Rickard insisted last night that he was far from out of the running in the contest to promote the heavyweight clash. He said that Dempsey told him he would fight for Fitzsimmons, providing Fitzsimmons could make good on a guarantee of $1,000,000, and could get the signature of Wills. He also said Dempsey informed him that he could have the fight if he could make good on certain terms.

Rickard Calls It Bunk.

"Just say for me," said Rickard, "that all those offers of $1,000,000 coming from Chicago are all bunk. New York is the place for that fight. Any sane person knows that. There is a lot of big talk and big money, but when this blows over and the boys come down to earth, I expect to step in and have something to say. The fight is not lost to the East, despite all this fuss and noise."

Rickard then said he had an understanding with Mullins that in the event Fitzsimmons could not make good on his promises, Mullins would negotiate with him.

Wills is due here within two weeks, Mullins said, adding that the negro would go to Chicago as soon as he arrived. Fitzsimmons said that Dempsey would be there also about the first week in September and he expected to close the deal before Sept. 20.

It was reported that two big business men of Chicago were lending their financial support and that Fitzsimmons would not lack money.

While many have discredited the claims of Fitzsimmons, he appears absolutely certain of himself.

Fitzsimmons declared that after five years of effort to direct Dempsey in a big fight, he finally had succeeded. "I know I have the fight," he said. "Just paste that in your hat."

The Boxing Commission in addition to discussing the Kearns situation, granted permission to Rabbi L. B. Michaelson to hold a benefit show at Coney Island Stadium for the Jewish Centre on Aug. 23.

It was also announced that Kearns would file a contract with the commission before noon today in behalf of Mickey Walker for a bout with Dave Shade for the world's welterweight championship.

Dempsey Assails Kearns.

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 14 (AP).—Jack Dempsey, moved into verbal action by the appearance of his manager, Jack Kearns, before the New York Boxing Commission today to sign for a Dempsey-Wills fight, issued a statement here late today in which he declared that Kearns, politics, officials nor any person or agency other than the champion himself will do his matchmaking for him.

"If the New York Boxing Commission or sport writers who deal with the public want authentic news regarding Jack Dempsey's full intention to match with Harry Wills, let them talk to Paddy Mullins. He can tell of the conversation he had with me over the telephone two days ago. This was to assure Mullins personally, and not to resort to a wire. Any one can send a wire but my talk was with Mullins.

"What the New York Boxing Commission does or what excuse it makes for putting off Kearns's threat to sign for me to fight Wills concerns me but little. It has recognized me and not Kearns, as per my wires and letters, that I alone would sign for any matches.

"If the commission wants further to complicate matters and interject more comedy into an unpleasant situation, that is up to it.

"Mullins will vouch for my sincerity to fight for the promoter making the best offer and showing the required guarantee. At this moment Floyd Fitzsimmons seems to have met all conditions imposed and is now waiting for a final decision from Mullins.

"I will permit of no political finesse to dominate my matchmaking. If all the New York Boxing Commission wants, and same applies to all commissions, is for me to sign to fight Wills, there is an easy solution to the matter, but neither Kearns nor any official bodies can act as my matchmaker.

"All I want is a match with Wills, made quickly and with immediate assurance that the promoter who gets the match can go through with it."

Mullins's Act Pleases Dempsey.

News that Paddy Mullins had signed an agreement to put Wills in the ring against Dempsey next Summer was greeted by the champion here tonight with the remark:

"That's the best news I've heard since the referee held up my hand in the Jess Willard fight back in 1919.

"I congratulate Floyd Fitzsimmons upon obtaining the bout, and I must say I am gratified to see that I have accomplished more in two weeks than Jack Kearns accomplished for me in two years."

The heavyweight titleholder added that he expected the next move would be a conference with Wills and Mullins to wind up the details of the match and post forfeits.

nent's deep thrusts. Miss Wills took the next three games, and after losing the eighth at 6—4 took the next three also.

Mrs. Lambert Chambers's clever generalship featured the doubles match. The former English champion had little pace on her shots but she placed them with so keen an eye for the openings that she brought her side through the winner after a close struggle in the first set. Mrs. Bundy's net play featured this set. Mrs. Mallory played far below form in the second set and the English team ended the match quickly.

H. KINSEY TO MEET LOTT IN NET FINAL

Former Defeats Norton and Latter Downs Major in Southampton Tennis Tourney.

BOTH KINSEYS IN DOUBLES

Brothers Will Oppose Lott and Norton in the Decisive Match for Bowls Today.

Special to The New York Times.

SOUTHAMPTON, N. Y., Aug. 14.—Howard Kinsey vs. George Lott in the singles, and the Kinsey brothers vs. George Lott and Brian I. C. Norton in the doubles, will be the order tomorrow in the final matches of the forty-second annual invitation tournament of the Meadow Club.

The younger of the Kinsey brothers, who gained a first leg on the Meadow Club Singles Trophy a year ago, gained the right to defend the cup through a straight-set defeat of Brian I. C. Norton, former South African Davis Cup player, who now makes his home in St. Louis. Lott's advance came through a straight-set semi-final victory over Cedric Major of New York.

The Kinsey brothers, Robert and Howard, who hold a leg on the doubles bowls, qualified for the final through a straight-set defeat of Lewis White and Louis Thalheimer, former intercollegiate champions from Texas. The Lott-Norton combination became the Kinseys' rivals by vanquishing the University of California players, Gerald Stratford and Lionel Ogden, in straight sets.

Despite the straight-set character of the matches, some very worth-while tennis marked today's play. This was especially true of the opening set of the Howard Kinsey-Brian Norton engagement, which found each contestant rising to the heights of his game on occasions. First one and then the other led in the score until eighteen games had been played. In the first set Kinsey won, 10—8. The second set was of much shorter duration. Norton, obviously fatigued from the stubbornly fought first set, fell, 6—1, before the brilliant mixture of strokes which spun from the racquet of his adversary.

In the long first set the service was broken no less than eleven times. Norton scored placements off Kinsey's delivery for break-throughs in the fourth, sixth, tenth, twelfth and sixteenth games. Kinsey met Norton's delivery so effectively that he scored breaks in the first, seventh, ninth, eleventh, fifteenth and seventeenth games.

Lott's victory of 6—0, 6—3, was the result of the finest demonstration the Chicago youth has given in the East. His terrific service was a constant menace to Major and his clever mixture of decisive driving and accurate chopping, completely upset the veteran. Lott ran off the first eight games of the match, taking the opening set Six-love and gaining a two-love lead in the second, before Major could deliver any sort of capable play.

The latter won his own service in the third game of the second set, broke through Lott in the sixth game, and won again on his delivery in the seventh. In the ninth game he fought off Lott, who held match point seven times, but a lazy, scooting chop from the racquet of the Chicago boy, forced him to net with the point score at 10—9, and Lott took the game.

The great playing of Robert Kinsey was the chief factor in the victory of the Kinsey brothers over White and Thalheimer. The elder Kinsey, who has been far off form all this season, again displayed his talents at the net and the pair took the semi-final, 6—2, 6—3, 6—3.

A brilliant offensive in which Lott was the outstanding factor, and a stonewall defense enabled the Chicago boy and Norton to vanquish their University of California rivals in the other semi-final, 6—2, 6—2, 6—3. A closely contested match was the prediction when the two teams took the court, but Stratford and Ogden were not on their game and their rivals took command quickly.

Jean Borotra, French Davis cup star, playing with Miss Genevieve Fox, vanquished Miss Eleanor Hutton and Fritz Mercur, 6—3, 6—1, in the second round of the mixed doubles. The match marked the Frenchman's first competitive appearance since his arrival in this country for the Davis cup finals.

The summaries:

A. A. U. WILL HOLD TITLE MEET TODAY

All of the leading athletes in the local district with the exception of those who in the past have annexed senior titles will be seen in action this afternoon in the annual junior track and field championships of the Metropolitan Association of the A. A. U. at Travers Island. With more than 250 entries filed, including those of a number of collegiate stars, the meet promises to provide some of the most stirring competition seen at the junior "meets" in years.

The New York Athletic Club, with a powerful and well-balanced team entered, is favored to carry off the club championship honors, but the youngsters of the Newark Athletic Club are primed to give the wearers of the Winged Foot a great battle in many of the events.

There will be nineteen events on the program, which will start promptly at 2 o'clock. No admission charge will be made to the games.

One of the day's most interesting battles is expected to develop in the half-mile run, in which the New York A. C. will send five strong mid-distance runners to the post in an effort to score a clean sweep. These will be George Nolan, Lester Wallack, Ray Ansbro, Eddie Swenson and Elliot Ballestier. Gerald Brown of the St. George Club, Frank Masterson and Olaf Strand are expected to give the Winged Footers their hardest fight.

The 100-yard dash is expected to be a tussel between Jimmy Todd of the N. Y. A. C. and Walter Blauberg of the Newark A. C., while the quarter-mile should develop into a pretty race with Eddie Hocter and W. Reischmann of the N. Y. A. C., Tom Paprocki, Loughlin Lyceum, and Walter Reich of the Newark A. C. as the contenders.

Johnny Theobald, the Columbia miler, who will represent the N. Y. A. C., is favored to carry off the honors in the mile test, while the Finns look the best in the three-mile event, with Carl Wilberg as the likely choice for the first honors. Reid Boutecou of Cornell is expected to win the pole vault for the Newark A. C.

HOLMAN IN FINAL WITH COGGESHALL

CHICAGO, Aug. 14 (AP).—Cranston Holman of San Francisco will oppose Harris Coggeshall of Des Moines for the National Junior Tennis Championship at the South Side Tennis Club tomorrow. Holman won his way into the finals by defeating Berkeley Bell of Austin, Texas, 6—2, 6—3. Holman had no trouble, although he had four match points before finally winning.

Coggeshall went into the finals by staging the biggest upset of the tournament when he defeated Henry L. Johnson Jr. of Waban, Mass., 4—6, 6—4, 7—5.

In the final round of the boys' tourney Walter Thomas of Elmora, N. J., will oppose Frank Shields of New York City for the title tomorrow. Thomas took his semi-final match from Bertram Caster of Harrisburg, Pa., coming from behind to win out 5—7, 6—4, 6—4. Thomas won five straight games to win the final set.

Shields had little trouble in defeating Leroy Voorheis of Cincinnati in his semi-final match, 6—3, 6—3. Shields's back court game and his steady driving forced Voorheis into errors and the Eastern boy won with little trouble. Shields is fifteen years old and Voorheis 14.

After losing the first set of his semi-final match by 4—6, Coggeshall evened the match by taking the second set by the same score. The Des Moines lad was driving severely, passing Johnson, when the Eastern boy came to the net. Coggeshall's backhand was deadly accurate, passing Johnson across the court. Coggeshall took the final game of the set off Johnson's service with four straight points.

Coggeshall and Johnson fought hard for the net position in the final set, but Coggeshall's well-placed drives and accurate volleying finally beat the Eastern boy. Coggeshall led at 5—4, 4—0, but Johnson took five straight points to even the set at 5—all.

Coggeshall then won his service and took four straight points off Johnson's delivery for the match and the right to enter the final round.

Malcolm T. Hill and Johnson, both of Waban, Mass., won their semi-final junior doubles match over Coggeshall and Horace Barton of Sioux Falls, S. D., in straight sets, 8—6, 6—3. After a hard struggle in the first set Hill and Johnson showed fine teamwork in running out the final set and the match.

Holman and Emmet Pare of Chicago won the right to oppose Hill and Johnson for the doubles title tomorrow by easily defeating Bell and James Quick of Dallas, 6—3, 6—3.

Hoppe Triumphs Over Schuler.

William F. Hoppe last night defeated Harry Schuler at three-cushion billiards, 50 to 42, at the Hoppe Academy. Hoppe went out in fifty-seven innings and had a high run of 8. Schulers high run was one of 8.

Rain Prevents Bicycle Races.

The bicycle races at the New York Velodrome last night were called off on account of rain. There will be races tomorrow night.

Special to The New York Times.

BLOCK ISLAND, R. I., Aug. 14.—After a day of unsatisfactory racing in which very light winds and calms prevailed, the fifty-footer Spartan, owned by H. Wilmer Hanan, led a fleet of forty-one racing yachts of the New York Yacht Club cruising squadron to this harbor tonight on the first run of the annual cruise, which began this morning at New London.

Spartan, by some freak of the weather, had left almost all the other yachts hull down on the horizon and thus captured the Navy Challenge Cup for sloops in hollow fashion. The course was 24¼ nautical miles. Spartan finished at 6:24:23, and when she crossed the line off the west harbor the rest of the fleet was strung out across Block Island Sound almost to Race Rock.

The finish of the race was shadowed by the news of the death of Mrs. J. P. Morgan, and the Corsair, which was being used as the flagship of Commodore George Nichols, her son-in-law, turned back for New York soon after 5 o'clock when the news was received by radio of Mrs. Morgan's death. The duties of Commodore of the fleet now devolve upon Vice Commodore Vincent Astor on the Nourmahal, which has been used as the committee boat.

Today's race was spoiled by the variable and light airs and tonight many of the schooners, forty-footers, thirties and others were towed in after rolling about for many hours in the oily swells. For a long time E. W. Clark's Irolita led the larger schooners in the long drift, and when night fell was a long distance from the finish line, with the other schooners, forties and thirties strung out in a long line astern.

The day did not open well for the big fleet in New London Harbor. Gray blankets of fog were rolling in from the southward and fog sirens and bells made a none too hopeful chorus. Slowly the sun burned the mists away, sail was made on the big racing squadron and the signal was finally sent up on the Corsair for the harbor start at 11 o'clock.

The larger schooners were sent away at 12:10 from the starting line off Sarah's Ledge and, with a very light southeast breeze filling her sails, Charles L. Harding's Wildfire had a little the best of it with Vagrant close aboard and Irolita, Flying Cloud, Shawna, Advance and Ohonkara following.

Soon after working down past Race Rock, Vagrant and Advance stood to the southward and soon ran out of the breeze. Irolita, on the other hand, kept to the middle of Block Island Sound and soon worked out into a long lead, favored by light slants of wind.

In the fifty-footer class, Spartan showed speed, even in the very light airs prevailing, and was soon footing it away from Iroquois II. and Barbara. Spartan somehow carried the breeze, while the rest of the fleet was becalmed, and won a hollow victory.

UNMASKING.

Some have wondered that Governor SMITH and the Tammany leaders have remained so calm and confident while the great Hylan fanfare was going on. The reason begins to appear. They probably felt certain that the Mayor and his political manager, that great apostle of party "regularity," Judge COHALAN, would, if let alone, proceed to cook their own goose. This they are now doing over a quick fire. Every day they make their purpose clearer to wreck what they cannot rule. Already Judge COHALAN is broadly intimating that Mayor HYLAN is not bound by any pledges that he has made, or that others have made for him, concerning the Democratic primary, and that he will be quite prepared to run as an independent candidate. At this news, the kindred spirit of Mr. LAGUARDIA is pleasurably stirred, and he stands in an expectant attitude ready to link his fortunes with those of Mayor HYLAN on a Third Ticket. These developments, with their plain hint of what the backers of the Hylan movement have all the time intended to do, are as food and drink for Tammany Hall. But to the discomfited McCOOEY of Brooklyn they must seem more like gall and wormwood.

"REDEEMING" WISCONSIN.

A few weeks ago the anti-La Follette Republicans of Wisconsin decided to hold a State Convention. Presumably, they got orders to that effect from authoritative sources. So Oshkosh welcomed the assembled conservatives. It seems more correct so to call them. Their long triumphant opponents were the "regular" Republicans until last year. Is there any way of keeping them out of the hospitable Republican primaries this year if they choose to come in? One can almost hear the indignant quiver in Senator LENROOT'S voice as he cries that "common honesty, common decency would lead these gentlemen to keep off the Republican primary ballot, and if they wish to become candidates for office, to do so under the name of their own party or in the independent column." It is too bad that the rascals won't play the game according to your rules, isn't it?

Mr. LENROOT lauded Mr. COOLIDGE and "denounced" the "so-called progressive State Administration." What has the election of a Senator in Congress to do with the latter? Still, this doubling of issues is prudent. If the forces of unrighteousness win, it will not be Mr. COOLIDGE'S funeral. We shall be told that the contest was decided by State policies and that enough stress wasn't laid on national policies. Mr. WILCOX, named for Senator by the convention, has twice sought the Republican nomination for Governor and missed it by a squeak. In 1918 he was the choice of the Republican patriots and vigorous prosecutors of the war. We don't know whether the friends of Governor PHILIPP, who died the other day, the leader of the stalwart or conservative Republicans, have forgiven Mr. WILCOX in the new desire for harmony and "rejuvenation." In 1920 he was strongly urged to run as an independent against Mr. BLAINE, the present Governor. He refused for the sake of furthering Mr. LENROOT'S election to the Senate.

Badger political etiquette is curious. Several unsuccessful aspirants to the nomination for Senator snapped their fingers at its choice and will run in the primaries. Among them is the irrepressible former Governor McGOVERN, who, according to the La Follettians, "betrayed" their leader at Chicago in 1912. He has long been essentially a progressive. What was he doing in that galley at Oshkosh? The ways of Wisconsin Republicans are past finding out; but we do seem to see divisions among the "conservatives" as well as the "radicals." We also see, and with pain, in a community so long irradiated with reform, proposals to divide the offices exactly in the ancient way. Governor BLAINE is to have a six-year term in the Senate, if he can get it. Attorney General EKERN is to be Governor. The conservatives have been arranging slates and dates of office for Mr. LENROOT, Mr. WILCOX, Mr. McGOVERN. Why must the good be no better than the wicked?

Yet goodness, however imperfect, has had one great resource in Wisconsin. As politicians, the conservatives have been strikingly inferior to their opponents.

THE IRISH TO THE RESCUE.

Midsummer madness always breaks out in politics, as well as in extraordinary forms of crime; but the limits of lunacy seem to be overstepped by the reported plan of Senator BUTLER, Chairman of the National Republican Committee, to break up and defeat the Democratic Party by organizing Irish Republican clubs. Perhaps the astute idea is that this will be interpreted as meaning the desire of the Washington Administration that an independent Irish Republic be at once set up! But it is obvious that the immediate purpose of Senator BUTLER is somehow to detach from his rival for the Massachusetts Senatorship, ex-Senator WALSH, a part of that Irish following in the now great Irish Commonwealth which has before carried him from victory to victory.

Of course, there have always been Republican efforts to win over the Irish vote in this country. In the time of JAMES G. BLAINE there were always "Blaine Irishmen," more noisy than numerous. When THEODORE ROOSEVELT was exercising his genius for politics, by which he drew after him not simply individuals but whole races, he had an active and effective Irish support. In the Presidential election of 1920 there was no need of forming Irish Republican clubs. Irish voters left the Democratic Party in droves to express their intense animosity to President WILSON. These shifts of the Celt in our politics seem to have been more a matter of chance and whim than of the kind of organization which Senator BUTLER is said to contemplate.

That his particular undertaking is fraught with peril his friends and counselors do not fail to point out to him. The scheme is in Massachusetts to appeal mainly to the Irish and Catholic antagonism of the Ku Klux Klan. Advantage is to be taken of the recent clashes and riots in the Bay State provoked by the Klan. Yet in endeavoring to persuade its excited enemies that the Republican Party is the one great bulwark against religious and racial intolerance, great care must be taken not to allow that impression to spread beyond Massachusetts, to Indiana for example. In that State the Klan is powerful and powerfully Republican. Nor will it be easy to make even an inflamed Irishman forget that President COOLIDGE steadfastly refused last year, for reasons of political expediency, to denounce the Ku Klux Klan by name. Obviously, it is a work of exceedingly delicate political manipulation to which the Republican Chairman is setting his hand. The gun which he is preparing to fire in Massachusetts may kick very awkwardly if he uses it in Indiana or Ohio.

It is to be hoped that neither party will make special efforts to profit by race prejudice, whether it be Irish, Italian or Polish. The time has passed for such things. We want all our citizens, no matter what their nativity, to feel and act and vote as Americans first of all. There have been in days gone by political battles in this country in which, as SAINT-SIMON wrote of a battle in the seventeenth century, "our Irish distinguished themselves in it." But hereafter the distinction which they should most covet is that of displaying unmixed and unhyphenated Americanism.

THE NEGOTIATIONS WITH BELGIUM.

Despite the differences between the American and Belgian points of view as to the details of the debt settlement, there seems little doubt that a satisfactory agreement as to general principles has been reached. This, from the American standpoint, is the most important thing. Recognition of the validity of the debts has been accepted as the basis of the negotiations. In endeavoring to determine the terms of payment full allowance will be made for Belgium's financial difficulties. America has no desire to press her creditors beyond their capacity to pay. To do so would be both unfriendly and unwise. In the case of Belgium the memory of her heroic stand in 1914 is a particular inducement to show special leniency in arranging the terms with her. The settlement of the Belgian debt is important not only in itself, but also on account of the effect which it will have upon the European Governments that have not yet funded their debts to the United States. It was tacitly agreed in Europe that Belgium should, after England, make the first definite move for a settlement. The deep sympathy for her that still exists in this country, as well as the special stipulation in the Versailles Treaty making Germany responsible for Belgium's war debts, was thought to give her unusual advantages in approaching the American Government. If she could obtain special terms—particularly, if she could persuade the authorities at Washington to admit the claim that the debt was interwoven with Germany's payments—a precedent would be established that might be used successfully by subsequent negotiators. Belgium had nothing to lose by being in the van. The other nations hoped to gain by seeing Belgium break the first lance.

This reasoning is based on the persistent misunderstanding of America's attitude toward the entire debt problem, which has been so common in Europe. The debts there are considered "political." In other words, they represent not so much a financial transaction as one of a series of diplomatic moves which had as their objective the prosecution of the war. We, on the other hand, have insisted that the debts must be recognized as such, and have refused to enter into any joint settlement, reserving instead, the right to negotiate separately with each nation in order to make allowances for its ability to pay.

The Belgian debt amounts to about $485,000,000, of which one-half was advanced prior to the armistice. This is the part that the Belgians had hoped to see transferred to Germany. As a matter of fact, under the Dawes plan a portion of Belgium's priority payments is to be allotted to the service of her war debt. America's share of this should be about $3,000,000 a year. The other half of Belgium's indebtedness, incurred after the armistice, is not covered by this special agreement. There is certainly no desire in this country to impose harsh terms on Belgium. This the Belgian representatives well know. But there is a strong hope of reaching a definite settlement. In it, the United States Government, as the agent for the American people, who advanced the money that went to Belgium, must make terms that are just to our own taxpayers as well as to those of Belgium.

BE IT NEVER SO HUMBLE.

The National Committee on Mental Hygiene reports that while physical conditions in orphanages have improved greatly in recent years, the "mental status" of the orphan is little better than it was fifty years ago. The recommendation is that the child be left in its own home, when that is practicable, or, when it is not, be placed in a foster home. The psychologist's study thus supports the lesson which the sociologist and even the poet have taught, that though "home be but homely, it hath no fellow to such as have aught."

This view of the home affects the whole technique of modern social work. When a juvenile court finds it necessary to remove a child from its home, the aim is to return it as soon as possible. When a child is orphaned and it becomes necessary to place it in an institution, this is now regarded as only a temporary step toward finding a suitable private home. Even in the case of a child that is mentally defective, the hope is that it may be so trained and developed as to be able to take its place again in the community. The family is and must be the primary social unit. Miss MARY RICHMOND, one of the highest authorities in America in social work, says that "all the larger "adjustments of industry, finance, "international relations, government "itself, could be tested in the long "run by their effect on family life." They must conform to the needs of the home or be scrapped or reorganized.

The National Committee on Mental Hygiene presents not only social but economic reasons in support of the individual home for the child. In 1923, according to its statistics, it cost the taxpayers of New York City only a little over $15 a month for each child kept in its home through a mother's pension or placed in a foster home. But it cost $28.40 for each child in an institution. It is an economy to keep or place children where they ought to be. As President ROOSEVELT said in opening the White House conference on the care of dependent children in 1909: "Home life is the highest and "finest product of civilization. Chil"dren should not be deprived of it "except for urgent and compelling "reasons." The mental hygienist, the sociologist, the poet, the statesman agree: "There's no place like home."

THE POLISH-GERMAN TANGLE.

The reprisals which Germany and Poland are making upon each other's hapless citizens are only the intensifying of an economic war that has waged since, on June 15, Poland's right to export 500,000 tons of coal a month into Germany came to an end. Germany forbade further importations of coal, and Poland replied by restrictions on manufactured goods from Germany. On either side the prime motive is anxiety about the balance of trade. The necessity is felt of safeguarding a recently stabilized currency. But in both countries the situation is complicated by special interests. The item of coal is comparatively unimportant. The chief exports from Poland are agricultural products which compete with those of the German agrarian interest. The manufactures of Poland were largely developed under the high protective tariffs of the old Russian régime and suffer from German competition. Upper Silesia is in a position peculiarly unfortunate. Though the export of coal is but a detail in the trade of Poland as a whole, for this district it is vital. Economically, Upper Silesia is still a part of Germany, taking partially manufactured goods in exchange for the products of its mines.

If the dispute had been confined to merely economic fields, it would probably not have been long or bitter. Both countries have pressing need of markets and, taken in the gross, their products are complementary. Their trade is, moreover, approximately balanced. It is unfortunate that political questions have intruded. Undoubtedly Poland's expulsion of German citizens had reference to the "rectification" of frontiers which is an avowed part of German policy, as had also manoeuvres of the German officials, who encouraged their nationals to remain on their Polish farms and made no provision for receiving them on German soil. But the suffering and disorder are daily lessening and the attitude of the German Government seems now to be more reasonable. Through all the earlier stages of the conflict diplomatic negotiations were continued, and there is to be a formal conference next month to endeavor to negotiate a commercial treaty. Enlightened self-interest points clearly to an early agreement.

THE ALLOTTED YEARS.

From the rival instances of two respectable citizens who have managed to attain their ninetieth birthday, one by smoking and drinking as he pleased, the other by abstaining from tobacco and liquor, people have hastened to derive the lesson that in order to live long one should live as he pleases. This pleasant conclusion is sound—with one proviso. And that is to begin by choosing one's ancestors wisely. Whatever may be true about certain diseases, or vices, or genius, it is established that long years are hereditary. With the right kind of grandparents a person may have his own way about strong drink, black cigars, fairly late hours, meat diet or vegetable and curdled milk diet, live under a republican form of government or an absolute monarchy, marry young or marry late, live on a farm or in an apartment, and—an important question—take frequent vacations or none at all.

Running parallel with this condition of free choice, or perhaps as a consequence of free choice, would seem to be the rule that longevity is promoted by equanimity. A man may do as he pleases and live long provided he is, indeed, pleased. Whether a man loafs or abjures vacations, eats heavily or lightly, keeps late hours or early, he must be happy in doing so. The wild life that is a gesture of defiance to sober standards is not likely to be a long life. The ascetic life that comes hard will probably show the same result. The question of duty, one way or the other, should not be allowed to enter. The quest of a short life and a merry one will probably prove successful. But on the other hand the firm resolve to live long by means of this or that prudent regimen does not always score. One secret of attaining old age would seem to be not to make a fuss about it.

In this country still another secret would be not to go in for politics, or at least not to let one's ambitions soar too high. How fast we wear out our Presidents is an old story. Whether the reason be in differences of pace, or climate, or heredity, we make a poor showing in this respect compared with the transatlantic branch of the English-speaking peoples. Excluding Mr. TAFT, who it is to be hoped will long be with us, and Mr. MCKINLEY, our Presidents, beginning with Mr. CLEVELAND, have died at the average age of 65. During that same period the real heads of state in Great Britain—GLADSTONE, SALISBURY, ROSEBERY, BALFOUR, CAMPBELL-BANNERMAN, ASQUITH and LLOYD GEORGE—lived or have lived to the extraordinary average of 75 years. In our politics we have Mr. DEPEW at the age of 91, Uncle JOE CANNON at 89, and Mr. ROOT at 80, but on none of these have fallen tasks so heavy as upon Mr. BALFOUR, who at 77, and Mr. ASQUITH, at 73, are still in the field of active politics. Possibly it is the difference in pace between American and British life.

Few Licenses Have Been Sold.

So far as State Commissioner HARNETT has gone in his investigation of employes in the Motor Vehicle Bureau, not enough corruption in the issuing of licenses to incompetents and criminals has been discovered to warrant ascribing to it more than a minute part of the dangers now characteristic of our highway traffic. Only twenty cases as yet have been revealed in which payments were made to evade road tests or other requirements of the law. That is enough to show gross treachery on the part of those whose official duty it was to do their part in guarding the public, but it is not enough to cause any great alarm as to present conditions, and highly reassuring is it that the Commissioner took up the matter with such promptness, the moment it came to his attention, and that he declares his purpose is not to protect the reputation of his bureau by hushing up this miserable scandal, but to restore and maintain its character by eliminating from its service every participant in these evil practices.

In his opinion, the grafting has been done by inspectors on probation who, having failed to pass the civil service examinations on which the retention of their jobs depended, began to sell licenses to anybody who would buy them. They had two classes of customers—those who could not pass the tests and those who could. The former would pay for what they should not get, and the latter were threatened with refusal of what they had a right to have, and so they, too, paid.

The members of the second class could not have been very many, and they deserve no sympathy at all, for they easily could have avoided blackmail if they had shown a little sense and determination. The men in the first class must have been either criminals with records or moved by criminal tendencies and an inclination to violate the law. When one remembers with how little trouble a man of ordinary intelligence can prepare himself for driving an automobile well enough to pass the rather perfunctory road tests that precede the granting of a license, it is hard to understand how the unfaithful inspectors could get any victims at all except men with a police record.

Phonographs Hope to Come Back.

Always a far more remarkable instrument than the majority of their many owners took pains to learn or realize, phonographs now promise to become still more wonderful as the result of improvements which their manufacturers have found themselves forced to make in the hope of meeting the competition of the radio. That has threatened the very existence of what had become a business of large importance and larger profits, for, until recently, poor indeed was the family that did not have a phonograph or buy an occasional new record to go with it. Since the radio gained its enormous and well-deserved popularity, however, many a phonograph has been relegated to the attic or sold for the little it would bring.

Naturally the companies interested in making and selling these machines did not submit without a fight. Their first device was to combine the phonograph and the radio, putting both implements in a single handsome case, so that either could be enjoyed at choice. How successful that was only the accountants of those companies know, but evidently the result was not entirely satisfactory, for already two of the largest manufacturers of phonographs have announced the speedy placing upon the market of machines of a new type, so superior as to give them a chance of finding favor in face of the almost contemptuous rivalry of the modern miracle. One of the super-phonographs utilizes the astonishing capacities of the vacuum tube, just as the radio receiver does, to "amplify" minute vibrations into audibility, and this would seem a promising plan. The other does not even claim to have invented records that will supply music continuously for the better part of an hour. Something it has done, however, to be disclosed later, that is expected to keep it in the invaded field.

It is not apparent how any phonograph can furnish anything like the diversity of entertainment and edification made available by the limitless powers of the radio, but, materially improved and if the prices of the new records are not put too high, there doubtless will be a place for the old favorite. As between the phonograph and the radio antenna there is little to choose as regards the astonishing quality of what they can do. That either could transmit one sound at a time is almost comprehensible, but the mind simply reels in trying to understand how both of them can vibrate to a dozen or twenty sounds at once.

His Trial Should Come Soon.

It remains to be seen, of course, whether the man MARINO shot the driver and inspector on a trolley car running between New Rochelle and Mount Vernon, but there is more than enough evidence already available to warrant his indictment for murder, and so intense is the interest in the case up in Westchester County that there is sure to be no undue delay in bringing him to trial.

If convicted, never did a man better deserve the electric chair than he, and it is only the murder of the two West End Bank messengers that can be recalled as equaling in cold-blooded atrocity the shooting down of the two employes of the street railway company. It was vastly worse than the ordinary hold-up, for to the victims was not given a single chance for their lives—they were not permitted to buy safety by submission to robbery.

So savage was the attack on them that there is much plausibility in the theory that it was done under the influence of a narcotic of the kind that removes all ordinary sensibilities and compunctions. And MARINO is a known "addict." That does not prove him guilty, but it makes his guilt possible.

Whoever did this ghastly killing had accomplices, probably more than one. Every one of them, near or remote, is a principal under the law, but toward such as they the law usually is more severe in announcement than in practice. They can deny that murder was contemplated as preparation for robbery and put the greater responsibility on the actual perpetrator. In this instance, however, it ought to go hard even with those who must have hidden the murderer after his crime.

He Reasons as Well as Protests.

In a letter printed on this page yesterday, S. G. RICH, a Jersey commuter, made a good argument in defense of his tribe against the demand of the railways for higher fares and their claim that commuter traffic does not pay its way.

First, he said, the enormous losses of which the roads complain when they discuss commutation have not prevented them from making pretty good, and steadily improving, financial showings in recent years. So he had his doubts about the validity of that claim. Then he took somewhat firmer ground in discussing the plea so often made by the railways of late—that trucks are taking away the cream of their freight business.

It is no wonder they do, wrote Mr. RICH in effect, when one remembers how long the roads are in carrying such freight a few miles and how often it is injured in transit. That is a just indictment, and it explains why so many people prefer to pay the by no means small charges of truckmen instead of the often lower rates by rail. If the railways gave better service, they would get more of the best paying freight.

The Bixby Letter in Oxford.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

In view of the recent agitation about the Bixby letter, it may interest your readers to know that in 1909 or 1910 I saw this letter, framed, hanging on a column in the library of Christ Church College, Oxford.

About ten years later, on another visit to Oxford, I looked for it in the same place and it was not there.

So far as I can remember, from its small size and the way it was hung, it might easily have been stolen. I am writing to the Librarian of Christ Church College to find out if he remembers the letter and whether he can account for its disappearance.

JUSTICE FOR ARMENIA.

Mr. Gerard Demands Action Here Following Example of Belgium.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

On July 17 M. Vandervelde, Belgian Foreign Minister, replying to an interpellation in Parliament in advocacy of the recognition by Belgium of the Soviets, declared that "• • • before Belgium extended recognition to the Soviets the latter must recognize the independence of Armenia."

The declaration of M. Vandervelde in behalf of Armenia is worthy of heroic Belgium. It constitutes a refreshing and practical example of morality in international relations and of emphasis upon the sanctity of international obligations and pledges. Belgium, having recognized the independence of Armenia, who, with her, suffered and struggled for the common cause, now declines to resume relations with the junta of Moscow unless her ally is justly treated. Belgium recalls that Kemal, in conspiracy with the Soviets, overthrew the Armenian Republic and slaughtered 30,000 men, women and children in the district of Alexandropol.

The example set by Belgium should be followed by our own Government. We have obligations to Armenia of a more specific nature than those of Belgium. Our Government led the whole world to believe that it would help Armenia. It formally requested the Allies in 1919 to defer action on the Turkish treaty, and by that request delayed for one and one-half years the settlement of the Turkish problem. This delay led to the divisions and cross purposes among the Allies, and made it possible for the Turks to organize resistance and to profit again by the insensate folly of the civilized world. The slaughter, at the hands of the Turks, of more than one million Armenians and Greeks, since the conclusion of the armistice; the destruction of the independence of Armenia, and the temporary restoration of the Turks to power were the direct results of the policy of delay and procrastination which our Government imposed upon the Allies.

Furthermore, the United States, like Belgium, recognized the independence of Armenia, and the Senate unanimously adopted a resolution, drafted by the then Senator Harding, commending this action of President Wilson. The President of the United States, at the invitation of the Allies, including Armenia, and of Turkey, defined the southwestern boundaries of Armenia, and President Harding later formally endorsed this action of President Wilson. The acts and utterances of our officials have been unmistakably approved by our people. Twenty-five thousand ministers and priests, one hundred Bishops, Cardinal Hayes, forty-five Governors of the States of the Union and 250 college and university Presidents have commended and endorsed them.

What is it, then, that American friends of Armenia now ask of their Government? They ask that the Government of the United States make the recognition of the independence and unity of Armenia, as defined by President Wilson, a condition precedent to a resumption of relations with both Turkey and Russia. They merely ask that our Government employ its moral and diplomatic influence to secure a confirmation and reaffirmation of the political and territorial rights of Armenia.

Upon the return of Senator King from Turkey we will consider the advisability of making a formal request to our Government that it include the recognition of the independence of Armenia among the American conditions for the recognition of Russia, and, upon the rejection of the Lausanne treaty, we will make a similar request concerning Turkey.

We believe that the solution of the problem of 2,000,000 Armenian refugees and exiles, not to speak of 1,200,000 Armenians who are now crowded within the narrow limits of the so-called Soviet Armenia, cannot be effected except on the basis of the Wilson award. We feel that if 4,000,000 Turks are to retain 320,000 square miles—an area larger than the aggregate areas of the United Kingdom, France and Belgium—the 3,000,000 Armenians are entitled at least to a fraction of their own homeland, a mere 40,000 square miles, as defined by President Wilson, which is but 40 per cent. of Armenia in Turkey.

With the determination of her political and territorial status, Armenia can, like other nations, enter into security agreements with her neighbors, and particularly one with Russia, based, perhaps, upon the general principles of the Platt amendment. Also, Armenia should have no difficulty in obtaining, as Austria, Hungary and other succession States have obtained, an international loan for her rehabilitation.

President Coolidge and Secretary Kellogg, whose solicitude for the welfare of Armenia is well known, will, we hope, do what they can toward the solution of a problem which makes so powerful an appeal to the conscience and reason alike of right-thinking men and women everywhere. The cause of Armenia is the cause of Christian civilization.

It is quite true that the question usually attributed to Solomon is found in Butler's "Hudibras." According to my recollection, however, it occurs in the work of an author of an earlier period, whose quaint "Mysteries and Revelations" was pleasant reading. As nearly as I can recall it, the line read:

"To spare the rod and spoyle the child."

Certainly this is not the saying recorded of Solomon, in Proverbs xiii, 24; but ninety and nine times, however, it is attributed to Solomon.

Concerning the gentle practice of flogging, once so common as a stimulant to education, the opinion of our good old friend Dr. Johnson is worth quoting. He laments the fact that there was less flogging in schools in his latter days than in his schoolboy period; he adds, with the wisdom gained by experience: "But, then, less is learned there. So what the boys get at one end they lose at the other."

SONNET.

Could I but hide my throbbing head between
Your gentle hands, just as the wind, weary
With seeking, creeps to fragrant rest, unseen
Among the violets, nestling quietly!
As the bird with shattered wing still strives to gain
His leafy, tree-top haven, far above
His feeble flight, so brokenly, in pain,
Stumbling, I seek the solace of your love.
All that I know of beauty and of light
You taught me in those days of long ago;
Gray rain-drops in a brook, the calm of night,
The meek anemones that nodding grow.
Teach me again, oh, teach me, as I kneel:
None but your love can satisfy, can heal.

Narrows Tunnel Advocated Against Port Authority's Plan.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

In your editorial of today on "Freight Plans for the Port," wherein reference is had to the news article concerning the proposed plans of the Port Authority for nine freight terminals for Manhattan, you are led to say the project "is confessedly not an entire solution of the problem." You also say, "If the promise of relief and saving which it holds out can be kept," &c.

As one who has carefully watched the progress of the Port Authority's plans from its inception, and the way in which the metropolitan press, with few exceptions, have swallowed whole, approved, and taken for granted everything it has suggested, it is certainly encouraging to find that THE TIMES is ready to admit that the latest plan proposed is not the solution of the "port problem."

In the original plan of the Port Authority for delivering freight into Manhattan, it was to be transferred from the New Jersey meadows by electric cars through tunnels to twelve terminal stations eighty feet underground, and there again redistributed for sending by truck to its destination. To be sure, this involved an expenditure of some $250,000,000 for this system, but even so, it pretended to work out on paper a saving to the shipper, the railroads and the consumer.

What the scheme of nine universal freight stations is to cost and who is to pay for them I fail to find in the published statement, but it says it will save the shippers $12,000,000 and the railroads $2,000,000, I presume annually.

The freight cars are to be halted at an immense union terminal (in New Jersey) and the freight assorted and loaded into trucks and cross the river by ferry and the vehicular tunnel. And this plan is supposed to relieve congestion and reduce the cost of receiving or delivering freight. Fresh fruits, vegetables and coal will continue to be handled by floats, unless stopped by the ice in the harbor in excessively cold weather, when the coal is most needed.

And what besides this estimated saving is the great incentive for this remarkable new plan proposed by the Port Authority? It says that some forty-three piers on the Hudson, East and Harlem Rivers now occupied by the railroad companies could all be released for other uses, meaning steamship or steamboat lines. But what steamships would want them if the Port Authority's officially adopted plans and recommendations were carried out. They provide that all except the large passenger and the perishable fruit steamship lines are to be removed from the Brooklyn and Manhattan waterfront over to the New Jersey side of the port, and all the export business of the port, as far as possible, is to be located on Newark Bay. If this is accomplished there will be little or no demand for the released piers. Attention is being directed at the present time to the consideration of how to save time and money in the transporting of the commuter direct from his home to the nearest point to reach his business; and subways are proposed for the purpose under the Hudson and under Manhattan down to the Battery. Of course, such a delivery of passengers would be an ideal one, and a great saving to them in time, trouble and cost, if it could be provided within a reasonable expense to the railroads or the city or State.

But if that is ideal for passenger traffic—and the New York Central and Pennsylvania seem to think it is, by the expenditure of large sums of money for providing terminals in the very heart of the city—then why is it not equally ideal to have the freight destined to or from the city or for export and import brought as near its destination as possible?

In 1907 the city and Federal engineers were instructed to provide for the development of Jamaica Bay into an addition to the harbor of New York, and they decided it would be necessary to have the railroads reach the city and the waterfront at Jamaica Bay by a bridge over or a tunnel under the Narrows, between Brooklyn and Staten Island.

This idea eventuated in the Legislature enacting the mandatory law providing for a freight and passenger tunnel under the Narrows, which is partly constructed. This tunnel will furnish the ideal way for all freight destined to reach New York City and the waterfront in the most direct and most economical manner.

A New Curb for Motorists.

The number of automobile accidents might be much reduced if the reprehensible practice of "cutting in" ahead of another car were stopped. The better to effect this, the main automobile thoroughfares, at least in cities and villages, could be marked off into separate traffic paths of just sufficient width that an automobile could readily be kept within them when traveling at ordinary speed; and, where the width of the roadbed will permit, there might be sufficient space between the traffic paths to permit of pedestrians standing in safety. No automobile should be permitted to leave the path in which it is once started except at cross streets or regularly established points.

Not only is the "cutting in" practice dangerous to automobilists, but also to the pedestrian public, due to the higher speed and unexpected movements of cars attempting it. As in the case of trolley cars, pedestrians could more readily avoid danger if they were sure of the course every automobile would take.

Bank Checks in England.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Writing about the use of checks in place of cash in today's issue of THE TIMES, you observe that in England "few except professional financiers and really rich folk utilize a convenience almost generally understood and enjoyed over here."

Permit me, as an English visitor to your wonderful and most hospitable land, to say that this statement is amazingly inaccurate. In England the use of checks for payments of all kinds and magnitudes, including petty remittances by post, is well-nigh universal, except among weekly wage earners. Indeed, so numerous are banking offices in every town and village and so general is the recourse to the conveniences they offer that I had formed and expressed the opinion, obviously an erroneous one, that the people of the United States were far behind us in the use of checks for private if not for business purposes. So easy is it for us to obtain wrong impressions of one another, even in trival matters.

PLAN WIDE ACTIVITY TO AID COMMUTERS

CITY HELPS THE MOVEMENT

Counsel for Several Towns Prepare By-Laws—Meeting to Be Called Early Next Month.

The Metropolitan Commuters' Association, meeting at the Bar Association Building, 42 West Forty-fourth Street, yesterday, discussed a constitution and by-laws for the newly organized association.

The meeting was attended by Charles A. Van Auken, Corporation Counsel of New Rochelle; Maurice Hotchner, general counsel for the Association of Long Island Commuters; Hugh Hewson, Corporation Counsel of Mount Vernon; Guy C. Van Alstyne of the Long Island Commuters Association; Joseph A. Devery and Vincent Victory, both assistants to the Corporation Counsel of New York City; Dr. John Bauer, a financial expert from Corporation Counsel Nicholson's office, and Martin S. Ravery, accounting expert for the city.

The association will protect the residents of the metropolitan area, including Westchester, Connecticut, Long Island and Manhattan against unfair rises in the charges of all public utilities. It plans to enlist in its membership commuters, business enterprises, chambers of commerce, trade associations, municipalities, towns and smaller divisions of government.

Mayor Hylan sent the three representatives from the Corporation Counsel's office with instructions to render every possible assistance in the fight against increases in commutation rates and other rises affecting residents of New York City. Assistant Corporation Counsel Victory said that the Mayor was prepared to furnish funds and experts to advise the association in its work, and he suggested that other municipalities interested should be made members of the association.

Under the present organization, the Metropolitan Commuters' Association will be a parent organization for the many small associations of similar character already organized, and will try to improve all conditions affecting life in suburban communities. The proposed by-laws defining the classes of membership in the association are as follows:

"An active member must be a commuter to New York City for at least a part of the year. He shall be entitled to both voice and one vote at all meetings of the association.

"A contributing member need not be a commuter. He shall be entitled to five votes at all meetings of the association. Contributing members shall pay annual dues of $25.

"A donor need not be a commuter. He shall be entitled to five votes at all meetings of the association. Donors shall pay annual dues of $50 or more.

"Any commercial concern, whether individual partnership or corporation, having business interests in the New York communiter district, may hold business membership which shall entitle it to five votes at all meetings of members of the association. The annual dues for business memberships shall be $10 to $100 or more, if volunteered.

"Any civic association, Chamber of Commerce, Board of Trade, Property Owners' Association, Taxpayers' Association or other association of citizens, residents or business concerns may hold an association membership. It shall be entitled to five votes at all meetings of members of the association. The annual dues shall be $25 or more, if volunteered.

"Any municipality, town, village or other subdivision of government may hold a municipal membership either in its own name or in the names of its duly elected or appointed officers or its nominee. It shall be entitled to five votes at all meetings of the members of the association, and the annual dues shall be $100 or more if volunteered."

It was decided to offer the by-laws for approval at a meeting of commuters early in September.

After the meeting Assistant Corporation Counsel Devery asked Mr. Van Auken and Mr. Hewson to approve a brief asking for a rehearing and reargument before the Public Service Commission on that body's approval of the 40 per cent. rate rise recently instituted by the New York, New Haven & Hartford Railroad.

The association will meet again within a week.

Censorship Committee Rejects Sculptor's Figure Symbolizing Wines.

COBLENZ, Aug. 14.—The wine auction building will not be graced this year with a new masterpiece of sculpture, with figures symbolizing Rhine and Moselle wines and champagne, unless the sculptor agrees to change the nude figures in accordance with demands of the censorship committee. The statue was unveiled a week ago and was admired until the committee demanded that the figures be covered and notified the sculptor to dress up the figures.

Since the sculptor sees no possibility of carving garments on the figures, buyers and sellers of this year's wine crop will be forced to conduct the auction in the presence of a statue thickly veiled and sealed.

ORA DAVIS MAKES A SYLVAN DEBUT

SCENE LIKE A FAIRYLAND

Elaborate Entertainment Is Preceded by Many Dinner Parties —The Guests.

Special to The New York Times.

SOUTHAMPTON, N. Y., Aug. 14.—Miss Ora Mallory Davis made her début this evening at a dance for 500 guests given by her father, Thomas Beall Davis, at his Summer home in Halsey's Neck Lane. The entertainment in Miss Davis's honor was one of the largest and most elaborate that Southampton has seen in many years.

To accommodate the great crowd of dancers a huge tent had been erected outside the Davis home, with roof made of light blue and yellow hangings. The poles which supported the tent had been covered with blue and yellow electric lights and looked like pillars of flaming color.

Outside, on the spacious lawn, hundreds of electric lights strung overhead and concealed in the shrubbery made the setting a fairyland of color, while three spotlights threw a moonlight glow over the entire scene. At midnight a supper was served for the guests, who sat under blue and yellow umbrellas on the lawn. At 3 o'clock in the morning a buffet supper was served in the dining room of the house.

Hostesses of Dinner Parties.

The guests included virtually all the most prominent members of Southampton's Summer colony, as well as a number of visitors from out of town. Ambassador Myron T. Herrick, who arrived here yesterday, was there with Mr. and Mrs. Charles A. Blackwell, with whom he has been staying. Miss Ailsa Mellon, daughter of the Secretary of the Treasury, was there with Miss Alice Sylvester. Colonel and Mrs. H. H. Rogers attended with their daughter, Countess Millicent Salm; former Justice and Mrs. Morgan J. O'Brien, Senator and Mrs. Lawrence D. Tyson and Judge and Mrs. James B. Drew of Pittsburgh were others prominent among the guests.

Before the dance there were many dinner parties, the largest of which was given by Miss Patty Pease, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. Albert Pease, for more than 150 of her young friends. POPE DECLARES VALID THE CASTELLANE UNION

ROME, Aug 14 (AP).—The Pope has confirmed the judgment of the Commission of Cardinals which early this year declared valid the marriage of the Marquis de Castellane to the former Anna Gould, refusing the annulment which the Marquis has sought since 1911.

The Marquis de Castellane (then Count Boni de Castellane) and Anna Gould were married in New York March 14, 1895. In 1906, after three children had been born to the union, the Countess obtained a civil divorce. Later she married the Duc de Talleyrand-Perigord, at that time Prince Hélie de Sagan.

The Roman Rota, the tribunal on married cases, three times rejected de Castellane's plea for a religious annulment and he then appealed to the Pope, who appointed a Commission of Cardinals of the Supreme Tribunal of the Roman Curia to decide the case.

THOUSANDS MOURN AT KRUGER FUNERAL

HOME INMATES IN TEARS

Ten thousand persons attended the four burial services held yesterday for the late Albert Kruger, philanthropist, and for twenty-six years superintendent of the Home of the Daughters of Jacob, who died Tuesday. From the Home of the Daughters of Jacob at Findlay Avenue and 167th Street, the Bronx, where the first service was held, down through the lower east side the path of the funeral cortege was lined with mourners, while hundreds followed the body to Mount Lebanon Cemetery, Ridgewood, L. I., in sightseeing buses which had been chartered for the occasion.

Early yesterday morning a crowd of more than two thousand sought to enter the synagogue of the Home of the Daughters of Jacob, where the first service was held at 10:30. Those who failed to get in remained standing in front of the building for several hours. Twenty policemen from the East 160th Street Station under Captain John Brady maintained order.

Cantor Pincus Yasinossky conducted the service in the synagogue, chanting the Hebrew burial hymns. When the body was borne out 300 inmates of the home formed a lane from the building to the street, and the aged men and women wept as the coffin passed. Six motorcycle policemen escorted the funeral procession to the lower east side.

In front of the building of the United Hebrew Community of New York, of which Mr. Kruger had been Treasurer, a crowd of several thousand waited for the hearse. During the informal service here, conducted by Cantor Abraham Schoor on the steps of the institution, traffic for two blocks on East Broadway between Jefferson and Montgomery Streets was blocked by mourners. Thousands followed the body to the Maskel El Dol at 225 East Broadway, with which Mr. Kruger was for many years affiliated. At another informal service there Cantor Schoor gave a eulogy of Mr. Kruger.

One hundred children from the Hebrew Kindergarten and Day Nursery met the procession at this point and proceeded with it to the Rabbi Isaac Elchanin Seminary, where Rabbi Abraham Gerlcranter conducted another service for the crowd which had gathered there. The procession then crossed the Williamsburg Bridge and headed for the cemetery, followed by a hundred private cars and many buses filled with mourners.

The honorary pallbearers were County Judge Cohen, Supreme Court Justice Louis D. Gibbs, former Alderman Louis Zeltner, Harry Fischel, Samuel C. Lamport, Joseph Barondess, Dr. Henry Ratsky, Dr. W. G. Wolsert and Leon Kamaiky, publisher of The Jewish Daily News. Prayers for the dead man were said by the rabbis, who had conducted the various services, and the body was lowered to rest.

The funeral was one of the largest which has been held on the east side in many years. Large parties had come in from the suburbs and from other cities to take part in the ceremonies for Mr. Kruger, who was one of the best known Jewish philanthropists in the country.

PLEADS FOR CHURCH PEACE.

Hugh Monro Sees End of Protestantism If Internal War Continues.

STONY BROOK, N. Y., Aug. 14.—Hugh Monro, Treasurer of the National Bible Institute of New York, speaking today before the Interdenominational Conference of Prophetic Faith, which opened here yesterday, made a strong plea for peace in the Protestant Churches, collectively and individually. He prophesied that "unless the Fundamentalists and Modernists come to a hasty agreement the Protestant Churches will go out of existence within the next hundred years.

"Christianity cannot remain if one-half of it continues conservative and the other liberal," said Mr. Monro. "In that condition it has two Gods, two Christs, two Bibles. Neither Fundamentalism nor Modernism must be permitted to interfere with the main objects of the Church or the latter will be annihilated."

Mr. Fletcher said that he had not been notified of the wedding plans but that he had given his consent some time ago to the marriage of his daughter to the Count.

"In fact, the last time I heard from my daughter," he said, "there was not to be a wedding, but you know a woman." Mr. Fletcher said that he had no objections to the marriage.

QUESTION BONAPARTE WILL.

Countess's Children Ask Legal Action on Baltimore Rentals.

Special to The New York Times.

BALTIMORE, Aug. 14.—Jerome N. C. Bonaparte of New York City and his wife, Mrs. Blanche Bonaparte, are made defendants in a friendly suit filed in a local court to interpret the will of Betsy Patterson, the Baltimore belle of more than a century ago who married Jerome Bonaparte, brother of the Emperor Napoleon.

On the Court's interpretation of the meaning of certain provisions of the will depends the manner of distribution of fifty-six ground rents in Baltimore, said to represent a value of many thousand dollars.

The suit, according to Robert N. Wilson, trustee, who filed it in behalf of heirs of Countess Louise de Moltkie Huitfeld, daughter of Jerome N. Bonaparte of Washington, is a friendly action. A copy of Betsy Patterson's will was filed with the suit.

Betsy Patterson, daughter of William Patterson, a wealthy Baltimore merchant, and Jerome Bonaparte, youngest brother of Napoleon, then First Consul of the French Republic, were married in Baltimore on Christmas Eve, 1803.

The father of the bride had opposed the wedding, but to no avail. It was equally distasteful to Napoleon. He refused to admit the bride of his brother to Court circles and finally succeeded in forcing a divorce and Jerome was made King of Westphalia.

Betsy Patterson's estate was left to her two grandsons, Charles J. Bonaparte of Baltimore, who was Secretary of the Navy and later Attorney General under Roosevelt, and Jerome N. Bonaparte.

SAYS WE NEED A REVIVAL.

America must have a revival or she is doomed, the Rev. Dr. J. Frank Norris of Fort Worth, Texas, known as "The Texas Cyclone," told a large audience last evening in Tent Evangel, Ninety-fifth Street, just west of Broadway.

"Every century has an awakening," he said. "In the sixteenth century the Reformation shook the world; in the seventeenth century the Puritan movement called the people back to God; in the eighteenth century the Wesleys and Whitfield called the world to repentence, and the nineteenth century witnessed the awakening by the Oxford movement and the revivals of Finney and Moody.

"The twentieth century is one-fourth gone, and 'Watchman, what of the night?' We have gone far enough in crime, in divorce, in home-breaking, in disobedience, in Sabbath-breaking, in worldliness in the church and in unbelief.

"The time has come for the pendulum to swing back. All great revivals in history have been preceded by and accompanied by distress and confusion. All of the present discussion, 'the war in the churches,' between Modernism and Fundamentalism is a sure sign of a mighty religious awakening. It is the birthsong of a new day."

He was 48 years old. A sister, Mrs. Eugene C. Savidge, survives. The funeral services will be held, at a time to be announced later, at the residence in Babylon.

Ten days ago the major interest in the Bowery Bank was acquired by the Bancitaly Corporation of New York, the transaction marking the passing of the Bowery Bank from the control of the Foster family, which had directed its affairs for three generations, since its foundation in 1836 by William R. PANATROPE RECORD SUCCESSFUL IN TESTS

RADIO TUBES UTILIZED

The audience broke into applause for the performance of the new invention on hearing a record played on the Panatrope immediately after hearing the record played on a standard phonograph.

The new instrument, which has neither diaphragm nor horn, played disk records produced by an entirely new method. The effect was an excellent reproduction of the full orchestra, the jazz band, the human voice, the guitar, the piano, the saxophone and other instruments. The instrument produced fundamental tones and overtones with much the color of the original.

R. H. Townsend, who has been working for five years to bring this instrument to perfection, said yesterday that laboratory measurements showed that the Panatrope reproduced 90 per cent. of the frequencies or sound waves originally given forth by the orchestra or artist, whereas the standard phonograph at best reproduced 50 per cent. of the frequencies. The best phonograph music, he said, has an admixture of undesirable sounds caused by the distorting effect of the diaphragms and horns on the sound waves and also by sounds of their own which were interjected by the diaphragms and horns.

Desks Can Be Used for Phonographs.

For the purpose of making a smooth transition from the old instrument to the new, the records which are being issued bear a close outward resemblance to the old ones. They are intended for use on phonographs as well as on Panatropes. Similarly, the old records can be used on the Panatrope, with an effect said to be highly superior to their use on the old phonograph.

"The Panatrope will get frequencies out of an old record which are lost in the present phonograph because of the diaphragm and the horn," said Mr. Townsend. "Similarly the new records will give frequencies to a phonograph which were missing from the old records. Either combination of the old and new is an improvement on the old-style record on the old-style phonograph. But the best results are naturally obtained by using the new record —which we called the Panchord—on the Panatrope."

Ultimately the inventor said that the film record would undoubtedly displace the disk. He said that film records had been produced which would run for an hour without interruption, and that these would gradually be introduced later. The Panatrope is adapted to play either the film record or the disk record.

"The film record is a film on which the sound waves are photographed. It is unwound in the face of a small but intense light which reproduces the variations of the sound waves by its variations in brightness. These variations are reproduced electrically by means of a photo-electric cell and then stepped up to the required power by vacuum tubes. Eventually the power vibrates a disk, producing the sound waves. The apparatus required for playing the photographic film records is very simple and is planned for adjustment in the same cabinet which plays the disks.

Developments in connection with radio and with the talking films are used in the recording process by which the new records are made. Dispensing with the diaphragm and its distortion effects, the sound waves of the music are made to vibrate a bit of iron weighing two-tenths of a milligram. This is adjusted so that every vibration wiggles a tiny mirror. Each move of the mirror changes the angle of reflection of a light.

Vibrates Up to 8,000 a Second.

By a photo-electric cell the light changes are transformed into changes in electrical current. The vacuum cells multiply the power of the current until it is strong enough to actuate a tool which engraves the face of the record. Vibrations up to 8,000 a second and as low as 256 a second are cut into the master record, whose composition is a secret.

The process by which the records are made is reversed step by step when the record is played on the Panatrope. The needle picks up each variation on the disk record and transmits them as vibrations to a fine iron reed which fluctuates in an electro-magnetic field, its every movement producing an alteration of current. This varying current again is amplified by a series of vacuum tubes and carried to a coil of fine wire on the surface of the disk, which translates them into sound waves again. Unlike a diaphragm, this disk has no vibrating period of its own. Therefore it does not distort and does not intrude its own note, as the diaphragm and horn do.

The loudness or volume of the music reproduced is determined by the number of vacuum tubes used. This can be varied, by moving a small lever, from the volume required for a small room to that needed for a large auditorium.

The inventor said yesterday that, while the film records can run an hour or longer, the disk records cannot at present be made to run satisfactorily for more than ten minutes. The records now being issued are five-minute records. Ten-minute records will be issued later. Experiment is going on for the purpose of making possible still longer records by the grooves cut in the disks.

'Babbitt's' Play Field Succumbs to Commerce; Children's Park in Shadow of Wall St. Passes

New York's only playground south of Brooklyn Bridge, the last stronghold of childhood against business, which had been maintained for ten years through the sentiment of the Bowling Green Association, succumbed yesterday to high ground values, and the most expensive recreation space in the world disappeared.

The playground was "Babbitt's" covering nine lots between 41 and 44 West Street and 62 and 72 Washington Street, in the shadow of skyscrapers at the edge of scores of tenements which still fringe the financial section and where every nationality in the city lives.

Workmen went there yesterday to remove the swings, slides and sandpiles where thousands of foreign-born children have learned American words and American ways and where during the World War these same children grew vegetables in war gardens and attended "Save Food" and Liberty Loan rallies.

Scores of youngsters who had come smilingly to play remained soberly to watch the wreckers because they had no other place to go.

But the land was worth $500,000. The estate of B. T. Babbitt and Elizabeth Hyde had permitted it to be used for playground purposes, but new owners, the Edgar C. Ruwe Company of 49 West Street, which had bought the Elizabeth Hyde estate portion of the land, purchased it for the immediate erection of a building.

So the playground was removed, but the children of downtown New York will get another by next Summer, when the new $250,000 home of the Bowling Green Association headed by William Hamlin Childs, will be completed at 103-107 Washington Street. This will have a roof playground for young children, game rooms, clubrooms, a library and a place for free movie shows, which next to an outdoor playground are considered best for children in New York.

TEN YEARS TO LIFE FOR PICKFORD PLOT

THIRD FREED WITH WARNING

LOS ANGELES, Cal., Aug. 14 (AP).—Superior Judge Victor McLucas today sentenced C. Z. Stephens and Claude Holcomb to terms of from ten years to life in San Quentin prison following their conviction here yesterday of plotting to kidnap Mary Pickford, film star. He denied their motion for probation and a new trial. The defense gave notice of appeal.

A third defendant, Adrian Wood, was acquitted last night, but did not escape a warning from several jurors who as they left the court room after returning the verdict told him he "did not realize how close he came" and to be "more careful about his associates in the future."

Neither Miss Pickford nor her husband, Douglas Fairbanks, was present when the defendants heard their fate. Miss Pickford and Mr. Fairbanks had testified during the trial that they knew nothing of the kidnapping plot save what detectives told them.

The three defendants were arrested May 30, after six weeks of police investigation. Detectives declared they had listened in on conferences at which the trio talked of kidnapping Jackie Coogan, Baby Peggy, the granddaughters of E. L. Doheny, Pola Negri, and finally Mary Pickford. Purported confessions obtained from the three prisoners corroborated these charges.

It was planned, the confession revealed, to seize Miss Pickford during Shriner Week last June, when the spectacle of a trio of befezzed merrymakers making off with an actress in a bunting-bedecked automobile was expected to attract only passing comment. The plans called for incarceration of the actress in some conveniently obscure dwelling until her actor-husband paid $200,000 ransom.

Before the dwelling had been selected, however, the plotters were under arrest and film fans were looking forward to the approaching appearance of Mary Pickford on a witness stand.

This appearance of Miss Pickford was the high point of the trial and choked four floors of the Hall of Records with a struggling mob. Only relatives of the accused men were on hand last night to learn what might be their fate.

PRINTERS CHANGE RULES.

Union Raises Requirements for All Apprentices.

KALAMAZOO, Mich., Aug. 14 (AP).—The annual convention of the International Typographical Union ended today with the delegates voting to hold the 1926 meeting in Colorado Springs, Col., the second week in September instead of August.

A general recodification of the apprentice laws, including twenty-two amended sections presented by the Laws Committee, was the last matter considered. The changes were offered to meet the requirements of the recently organized educational bureau and were unanimously adopted.

The new rules require that an apprentice applicant be 16 years old, that he must pass a physical and technical examination given by the subordinate union, and that he must serve five years as an apprentice and complete the International Typographical Union course in the art of printing before he can qualify as a journeyman printer. After the third year of his apprenticeship he may be admitted to the union as an apprentice member without privilege to vote and being exempt from paying dues.

The convention declined to adopt a proposed law that would abolish the piece scale in all newspapers and commercial printing shops in the United States and Canada.

A proposal to adopt a rule which would require newspapers publishing Sunday morning editions to pay overtime rates for second shifts when two shifts of "double headers" are necessary was voted down upon recommendation of the Laws Committee.

The committee also returned an unfavorable report upon a proposal by the New York delegation to require employment of practical printers only as proofreaders. The committee held the proposal as purely a local matter.

HAMMONTON, N. J., Aug. 14.—Two men were killed within twenty-four hours by the Cape May Express on the Reading Railway. Yesterday morning a 70-year-old man was struck and killed at Audubon. This morning Burrough Rumford, 26 years old, of Lindenwold, a driver for the Clark Dairies of Laurel Springs, was crossing the tracks near Clementon when the locomotive of the northbound express, going sixty-five miles an hour, hit the light truck Rumford was driving and hurled it fifty feet. Rumford was dead when the trainmen reached the scene of the accident.

LONDON, Aug. 14.—Pearl White, American film actress, who is engaged to play in a London revue at £600 a week, slipped into London today on a special train. She crossed the Channel in semi-regal state, with a portion of the deck roped off for her special use, a fact resented by some of her fellow passengers.

England is not so friendly to film stars since British soldiery was induced to pay military honors to an American film at Southampton some months ago. Nothing deterred, however, the actress, who was dressed simply, with one silver bracelet around her right ankle, seated herself in a Pullman special train labeled "Pearl White's Special," and was welcomed in London by a fleet of motor cars marked, "Awaiting arrival of Pearl White Special."

"Who's Pearl White?" asked a London porter puzzled at the display, and none could tell him. There is a disposition here against American films and well-known film stars. In view of the fact that the first authorized version of Thomas Hardy's "Tess of the D'Urbervilles" is to be given in London shortly. There is much complaint about the American film version of the classic in which Tess frequents a cabaret and leaps in and out of automobiles. Thomas Hardy, asked why he allowed it, claimed that it was agreed that not a situation or word in his book was to be altered, but the agreement was broken. "What could I do? I'm an old man and have no defense against that sort of thing."

Fritz Reiner at the Stadium last evening led the Philharmonic Orchestra through a varied program, the noteworthy portions of which were De Falla's "Amor Brujo" and Franck's Symphony in D minor. De Fallo's work, performed for the first time at the Stadium, is an epitome of the Spanish composer's later style. The finer shades could not be caught in the open air, but its uncommon thematic material, its original form and the accented rhythms invested it with great interest. After much applause, Mr. Reiner gave as an encore the Scherzo from "Midsummer Night's Dream."

Tonight he will introduce for the first time in New York Rieti's concerto for wind instruments and orchestra. Mr. Reiner will also conduct Beethoven's Fifth Symphony.

BAY FIELD, Wis., Aug. 14 (AP).—Visitors from twenty-five States have come here to see an Indian opera, in which the white man's music and stage methods have been adopted to present an Indian legend. The opera is the "Land of Long Ago," presented nightly in connection with a historical pageant of the Chippewa Indians of the Apostle Islands.

The stage is outdoors, Lake Superior is on one side, pines wall the amphitheatre, with tepees about the stage floor, while the audience finds seats on a hill overlooking the stage. Between acts there is a ballet, in which some of the dancing girls are Indians.

Avery Hopwood, author of twenty-six plays, returned yesterday on the Cunarder Aquitania from a five months' visit abroad, accompanied by his mother, Mrs. J. Hopwood, and announced his intention of retiring after his two new plays, "Four Stuffed Shirts" and "Naughty Cinderella" had been produced.

"While my plays have been sensational they have not been risqué," said Mr. Hopwood. "I can never be accused of lowering the moral tone of the stage and can leave the field with a clear conscience. The trouble with so many of the plays on Broadway today is that they are too risqué."

SHAVER WANTS ACCOUNTING

Seeks Order In Agency's Counter-Claims on Democratic Committee.

Clem L. Shaver, as Chairman of the Democratic National Committee, applied in the Supreme Court yesterday for an order compelling Van Patten, Inc., the advertising agency now being sued by the Democratic National Committee, for an accounting of the expenditures for advertising during the recent campaign, to give particulars of two counter-claims set up by the advertising agency.

One counter-claim is for $39,220, which the defendant contends is due for service performed, and the other is for $75,000 damages on the ground that the Democratic National Committee agreed to spend $600,000 in advertising, and after the defendant had made all arrangements the committee spent only $100,000.

Mr. Shaver asks full particulars of all the services performed and the names of the persons who stated that $600,000 would be spent and the dates when the statements were made.

GEST PLANS DRAMA IN MANY TONGUES

HOPES TO START NEXT YEAR

Reinhardt Festival Attracts a Large Number of Americans and Other Nationalities to Austrian City.

By LINCOLN EYRE.

SALZBURG, Austria, Aug. 14.—Internationalization of the drama by means of actors accomplished linguistically as well as histrionically is the grandiose conception evolving out of the dramatic festival which began here last night under Max Reinhardt's artistic aegis. To Morris Gest, Reinhardt's American alter ego, belongs credit for the new idea. After the triumphant presentation of Hugo von Hofmannsthal's "World Theatre," Mr. Gest remarked: "If only I could bring that to America with the same cast speaking English." "Perhaps they can learn," Reinhardt replied with a quiet smile. "Why not?" the American producer of "The Miracle" rejoined.

Last night's performance, apart from its intrinsic success, opened the way to international fame and fortune to at least two of its participants hitherto known only in their own country—Eugen Klopfer, the Beggar, and Lil Dagover, who played Beauty. Klopfer made the Beggar a symphony of all the world's discontent and misery. Miss Dagover, a German film star, who never before had appeared on the speaking stage, dramatized her loveliness into everything beautiful the world contains. But neither can play in any language but their own.

Sensing the loss to the American stage, and to other countries, too, that this handicap implies, Mr. Gest got busy and today was able to tell THE NEW YORK TIMES correspondent that foundations for a new school, designed to internationalize dramatic art, had been laid.

"The problem is not only learning a foreign language itself but learning how to act in it," he said. "Lady Diana Manners and Rosamond Pinchot talk German, but they cannot act in German. What we propose to do here at Salzburg at next year's festivals is to establish a school which will teach the best actors in the world how to play the world's great masterpieces in languages other than their own. Opera singers learn this, so why should not actors?"

Mr. Gest said Heléne Thimmig, who achieved a marked personal triumph in the rôle of Wisdom, might undertake to help instruct foreign players to interpret German parts, while Lady Diana Manners and Miss Pinchot, stars of "The Miracle," would be ready to instil American methods. Dalmatoff of the Chauve Souris, who is here with Mr. Gest, is delighted to impart the Russian idea of drama. Over them all would stand Reinhardt, who is familiar with all the schools.

Meanwhile Salzburg is as much a centre of American as of European art. Last night's première was magnificent, but what everybody is really here for is "The Miracle," with its American exponents.

The ex-German Crown Prince in strictest incognito and two other Hohenzollerns, Prince Joachim Albrecht and Prince Leopold of Prussia, were present in the vast riding hall, which has become the world's dramatic centre. They will be here for "The Miracle," too, and so will the glittering aggregation of society and intellectual folk packed into the Salzburg hotels. Substitute wooden shacks for ancient stone houses and this venerable town is reminiscent of Shelby on the eve of the Dempsey-Gibbons fight.

Americans somehow seem to predominate—Mr. Gest estimates their number at over 600. The deus ex machina of course is Reinhardt, but he is little in evidence, being hard at work behind the scenes or hidden away amid the vastness of his Leopoldskron castle. It is Morris Gest who is always on hand "internationalizing" the festival and telling Americans what it is all about and putting Salzburg generally on the world map. And Salzburg is duly grateful. The city fathers have elected him to the curatorium, the council directing the festival, as the only foreign member, and yesterday he was received in the Municipal Palace by the Cardinal, the Austrian Chancellor and the Commander in Chief of the Austrian army. Between times he is engaged in making a motion picture record of everything and everybody here.

DROP THEIR ORCHESTRAS.

Baltimore Theatre Managers Balk at Musicians' Wage Demands.

Special to The New York Times.

BALTIMORE, Md., Aug. 14.—The Legitimate Theatre Managers' Association here agreed yesterday to dispense with orchestral music between the acts of dramatic productions at Ford's Theatre, the Auditorium and the Academy of Music. Musicians will only be employed for musical comedies and revues.

This action is understood to be their reply to recent demands of the musicians' union for an increase of approximately 27 per cent. in pay. Radical cuts in the personnel of orchestras in motion picture and vaudeville theatres are expected to follow. Theatre musicians here were paid $38 a week last year and they asked $48 a week for next season.

The managers have offered a compromise to stagehands, who also demand an increase, and a proposal has been submitted to the International Alliance of Theatrical Stage Employes. Many motion picture theatres will cut down the size of their orchestras to six musicians, the number required by union rules.

ORPHAN BAND WINS.

Hebrew Asylum Gets First Prize in Goldman Contest.

The band of the Hebrew Orphan Asylum of New York won first prize in the second annual contest for boys' bands last night on the New York University campus held by the Goldman Band. The winning band received a silver cup presented by the Associated Musical Instrument Dealers of New York and a cornet donated by the National Bureau for the Advancement of Music. Its director, James F. Knox, won a gold medal given by Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Guggenheim and Mr. and Mrs. Murry Guggenheim. Second prize, another silver cup, went to the Hebrew Orphan Asylum of Brooklyn, and third prize went to the band of St. Michael's Orphanage, Hopewell, N. J.

After the contest the massed bands and Goldman's Band joined in playing Sousa's "Semper Fidelis," and then the Goldman Band gave a short program consisting of the overture from "William Tell," a cornet solo, "The Carnival of Venice," by Walno Kauppi, and Liszt's Second Hungarian Rhapsody.

THEATRICAL NOTES.

Charles Purcell will be featured with Helen Ford in "Dear Enemy," a musical comedy. It will go into rehearsal next week.

Mary Morris, the original Abbie Putnam in "Desire Under the Elms," will return from Europe on Sept. 1. She will either rejoin the company at the Cohan or will become a member of a new company now being organized.

The first production of the Yiddish Art Theatre, which has taken the Nora Bayes Theatre for the season, will be "King Saul," by Paul Heyse.

The leading feminine role in the Boston company of "The Fall Guy" will be played by Anna Lauchlin, remembered from "The Wizard of Oz."

Jose Collins, who has been playing in London for a number of years, will return here for a vaudeville engagement, beginning in November.

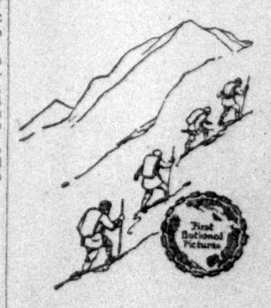
A Strike! Gold! Gold!



GOLD! Dawson was in a ferment! A madman had staggered in from the snow-bitten wastes with a tale of riches, amazing, unbelievable. The white trail to the Klondike was black with men, sweating, swearing, fighting. Huskies flew under snapping lashes, men threw away packs for speed—on—on—battling to be first—for Gold lay under the grass roots, the richest strike ever known.

FINANCIAL MARKETS

The program of bidding up selected shares with something like violence, while neglecting the rest of the market, was pursued again on the Stock Exchange yesterday. It resulted again in a market of ill-distributed activity and extremely uneven change of prices, yet with the movement predominantly upward. No connection appeared to exist between the rise of prices and the day's financial news, unless it were the absence of hardening in money rates; the market was again the expression of a speculative mood, seemingly based on willingness to take chances on any adverse movement in the credit market.

The course of prices on the Stock Exchange during the last few days has not been regarded with favor in conservative financial quarters, for the obvious reasons that, in so far as the very high prices reached by many shares are a measure of expectations regarding the future course of trade and industry, the reasonable probabilities have been long since "overdiscounted" and that the market has for some time past been advancing purely on its own speculative momentum.

While speculation for the rise had its own way on the Stock Exchange, wheat prices broke 4 cents or more; mostly, it appeared, on closer consideration of the effect of the large European harvest. The wheat market is having much the same difficulty in balancing against one another the two opposite aspects of the situation as it had last January. But at all events, it is keeping its eye on the realities—which can hardly be said with equal assurance of the Stock Exchange.

Yesterday's Census Bureau report on last month's distribution of our cotton was interesting, both as completing the figures for a remarkable "cotton year" and as showing the tendencies of the moment. In the twelve months ended with July, home consumption of the last cotton crop reached the largest figures of any year since the war excepting 1923 and 1920, while exports have run 2,423,000 bales above the season ending with July, 1924, and have never been equaled since the first year of the European war. These remarkable exports, a proof of the depletion of the whole world's stocks of cotton during the three years of weevil depredation and short American crops which preceded 1924, do not bid fair to be duplicated. In July alone, the outward movement decreased 9,000 bales from the year before and fell below that month's results in all but one of the post-war years. But the month's takings by domestic spinners made a different showing; they far exceeded those of any July since 1920. It is this home consumption on which the cotton market is largely resting its hope for maintenance of existing prices.

The oddly contrasting considerations which arise in the present more or less perplexing financial situation were illustrated by yesterday's Treasury bulletin reporting decrease of $37,600,000 in the country's stock of money during July and a decrease of $316,000,000 since the year began, coming in sequence to the summary of bank checks exchanged last month in the United States, which surpassed in total value the highest previous record for July, and the showing of total loans and discounts, by private banks in the Federal Reserve, nearly $1,000,000,000 greater than a year ago. Had these three movements been reported simultaneously in years before the war, the position would probably have been described as dangerous. The fact that no one is surprised at the present course of events shows how far we have been carried away from many old-time traditional landmarks by the change in our own financial position relative to the outside world and by the prolonged accumulation of world's gold in our bank reserves between 1920 and last Autumn.

Another curious aspect of the existing situation was once more indicated by yesterday's week-end reviews of general trade. They are cheerful, but with the familiar lack of concrete facts. "Improvement in sentiment is spreading;" there is "a disposition to convert some of the optimism" lately visible into "actual purchasing for Fall;" but beyond this testimony to a gradual change of mood among the merchants, little evidence is presented that trade activity is quickening.

MONEY.

FRIDAY, AUG. 14, 1925.

Although money continued abundantly offered for day-to-day and maturity loans, it was still without effect upon quoted rates except in the "Street" market, where demand loans were arranged at 3¼, compared with 3½ per cent. on Thursday. Stock Exchange charge remained at 4 per cent. all day. Time money market was dull, very little new money being taken, replacements of expiring loans forming the chief activity. Five-six months' were offered at 4¼ per cent., but there were no takers. Acceptances and commercial paper were quiet and unchanged in discount.

BUYS PLANTS TO AID WORLD PHONE PLAN

ACTIVE IN SPAIN AND FRANCE

Arrangements have been made for the sale of the International Western Electric Company, foreign subsidiary of the Western Electric Company, to the International Telephone and Telegraph Corporation, it was announced last evening by the Western Electric Company. Aside from being one of the largest industrial deals between American companies doing an extensive foreign business, the effect will be to give the International Telephone and Telegraph Company business affiliations in practically every part of the world with an opportunity to extend its telephone service in those countries by competing with the domestic monopolies in the production and sale of equipment.

The International Corporation recently obtained the Spanish telephone concession, and by organizing a Spanish corporation, is improving the service in that country. It also recently arranged with prominent French electrical interests for manufacturing concessions in connection with plans for developing the French telephone service under concessions which the International is seeking from the French Government. It controls the telephone system of Cuba and Porto Rico and has gone into South America and Mexico.

Has Many Plants Abroad.

The International Western Electric Company and its affiliated companies have holdings which include full or partial ownership in telephone manufacturing plants in London,, Antwerp, Paris, Vienna, Budapest, Barcelona, Milan, Tokio and Peking, with sales offices at various points in Europe, Africa and South America. This company also has working contractural arrangements with several European cable manufacturers under which they manufacture cable under license from the International Western Electric Company. The total sales of the company and its principal foreign and allied companies in 1924, was $43,800,000, reckoned in dollars at the current rates of exchange. In 1923 the sales totalled $36,500,000.

"The International Western Electric Company and its associated companies have been engaged in foreign business for many years," the announcement of the Western Electric Company said, "furnishing telephone equipment and certain other electrical products to customers in all parts of the world.

"With the American business of the Western Electric Company making increasing demands upon it, and in view of its primary obligation to the Bell System, the operations of which are confined to the United States and Canada, the Western Electric Company has decided to withdraw from the foreign field and devote its resources to business within the United States.

Change in Officers.

"The International Western Electric Company, under its new ownership, will continue to have exclusive licenses under the foreign patents of the Western Electric Company in the telephone and telegraph field, and will also continue to act as the exclusive distributers outside of the United States, Canada and Newfoundland for Western Electric manufactures.

"George E. Pingree, Vice President and general manager of the International Western Electric Company, will become its President, and Philip K. Condit, Vice President of the International Western Electric Company, will become its executive Vice President."

It is understood that the name of the International Western Electric Company will be changed to identify it with the International Telephone and Telegraph Corporation. The transaction came as a surprise in the financial district. Whether it was a cash transaction it could not be learned, the point being emphasized that "arrangements had been made for the sale."

The investment of the Western Electric Company in the International Western Electric Company, which has been headed by Charles G. Du Bois as President of both companies, is believed to be large. On the Western Electric Company's balance sheets no reference is made as to the extent of the investment or of the assets of the International Western Electric Company.

Active in Radio Field.

In the annual report for 1924 of the Western Electric Company it was stated that the export billings from the United States by the International Company were $6,772,000, of which the Western Electric Company furnished $4,273,000, a substantial increase over 1923. The International Company's net earnings in 1924, exclusive of a special dividend from past earnings of the London company, were $1,477,000, which amount was sufficient to provide for interest, dividends at the rate of 7 per cent. on its preferred stock, and for the usual dividend of $1.40 a share on the common stock with a substantial balance.

The International Western Electric Company also is active in the radio field, and its radio facilities are expected to prove an important factor in the International Telephone and Telegraph Corporation's plans for telephone service development abroad. Radio broadcasting has not developed so rapidly abroad as in the United States, but broadcasting associations in which the International Company's associates have some part have been licensed by the Governments of Italy, Spain, Norway and Japan. Manufacturing of radio apparatus is carried on in all the associated factories of the International Western Electric Company.

The International Telephone and Telegraph Corporation was incorporated June 16, 1920, in Maryland, to carry on a general telephone, telegraph, cable and wireless business, and business incidental thereto in the States, Territories or dependencies of the United States, except the State of Maryland, and specifically to transact such business in Cuba, Porto Rico and other islands of the West Indies, Mexico, Central America and South America, as well as in other foreign countries. The corporation owns approximately 95 per cent. of the common stock of the Cuban Telephone Company, and about 95 per cent. of the common stock of the Porto Rico General Telephone Company and South Porto Rico Telephone Company, both incorporated in 1906. In addition the corporation owns jointly with the American Telephone and Telegraph Company all the stock of the Cuban-American Telephone and Telegraph Company, forming the connecting link by telephone cable between Cuba and the entire Bell system. Sosthenes Behn is President. Both the American Telephone and Telegraph Company and International Telephone and Telegraph Corporation officials have denied that there existed any financial affiliation between the two other than the joint operation and ownership of the cable between Key West and Cuba.

In connection with the acquisition of the International Western Electric Company by the International Telephone and Telegraph Company, the latter organization sent a letter to its stockholders yesterday announcing that the Mexican Telephone and Telegraph Company, in which it has arranged to acquire a controlling interest, has received two new concessions for the operation of telephones in Mexico. One of these grants the right to construct and operate a long distance telephone system in Mexico, and the other is an extension of the existing concession in the Federal district, that is Mexico City and its environs.

The company also issued an earning statement for the six months ended June 30, June partly estimated, showing total income of $3,381,318, against $2,799,921 in the same period last year, and surplus available for common dividends amounting to $1,104,328, against $976,820 in the first half of 1924.

MEXICAN MONEY TRANSFER.

Western Union Announces New Schedule of Lower Rates.

A reduction in the money transfer rates to Mexico was announced yesterday by the Western Union Telegraph Company. Under the new schedule the rates will be the tolls for the actual number of words in the transfer message at the regular through commercial rate to the Mexican point, plus a transfer charge of 2 per cent. of principal with a minimum of 50 cents per transfer.

The minimum amount of any transfer will be $5 and the maximum $500. Payments of transfers to Mexico will be made in Mexican pesos at the rate of exchange obtaining on the date of payment. This is an entirely new service on the part of the company and was made possible through an arrangement between the Mexican Government and the Western Union.

GASOLINE PRICE CUT IN WIDE TERRITORY

DUE TO INCREASED SUPPLY

Competitors Meet New Rate—Further Drop in New York and New England Expected.

The Standard Oil Company of New Jersey yesterday announced another reduction of one cent a gallon in the tank wagon price of gasoline throughout its territory, and its Southern subsidiary, the Standard Oil Company of Louisiana, announced an average reduction of 1½ cents a gallon in its territory. This is the second reduction of one cent a gallon announced by the Stadnard Oil Company of New Jersey within a week, making the current tank wagon price in New Jersey 17 cents a gallon. This is 2½ cents a gallon below the high price for the current year established early in June, but is still 3½ cents a gallon above the low price quoted last Autumn.

Reports of a trade war between the larger companies continue in the financial district, but were denied by the Standard Oil Company of New Jersey in its official statement explaining that the reductions were due to competition and an increased supply of gasoline. Large quantities of gasoline have been moving from California and the Gulf Coast to the Atlantic Seaboard.

On the surface the price reductions at this time, when the consumption of gasoline is greater than at any previous period, appears puzzling, but it was pointed out in trade circles that while much attention has been given to the increased consumption little has been said of the rapid increase in production. Virtually every small refiner in the midcontinent field, encouraged by the advance in gasoline prices during the first six months of the year, has been operating his plant at capacity.

According to estimates in the trade, a total of 11,000,000,000 gallons of gasoline will be needed this year to meet domestic and export requirements. The largest consuming month is August, and September's total also is large. The consumption in August last year was 937,288,422 gallons, the peak month of the year. In June this year consumption, according to Government figures, aggregated 982,008,424 gallons. It was pointed out that if the ratio of consumption between the first and last half of 1924 prevails this year a total of 6,175,000,000 gallons of gasoline may be consumed during the last six months of 1925.

As a result of the last reduction the Standard Oil of New Jersey's tank wagon price in New Jersey is now 17 cents a gallon; in Maryland, with the exception of Baltimore, 18 cents; in Washington, D. C., 17 cents; in Virginia, West Virginia and North Carolina, 18 cents, and in South Carolina, 18½ cents. The company also announced a reduction of ¼ cent a gallon in the export prices of all grades of gasoline except United States motor gasoline.

The reduction was met immediately by competitors, including Sinclair Consolidated Oil Corporation, Gulf Refining Company and the Texas Company.

The Atlantic Refining Company yesterday announced a reduction of 2 cents a gallon in the retail price of gasoline in New England, meeting the cuts previously announced by other companies.

Further reductions in gasoline and crude oil prices are expected to be announced soon. According to reports, the Standard Oil Company of New York is expected to announce another reduction in prices in New York and New England, following a 2-cent reduction announced last Monday. The tank wagon price in New York is now 3 cents a gallon above New Jersey's price, and this is looked upon as too large a spread in the trade.

It also was reported that the Standard Oil Company of Indiana will announce a reduction in its gasoline price early next week. This is expected to be followed by a reduction in mid-continent crude oil prices.

BLAMES BOOTLEG GASOLINE.

John J. Mitchell, President of the Illinois-Merchants Trust Company and a director of the Texas Company, one of the large independent oil organizations, commenting on the oil situation, was quoted yesterday as follows:

"It apparently is just a case of too much competition. Large quantities of so-called bootleg gasoline are appearing on the market and the responsible oil companies are meeting the situation by revising their prices down to the level of the outlaws.

"This situation is confined to a small section of the country and should adjust itself within a short time. So far as the Texas Company is concerned, I cannot see that there will be any material effect on earnings. Our earnings for the first half of the year were more than sufficient to cover dividend requirements for the full year at the present rate."

ACTIVE BUYING SENDS CRUDE RUBBER HIGHER

Prices Hit New High Levels, but Market Eases as Demand Slackens.

Crude rubber prices reached new high levels on the present movement during the forenoon trading yesterday, mainly as a result of a carry-over of the demand which set in on Thursday. Spot smoked sheets advanced 3 cents, to 85 cents, and other leading grades from 1 to 3 cents per pound.

Strength in London and other foreign markets stimulated the rise here, but toward the close, as consumers' inquiry waned, there developed a moderate reactionary tone and some concessions from earlier tops were made.

NORWALK TIRE TO PAY DIVIDEND ON COMMON

First Time Since 1920—United Cigars and International Security Trust Order Payments.

The Norwalk Tire and Rubber Company declared a quarterly dividend of 40 cents a share on the common stock yesterday, payable Oct. 1 to stock of record Sept. 10. The dividend amounts to a resumption, since no dividends have been declared on the common since 1920. The company has an unbroken record on its preferred dividends. Sales for the six months ended June 30 were slightly more than $2,000,000, as compared with $1,200,000 in the corresponding period of 1924.

The Board of Directors of the United Cigar Stores Company declared the following regular quarterly dividends yesterday: On the preferred stock a dividend of 1¾ per cent., payable Sept. 15 to stockholders of record Sept. 1; on the common stock a cash dividend of 2 per cent. and a stock dividend of 1¼ per cent. payable in common stock on Sept. 30 to stockholders of record Sept. 15.

The International Security Trust Company of America has declared quarterly dividends of $1.75 on its 7 per cent. preferred shares, $1.62½ on the 6½ per cent. preferred shares, of $1.50 on the 6 per cent. preferred shares and 70 cents on the common shares, payable Sept. 1 to stock of record Aug. 21.

MORE BUSINESS IN WOOL.

But Trade Is Ill-Distributed and Prices Are Uncertain.

BOSTON, Aug. 14.—The Commercial Bulletin will say tomorrow:

"There is more business being done on Summer Street, although it is not generally distributed. Several of the larger worsted mills have been buying wool rather keenly, however, especially of Australian merinos. Some sales of domestic territory and fleece wools also have been made mostly at prices which show perhaps a cent a pound reduction over last week. The trade is feeling more optimistic over the increased business, which evidently reflects much better business in the goods market and especially in worsted lines.

"There is little change in the foreign markets for the week. Bradford is quiet, the strike continuing. Australia is generally steady with a good clearance and competition fairly keen, especially from France and America. Quotations from the River Plate are few and irregular. In the West, there has been little activity this week."

UTILITIES FEATURE WEEK'S BOND ISSUES

Six Were Offered, the Largest Being $10,000,000 Southeastern Power & Light.

TOTAL IS YEAR'S SMALLEST

Only $20,809,000 Put on Market Against $74,378,000 Last Week and $145,000,000 Last Year.

New bond offerings this week were the smallest of the year, the total being $20,809,000. Last week the offerings amounted to $74,378,000, and the new issues of the corresponding week a year ago were more than $145,000,000. The bulk of this week's offerings was in the public utility field. Offerings, by groups, of this and last week follow:

	This Week.	Last Week.
Public utility	$19,100,000	$13,200,000
State and municipal	1,359,000	11,303,000
Industrial	350,000	3,900,000
Foreign	.....	24,000,000
Railroad	.....	17,270,000
Farm loan	.....	200,000

There were six public utility issues during the week and all were of fairly large size. The largest was an issue of $10,000,000 bonds of the Southeastern Power and Light Company. Another interesting public utility issue was one of the Mutual Telephone Company of Erie, Pa., which is taking over the local properties in that city of the Bell Telephone Company of Pennsylvania. This is one of the few cases on record where Bell properties have been ceded to a competing company.

There were small issues during the week of State and municipal and of industrial bonds. The other groups were not represented. Midsummer dullness was generally given as the reason for the falling off in offerings, but a number of large new issues are now in course of preparation. The general bond market has been dull, but enlarged support became apparent late in the week. It was apparent that large institutions had resumed buying and this, together with a considerable demand from individual investors gave the market a steadier tone. The buyers continue to show discrimination, however, and there is no tendency to bid up prices rapidly, as was the case before the recent reaction. Money was easy during most of the week, but conflicting predictions regarding the probable future course of the loan market helped to restrict trading in bonds.

Among the new issues expected to be offered within a few days is a good-sized loan to Munich for the extension of the public works system and other municipal purposes. Several other German issues also are being prepared for the New York market. A loan to Canada that may amount to $150,000,000 will be arranged in connection with forthcoming refunding operations in the Dominion. There is talk also of early loans to the German Rentenbank and to Czecho-Slovakia.

Toward Autumn there is expected to be a number of large loans to foreign countries, following the completion of war-debt funding arrangements in Washington.

DRY GOODS SALES SLOW.

Distribution Did Not Reach the Volume of Last Week.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, Aug. 14.—Marshall Field & Co., in their weekly review of the wholesale dry goods trade, say:

"Current wholesale distribution of dry goods did not reach the volume of last week, but exceeded by a considerable margin that of the same week a year ago. Road sales were slightly less than a week ago, but showed a good increase over last year's total for the same period. There were more customers in market than a year ago during the corresponding week. Collections were not quite equal to the corresponding period in 1924.

"The convention of the Interstate Merchants' Council, held Aug. 12 to 14, inclusive, was exceptionally well attended. Merchant members from many sections of the country took advantage of reduced railroad fares to come to Chicago, and were in market in large numbers."

Schulte Stores' Sales Increase.

The Schulte Retail Stores Corporation reports for the six months ended June 30 net profits of $2,500,537, equivalent to $5.12 a share on the 375,000 shares of common stock outstanding, as compared with $2,420,987, or $6.67 a share on the 300,000 shares of common stock outstanding in the same period a year ago. Sales for the first six months were $10,710,495 as compared with $15,789,700 in the same period of 1924.

Tobacco Co. Receivers to Pay 25%.

Pursuant to an order of the United States District Court of New York, the receivers of the American Sumatra Tobacco Company will make a second payment of 25 per cent. on all liquidated indebtedness of the company, with 6 per cent, accrued interest up to Aug. 15. The five-year 7½ per cent. sinking fund convertible gold notes of the company are included in the order.

Mother Lode Earned $946,947.

The Mother Lode Coalition Mines Company reports net earnings of $946,947 for the six months ended June 30, after all expenses, but before reserves for taxes and depreciation. This compares with net earnings of $924,224 reported in the first half of 1924.

Continuous Satisfactory Service

IN establishing relations with a bank, three important considerations are the dependability of its management, the assurance that a capable management will be continued, and the adequacy of its facilities.

This Company with an experience of 141 years has thoroughly developed its facilities in all branches of banking and fiduciary business, and the fact that its Board of Trustees elects its own successors insures the continuance of its present conservative policies.

We invite business houses and individuals of good standing to form banking connections with our Company.

Happiness Candy

In addition to the 72 stores now being operated by the Happiness Candy Company, this Company has just completed arrangements in conjunction and association with the United Cigar Stores Company for the inauguration of a chain of restaurants known as the Leeds System of Sandwich Shops, the first of which will shortly be opened on 38th Street between 5th and 6th Avenues. Additional units of the same character of restaurants will follow as fast as suitable locations are found available.

We are informed that the business for 1925 will show another striking increase over 1924. Cash resources available for the conduct of the business and the expansion now under way are ample, cash and demand loans alone standing at $2,077,334.51 on January 1, 1925.

An initial dividend of 25 cents a share has just been paid, the Company having declared 50 cents per share per annum.

This company is now operating under the auspices and supervision of the United Cigar Stores Company, which has a very large stock interest in it, and we believe from current indications Happiness Candy will prove fully as satisfactory an investment as United Cigar Stores has turned out to be.

TRADE REVIEWS SEE BUSINESS GAINING

CROPS PROMISING WELL

Bradstreet's Reports That Buying Is Conservative but Optimism Is Increasing.

Business sentiment continues to improve, according to the week-end reviews of the commercial agencies. There is some irregularity in a few lines, they report, but in the main the prospects are favorable.

Dun's Review says:

"Favorable prospects for business are maintained, and the improvement in sentiment is spreading. There is a more general recognition now of the fact that the strong points outnumber the adverse phases, and confidence has largely replaced the uncertainty and hesitation that developed during the second quarter of the year. The trade reaction which occurred at that time has been followed by a revival in different lines, the Summer season having brought more activity than was expected.

"With the crops promising well, on the whole, and various statistical records reflecting progress, the conditions are distinctly discouraging. To the unprecedented bank clearings and building operations there has been added the heaviest railroad freight traffic ever reported for this period, while the smaller decrease in the unfilled contracts of the principal steel producer shows that a turn for the better has come in one of the great manufacturing industries.

Price Level Still Low.

"The level of prices in that quarter remains relatively low and profit margins are narrow, but the stability of the markets tends to stimulate demand and a further slight gain in output has resulted. Generally, changes in wholesale quotations indicate a check to the upward movement that has been under way since early in June, yet more than one-half of the advances in Dun's list this week are in other commodities than foodstuffs.

"With the majority of sellers in a stronger position, there is more disinclination to make concessions as a means of increasing business, and the initiative in most transactions is now with the buyers. No departure from the policy of purchasing mainly for immediate needs seems likely to be witnessed, but the frequent repeating of moderate-sized orders is a feature and shows plainly that dealers' stocks are comparatively small."

"While buying everywhere is conservative and no great surge forward is in evidence, there is none the less visible a disposition to convert some of the optimism apparent for some time past into actual purchasing for Fall, and in the case of some lines beyond that. Helpful in this direction have been the large assemblages of country buyers at the various Trade and Market Week gatherings at leading markets.

Gain in Dry Goods Sales.

"At both Eastern and Western markets, and at points in the Southwest where recent rains have been beneficial to corn and cotton, more has been doing for Fall or beyond. It is noted that dry goods, especially cotton and silk fabrics, have sold better at some leading Eastern centres, and trade interest has been quickened by a perceptible readiness on the part of some producers to extend lines along the path of crowd-styled cotton fabrics for next season.

"Early crop movement is helpful in aiding Fall trade, it being noted that while new grain movement to large markets is rather backward, there is a good deal of wheat moving in diverse directions to milling centres, which are taking grain freely, while a much earlier cotton movement to gins is noted in the Southwest."

FOREIGN EXCHANGE.

Firm values for the foreign exchanges were the chief characteristic of yesterday's trading in that market. Business and rate fluctuations were again as small and narrow as on Thursday, but with a direcation that pointed slightly up on that day.

Cotton and grain bills in moderate volume came on the market, but the selling was without effect upon the pound, which closed at a fractional gain at $4.85½. French francs were likewise steady at 4.66⅛ cents, while Italian lire improved to 3.61¼ cents and the Holland guilder to 40.23 cents. There was a let-up in the offerings of Spanish, Danish and Norwegian descriptions, with the result that these bills enjoyed a fair size recovery from the reaction which set in recently. Swiss, Belgian and Swedish exchanges were dull and unchanged.

Brazilian milreis touched a new high for the year at 12.06 cents, an overnight gain of 12 points, the Chilean and Argentine rates also moving up. Far Eastern were practically neglected, for there were no changes of account registered.

SOVIET MEN HERE TO BUY FOR MINES

AFTER NEW EQUIPMENT

A delegation representing the combined coal mining industries of the Donetz Basin in Soviet Ukraine, known as the Trust Donugol, has arrived in this country to place orders for mining equipment to be carried out through the Amtorg Trading Corporation, agents here for the Russian State Export and Import Department.

The delegation is headed by the Vice President of the trust, Simon V. Ivanov, and the manager of the Department of Mechanization, Arkadi A. Klaseley. Others in the party are Professor Shevyakov of the Ekaterinoslav Mining Institute, Chief Mechanic of the Trust Robert F. Vagner, and mine directors and engineers, including Nicholas I. Levitschenko, Zakhar E. Zorin, Ivan S. Lebedev, Dimitri M. Suschevsky and Michael M. Shibaev.

Prior to placing their orders the delegation will make a study of coal mines and mining equipment works in the United States, with a view to determining the types of equipment best adaptable to the industries of the Donetz Basin. According to Mr. Ivanov, the type of equipment will require careful consideration, since the Donetz industries occupy a leading position in the industrial reconstruction program which is being carried out by the Russian Government. The Donetz Basin is the chief source of hard mineral fuel in the Soviet Union, and it furnishes about 75 per cent. of the total coal output.

In recent years, members of the party said, the output of the mines in the Basin has been constantly increasing and the production program for the operating year 1925-26 provides for a further increase of about 65 per cent. over that of last year, bringing up the total to over 800,000,000 poods, or about 14,000,000 tons.

The importance of the Donetz Basin is said to be augmented by its situation in the vicinity of the large Ukrainian metallurgical industry, which has also shown rapid progress during the past year, with an increase in production of 84 per cent. over the previous year.

The delegation will spend a month in America, but some of the party will stay longer to supervise the filling of orders.

LEAD PRICE AGAIN PUT UP.

American Smelting Advances Quotation to 9.10 Cents—Copper Firm.

The American Smelting and Refining Company yesterday announced another advance of 10 points in the price of lead, making the new quotation 9.10 cents a pound. An advance of 10 points is equal to $2 a ton.

Copper prices yesterday recovered the ground lost on Thursday. The British market was firmer and this was reflected in the domestic markets. Most dealers and producers who shaded their prices to 14¾ cents a pound on Thursday were again quoting 14¾ cents yesterday, delivered in the Connecticut Valley, but it was admitted in the trade that some red metal was obtainable at the lower price.

Export copper prices also were firmer yesterday. Local dealers were quoting 14.70 cents a pound, f. a. s. New York harbor, and 14.93 cents a pound c. i. f. London and other European ports. Demand from abroad, however, was reported on a smaller scale and the advance in prices was due chiefly to higher quotations in the London market.

Production of copper in North America in July aggregated 81,020 tons, according to figures made public yesterday, compared with 81,891 tons in June.

ENDS RECEIVERSHIP FOR THE WARD LINE

Judge John C. Knox in the Federal court yesterday signed an order terminating the receivership of the New York and Cuba Mail Steamship Company, known as the Ward Line. Colonel Francis G. Caffey, the receiver, is directed by the order to return to the company all its properties by midnight Aug. 31.

The company is a subsidiary of the Atlantic, Gulf and West Indies Steamship Lines, and the agreement under whose terms a settlement was made was approved by Judge Knox several days ago. The order signed yesterday reserves the right to recapture the company's properties if the terms of this agreement are not carried out.

The order recites that of 5,103 bonds of $1,000 value of the Ward Line, the "Agwi" lines have acquired all but 34; that of $1,569,254.87 in maritime liens, $1,363,342.31 in claims has been allowed, $84,645.62 in claims being disallowed and the remainder referred to a Special Master for decision. Included in the preference claims that are before the Special Master is one of $917,605.17 of the United States Government, there being also $40,062.57 in preference claims thus far allowed and $6,208.52 disallowed.

General claims total $2,743,766.98. Of this amount $2,196,622.01 still remains subject to adjudication by the Special Master. Only $216,897.97 in general claims had been allowed when the report was made to the Court, and $329,740.37 had been disallowed. The papers say there are other claims which are covered by indemnity insurance.

Colonel Caffey was appointed receiver on Dec. 31, 1923. One of his acts as receiver was to bring an action against the "Agwi" Lines, alleging they had appropriated Ward Line assets. This suit is discontinued under the terms of the agreement. The receivership ends with the payment in full of all claims that have been allowed, and the Judge Knox's decree it is found that the line is in position to meet all its obligations as they mature.

YEAR'S CONSUMPTION OF COTTON LARGE

Census Bureau Reports Increase for Season Ending With July Was 2,921,128 Bales.

EXPORTS ROSE 2,423,896

Home Consumption In July Was Larger Than Last Year, but the Exports Were Smaller.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 14 (AP).—The total supply of cotton for the cotton year 1924-25 ended July 31 was announced today by the Census Bureau to have been 15,635,674 bales and the distribution was 15,824,304 bales. The distribution appears as more than the supply due principally to the inclusion in all distribution items of the "city crop," which consists of rebaled samples and picking from cotton damaged by fire and weather.

The aggregate supply for the cotton year 1923-24 was 12,725,286 bales and the distribution 12,903,176 bales, with an excess of 177,890 bales in distribution over supply.

The supply during the past season was made up as follows: On hand Aug. 1, 1924, total 1,555,514 bales, of which 721,589 bales were in consuming establishments, 673,925 bales in public storage and at compresses and 160,000 bales located elsewhere, including cotton for export on shipboard but not cleared, cotton being transported coastwise, cotton in transit to ports, interior towns and mills, cotton on farms, &c. Net imports totaled 303,183 bales, and ginnings for the twelve months were 13,776,977.

The distribution was as follows: Net exports, 7,996,500 bales; consumed, 6,191,349 bales; burned, 26,000 bales, and on hand July 31, 1925, 1,610,455 bales, of which 866,259 was in consuming establishments, 514,196 in public storage and at compresses and 230,000 bales located elsewhere.

Cotton consumed during July totaled 483,898 bales of lint and 62,513 of linters, compared with 493,765 of lint and 60,577 of linters in June this year, and 347,099 of lint and 41,732 of linters in July last year, the census bureau today announced.

Imports during July totaled 9,927 bales, and for the year 313,328 bales, compared with 19,957 in June this year, 6,579 in July last year and 292,288 for the cotton year 1923-24.

Exports during July totaled 202,468 bales of lint, including 6,040 bales of linters, and for the cotton year 8,195,896 bales of lint, including 190,648 bales of linters, compared with 217,786, including 6,725 of linters, in June this year; 211,533, including 8,900 of linters, in July last year, and 5,772,000 bales, including 116,144 of linters, in the year ending July 31 last year.

Stocks of cotton on hand July 31 were held as follows: In consuming establishments 866,259 bales of lint and 128,478 of linters, compared with 1,123,813 of lint and 146,673 of linters on June 30 this year and 721,589 of lint and 100,632 of linters on July 31 last year. In public storage and at compresses 514,196 bales of lint and 75,628 of linters, compared with 759,945 of lint and 35,173 of linters on June 30 this year and 673,925 of lint and 54,026 of linters on July 31 last year.

COTTON RECOVERS AFTER EARLY DROP

CONSUMPTION IS LARGE

Though new low levels were reached in cotton yesterday, the market again ran into an accumulation of trade buying orders in excess of selling power and a sharp recovery of 35 points resulted. In addition to unexpectedly large consumption figures, Texas temperatures continued high, with twenty-four stations reporting 100 to 112 degrees, and exceptionally hot weather prevailed in Atlantic States. In Georgia, some stations reported 104 to 106 degrees, which is extreme heat for that section. Absence of hedging pressure and diminished speculative selling after midday left a limited supply of contracts, and several large buying orders advanced the list until closing prices were highest of the session at a gain of 25 to 27 points.

Census figures showed 484,000 bales consumed by domestic mills during July, compared with 494,000 the previous month and 347,000 during July a year ago. This brought the total for twelve months of the season 1924-25 to 6,178,000 bales, lint cotton, against 5,688,000 last season. In addition to the amount of lint consumed, 651,000 bales of linters were used, and, subtracting 274,000 bales foreign cotton, American mills used approximately 6,555,000 bales grown in this country, compared with 5,892,000 last season, or an increase of roughly 663,000 bales. Owing to the larger consumption the last three months of the season, mill stocks at the close of the year were less than expected. Mills held 866,000 bales on Aug. 1, compared with 721,000 on Aug. 1, 1924.

A continuation of the speculative selling in progress at the close Thursday carried the market into new low territory shortly after the opening. Though buying orders at each point decline below 23½ cents for December absorbed contracts, pressure of cotton from several quarters ran October below 23.20 and December 23.39. All demand at 23.40 was filled before the census report indicated mills had used about 140,000 bales more cotton during July than during the corresponding month last year, which caused a sudden contraction in the selling movement.

Instead of starting to improve immediately the market hung fire for some time, but as professionals gradually decided to cover, scarcity of contracts was disclosed and during the afternoon the recovery became more pronounced. It was estimated that houses with trade connections took over 50,000 bales within a range of 20 points the past two days, while an even larger quantity was wanted within a quarter of a cent of the low prices reached during the early decline.

Week-end figures showed 106,000 bales in sight against 63,000 last week, making 182,000 for the season compared with 121,000 last year. Spinners took 169,000 against 155,000 last year, making 324,000 for the season against 255,000 last year. The visible supply decreased 63,000 against 91,000 last year, leaving the world's visible supply 1,006,000 against 817,000 a year ago.

WHEAT DECLINES AS LONGS UNLOAD

EXPORT DEMAND SLOW

Corn Closes Higher, but Oats and Rye Go Down in Sympathy With Wheat.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, Aug. 14.—Heavy and persistent selling of wheat by Eastern interests who have been aggressive on that side of late caused many of the local longs to unload on a sharp decline, and the finish was weak, with net losses of ⅜@4½c., with September leading.

Many of the local professionals were outright bearish after the close, the gradual widening of the Chicago-Liverpool difference attracting more attention, and the action of some of the local bulls in getting out of their lines during the day was a factor in causing commission houses to look for a further decline unless there is a material change in the general character of the news, or a marked increase in aggressive support.

Favorable harvest weather in the American and Canadian Northwest, it is expected in some quarters, will result in the September Government returns suggesting a larger yield than the August figures, and as one of the leading houses sees it our markets are isolated and very high, especially so early in the crop year.

World and domestic statistics on the wheat situation continue bullish, with Sir James Wilson, one of the leading world's authorities, estimating the needs of importers at 640,000,000 bushels and the surplus at 720,000,000 bushels, suggesting a carry-over of 80,000,000 bushels at the end of the 1925-26 season, which compares with Broomhall's estimate of 144,000,000 bushels.

Eastern interests were credited with having increased their outstanding short lines as a result of today's market operations, and the persistent selling, to some extent, has undermined local bull confidence. Many of the local pit element went home short wheat, anticipating a further sharp decline to let them get in tomorrow at a profit. Export demand continues extremely slow, with sales in all positions estimated at 500,000 bushels, largely Manitobas, and with the Winnipeg and Buenos Aires markets at a material discount under Chicago, there seemed to be but little prospect of a large business in domestic grains. Local bulls expect that the trade will be greatly disappointed over the movement of Spring wheat in the Northwest, and continue to look for higher prices ultimately.

Primary receipts today were 1,301,000 bushels; a week ago, 1,688,000 bushels, and last year, 3,220,000 bushels. The shipments were 912,000 bushels; a week ago, 753,000 bushels; last year, 1,880,000 bushels.

September corn had a range of 2½ cents today and acted tight when any buying of consequence appeared and closed 1 cent higher, with the deferred deliveries up ¼ cent. As the heads of the leading commission houses see it, corn is a purchase on all recessions, and with hogs selling around $14 here, there will be heavy consumption of the new crop as soon as it is possible to use it.

Primary arrivals of corn today were 646,000 bushels; a week ago, 594,000 bushels; last year, 792,000 bushels. The shipments, 266,000 bushels; a week ago, 493,000 bushels; last year, 304,000 bushels.

Salesmen to Hit Pullman Surcharge.

The National Council of Traveling Salesmen's Association of the United States, at their annual convention to be held in the Hotel Pennsylvania early in September, will decide upon definite plans to force the elimination of the railroads' surcharge for Pullman tickets. The National Council represents more than 900,000 men who are patrons of the Pullman service the greater part of the year, the greatest organized body affected by the surcharge.

TALK OF $200,000,000 ITALIAN LOAN HERE

TURIN, Aug. 14 (AP).—The financial writer of the Gazzetta del Popolo says that an American loan to the Italian Government of from $100,000,000 to $200,000,000 at 5½ per cent. is being discussed in financial circles. With commissions and other expenses the cost of such a loan would rise to 7 per cent., this writer says.

The Gazzetta del Popolo adds that something of this kind is necessary owing to the constant growth of Italian industries, which require either a foreign loan or an increase in the currency, which would be dangerous for the national economy. Since the drastic restriction of Italian emigration to the United States, the paper says, Italian industries have increased their operations to such an extent as not only to wipe out unemployment, but to cause an actual labor shortage in some factories, such as the cotton mills. As a paradox, the paper observes that it might be well, if possible, to import labor to Italy from England or America.

Rumors that J. P. Morgan & Co. would float a loan for the Italian Government some time in the Autumn have been in circulation in the financial district for several months. So far as could be learned last night there have been no new developments in the situation.

ATTACKS SALE PRICE OF THE RIO GRANDE

MAY AFFECT OTHER LINES

Suit Is Expected to Have a Bearing on Nickel Plate and St. Paul Organizations.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., Aug. 14 (AP).—A brief attacking the price at which the reorganized Denver & Rio Grande Western Railroad has acquired the property of the old Denver & Rio Grande Railroad and holdings of the Utah Fuel Company was filed in the United States Circuit Court of Appeals here today by Harold Palmer, a New York investment banker, appealing from a decision of the Federal court of Colorado.

The Bankers' Trust Company and others are appealing. Louis B. Wehle of New York, counsel for Palmer, said that the really important defendant is the Denver & Rio Grande Western, as judgment for more than $3,000,000 would lie against it in favor of Palmer and other minority bondholders of the old road if Palmer's contentios should be sustained.

Palmer's appeal is based on the District Court's refusal to permit him, over objection of the trustee, to become a party in the litigation to contend for an upset price of $42,883,875, alleged to be justified by earnings.

The court has raised the sale price from $14,500,000 to $17,000,000. At this price the refunding bondholders would lose about 85 per cent. on their claims.

The outcome of the appeal, Wehle said, probably would affect the Van Sweringen Nickel Plate merger and the prospective St. Paul reorganization, as the minority bondholders in those cases were also complaining of alleged unfairness.

The case has been set for argument at Denver on Sept. 23.

Louis B. Wehle, attorney, of 111 Broadway, issued statement last night in which he said that Mr. Palmer and other minority bondholders of the Denver & Rio Grande Railroad are entitled to judgment against the Denver & Rio Grande Western for the full amount of the deficiency of their bonds, namely 85 per cent.

"Mr. Palmer's position is that at the foreclosure sale of the Denver & Rio Grande properties in Denver last September the refunding bondholders of the old Denver & Rio Grande properties were sacrificed for the sole stockholder, the Western Pacific Railroad Corporation," according to Mr. Wehle. "The Western Pacific," he adds, "has captured the benefits of the property belonging to the bondholders through the sale to the reorganized company."

ENGLISHMEN RUSH TO LEARN HOW TO FLY

By Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Aug. 14.—Two members of Parliament who want to learn to fly, so that they can pay frequent speedy trips to their constituents during sessions, are among many charter members of London's first aero club for instruction in light airplane flying, which is to be opened next Wednesday.

Few of the members have ever handled a plane, and a majority never have been up in one. Business men, stock brokers, bookmakers and artisans are included in the membership. Several women also have joined, and a well-known rowing champion, tired of the water and anxious to try his luck in the air, is on the list.

The club, known as the London Aero Club, has several baby planes, but the demand for instruction is so great that it probably will be necessary to order more. Its grounds are at Edgware, near London.

Summer Clothing Prospects Good.

Prospects for the new season in men's Summer clothing, which will open about Labor Day, are considered to be very good by leading manufacturers. The cleaning up of stocks this year at early season prices, with little or no carryover, is a factor tending to make for a highly favorable reception of the new offerings by retailers. Added to this is the greater choice in fabrics, styling and patterns that features most of the leading lines of this type of clothing. Fancies, in fact, will predominate in the offerings, the manufacturers saying that the old, staple type of Summer suit has had its day.

Fall Suiting Demand Active.

The interest shown by buyers in suitings for immediate delivery, to be put into Fall suits, continues a feature of the activity in the woolen trade. The mills are cleaning up stock goods rapidly, as a result, while the jobbers are also doing better than they have at any time since the wage cuts were announced by the manufacturers last month. The chief difficulty with this business is that most of it is done "at a price," the reductions made on the Spring lines adding to this condition. There is more "nibbling" being done in overcoatings, and mill representatives still contend that there will be a strong rush for these fabrics with the coming of cold weather. Buyers, however, feel that when they need the goods, if they do, they will be able to have their wants supplied.

Underwear Orders Show Gain.

A better volume of business has been booked on leading lines of men's lightweight ribbed underwear than was believed to be the case a few weeks ago. This volume, according to the special news letter of the National Association of Hosiery and Underwear Manufacturers, is the result of several conditions. One of the most important of these is that large mills which were theoretically quoting the same price as last year—$7 on their big "number" to retail at $1—are taking business at $6.85 for next Spring. Men's heavyweight "ribs" are described as being substantially reordered, and the position of practically every representative mill on this class of goods is excellent. Irregular reports are heard on balbriggans. New lines of rayon-striped goods have been sampled generously, but the real verdict with respect to this merchandise will be rendered in the duplicate business. Good early orders for the cheaper nainsooks are reported.

Want Garments Shipped at Once.

The pressure for immediate delivery of orders placed for Fall ready-to-wear is growing. The stock houses were described yesterday as approaching the point where their shipping departments will have their hands full in forwarding the large quantities of goods going out daily. The impression in the trade is that the two weeks just ahead will be the busiest since the opening of the Fall lines. The period before the general showings of Fall garments by the retailers is rapidly growing shorter, as most of the stores will "play up" the new merchandise directly after Labor Day. The character of the buying is still somewhat experimental, as is usually the case with advance business. The diversified purchasing, however, will result in sound reordering later on, in the opinion of manufacturers.

Buying of Hosiery Staples Slow.

Very little business has been done for Spring in general lines of staple hosiery, with the exception of the sample orders placed by jobbers who were in this market recently. There was no expectation, however, that they would operate freely at this time for the new season, so little disappointment is expressed. Seven-eighths goods continue one of the strongest sellers of the seamless market. Attractive merchandise of this kind with fancy tops has been purchased liberally for Spring, the jobbers having in mind the trouble they experienced during the early part of this year with late deliveries. The demand for boys' golf hose gives promise of continuing for some time, these goods being accepted as an all-year proposition.

Feature Bracken Shades in Ties.

Manufacturers of men's neckwear are making an effort to feature the bracken shades in Fall merchandise, since this color is also being promoted by clothing manufacturers. It is not expected, however, that this brownish red shade will reach the peak of its popularity until Spring. Claims of increasing interest in knitted neckwear are being made by manufacturers of this variety. They say that buyers who have been in the market recently have revised their budgets so as to permit larger purchases of knitted ties. Much progress has been made along production lines in this industry, and complicated patterns and bright stripes are now being brought out that contrast sharply with the simple grenadine ties of a few years ago.

Novelty Rubber Goods Advanced.

Advanced prices of crude rubber, compared with those of a year ago, have naturally led to corresponding increases in the prices asked by manufacturers of novelty rubber goods. Buyers are said to be accepting the advances with good grace, since they realize that they were unavoidable, and order-taking for the Fall and holiday trade is proceeding satisfactorily. It is said that there has been a recent spurt in sales of reducing corsets made of rubber, notwithstanding the fact that last year's fad for these garments shows no signs of reviving. The spurt is attributed to purchasing by consumers who bought such corsets when they were at the height of their popularity, and who have continued to use them, are finding themselves in need of new merchandise. It is recognized, however, that many such purchasers have not bought new corsets, and may not.

Favor Higher-Priced Negligees.

A trend toward higher-priced garments is noted by kimono and negligee manufacturers in this market. Printed silks are still selling well in the better goods, as are chiffon velvets. The latter are in demand in the "Oriental" shades, such as the darker reds. Quilted robes with decorative stitches are also moving well. In the negligees sheer fabrics trimmed with lace and ostrich and marabou feathers are wanted. Georgettes of the heavier quality are being featured, with chiffons and brocaded chiffon velvets in active demand as well. Aside from the lace and feather trimmings, velvet ribbons and artificial flowers are being used with success. The hand-painted negligee is also popular.

Little Activity In Gray Goods.

Little activity was seen in the local gray goods market yesterday, some sellers going so far as to call it one of the dullest days in a long while. Only small lots were traded in, and these were for spot or near-by delivery. In the printcloth sales were 39-inch 68-72s at 10¾ cents, 38½-inch 64-60s at 9¾ cents and 38½-inch 60-48s at 8 cents. A feature in the sheeting was the selling of 37-inch 48-square, four-yard goods at 9¾ cents, which was a decline of an eighth. Small trading in 72-80 and 64-60 pajama checks was reported at 10¾ and 8¾ cents, respectively, and there was also business in 37½-inch 64-104 sateens at 12¼ cents.

Wondering About Coal Strike.

All trade comment on the coal strike outlook now revolves upon how long it will last, rather than whether it is a probability or not. Suspension of work on Sept. 1, Saward's Journal will say today, is regarded as a certainty, and the anthracite market reflects this result of the trade's consideration of events at Atlantic City. Wholesale and retail buying has been very much stimulated as a result. The developments are particularly noticeable in the retail trade, where the multiplicity of orders is keeping dealers very busy. There is not much change in the general bituminous situation and outlook. All calculations as to hopes and expectations revolve upon the duration of the anthracite difficulty.

THE WEEK'S PRICE TREND.

Declines Exceed Advances for the First Time in Ten Weeks.

For the first time in the last ten weeks Dun's current list of wholesale commodities prices shows an excess of declines over advances. Fifty-nine of the 300 or more items in the list are priced differently from last week, and of these thirty-six are lower now than they were then. Last week's list showed sixty-four changes, of which twenty-three were downward.

The following list gives the minimum wholesale prices quoted on selected standard commodities this week. They are corrected to yesterday, and with them are given comparative prices for last week and the corresponding week a year ago:

†Nominal.

So marked was the numerical downward trend of foodstuffs prices this week that fourteen declines were shown, against only five advances. In the local market Spring patent flour did not change, but declines of 15 and 10 cents a barrel, respectively, were seen in Winter soft straight and fancy Minnesota family flours. Middle Western lard and hams did not change, but bacon was higher. At Chicago short ribs advanced and live hogs declined. Other provisions in that market did not change either way.

None of the revisions in the local dairy products list was very marked. The best creamery butter showed a drop of three-quarters of a cent a pound. Cheese was steady, but nearby fancy eggs were a cent a dozen lower. The week's decline in the fresh-gathered eggs, first-quality, amounted to only half a cent a dozen. Policy eggs are now lower than they were at this time last year, but they are the only thing in the list now quoted under the corresponding 1924 levels.

Neither the fresh nor the dried fruits showed change either way, and except for a rise in choice pea beans, all of the changes in the vegetables were downward. These consisted of declines of 25 and 35 cents a barrel, respectively, in cabbage and potatoes and a drop of 25 cents a bag in onions.

Save for a rise in No. 7 Rio coffee, the beverage list was bare of changes this week. Revisions in the spices were few, consisting only of a rise in Zanzibar cloves and a decline in white Singapore pepper. The best grade of raw sugar was quoted lower, but there was no corresponding reduction in fine granulated.

Only two of the seven changes in the grains this week were upward. They occurred in rye and hay. The declines took place in wheat, corn, oats and malting barley. For the first time in two or three weeks the leathers were quotably unchanged, and only three changes took place in the hides. These consisted of a rise in heavy native cows and declines in No. 1 buffs and No. 1 extremes.

Neither the lumber nor the building materials list showed change either way this week, and revisions in the metals were not numerous. Zinc and tin supplied the declines, with the advances shown in No. 2X pig iron, antimony, electrolytic copper and lead.

Of the week's eleven revisions in the combined lists for drugs, chemicals, dyestuffs and oils, only three were upward. Features were lacking. The feature of the week in the naval stores was the sharp rise in resin, this item moving up $1.15 a barrel. It is now priced at $11.40, against $5.70 at this time last year. Turpentine also went up.

Further declines occurred in the leading varieties of crude rubber, which are now well below the high points reached in the recent advance. In the raw silks a decline in the basic grade of Chinese silk was seen, while a rise took place in the similar variety of Japanese fibre. Other miscellaneous changes of the week were a rise in hemp and a decline in jute.

No marked fluctuations took place in the textiles during the week. Burlaps eased off a little under the lack of buying interest, but in the cotton goods both finished and unfinished cloths showed little revision one way or the other.

SNELL WINS IN COURT.

Representative Need Not Reveal Financial Status to Sister-in-Law.

SYRACUSE, Aug. 14 (AP).—Representative Bertrand H. Snell of Potsdam won a court victory here today in the $400,000 alienation of affections action brought against him in Supreme Court by his sister-in-law, Mrs. Edwina B. Snell, who is maintaining a temporary residence in Syracuse since a separation from her husband, Kimball J. Snell, younger brother of the legislator.

A decision by Justice Edgcomb brought defeat to Mrs. Snell on all the points on which she sought information relative to the financial status of her brother-in-law, the Snell Power Company and transactions relating to the estates of the Representative's father and mother.

The motion of Mrs. Snell for permission to summon Mr. Snell for questioning was denied by Justice Edgcomb without a written memorandum. There were seven specific points mentioned in the motion, and the decision prevents her from further investigating any of them. She must wait until the trial is held to question the Representative on any of these points.

PLAN NEW SCHOOLS FOR LONG BEACH

New City Expects to Have 8,000 Permanent Population by First of Year.

Two new schools are to be erected at Long Beach, L. I., to care for the marked increase in all-year population, which will be greatly augmented as the result of the recent real estate activities at the seashore city.

Long Beach's permanent population has been increasing annually at the rate of 50 per cent., and it is expected that by the end of the present year the youngest city in the State will have 8,000 all-year residents.

Jesse Froehlich, President of the Long Beach Board of Education, announced that a contract has been entered into this week for the construction of a twelve-class elementary school to be located in the West End section. The plans include a large gymnasium and a spacious auditorium.

The school will contain many new architectural features and will be modern in every respect. A special meeting has been set for Aug. 25, when it is expected that the electors will sanction the building of still another school, which is estimated to cost $300,000.

BIG AUCTION SALE AT ROCKAWAY TODAY

With the announcement last Tuesday by Maurice E. Connolly, Borough President of Queens, that a large portion of the nine-mile Rockaway coast boardwalk undoubtedly would be under construction or built before the end of next Summer, public interest in real estate on the Rockaway coast will centre today in the absolute auction sale of the 1,500 Remington Vernam estate lots in the Arverne-Edgemere section, between the Rockaway Beach Boulevard and Jamaica Bay, the Frank Avenue and Straitton Avenue, Long Island Railroad stations, and bisected by the Amstel Boulevard, now under construction, which is to be a continuation of the Cross Bay Boulevard from Woodhaven, Queens, to the Rockaway coast.

This property has been owned for many years by the Vernam estate, and has been ordered sold in separate parcels for whatever they may bring, by Clarence Vernam, trustee of the Remington Vernam estate.

They have never been out of the control of the Vernam family, which to all intents and purposes obtained them from those to whom they had been deeded almost direct by the Indians.

They are among the few vacant lots on the Rockaway coast that have not passed through the hands of dozens of speculators, and are in fact "first-hand" lots. The Vernam estate sale promises to be the outstanding real estate auction event of the year.

The purchase of this property by the Frankel syndicate marks the second sale of Floyd-Jones holdings in Massapequa and covers the last of the property owned by this family. There were two large parcels left in the Floyd-Jones family, consisting of a tract of 219 acres, sold to Charles Whitehouse and Marius Matheron, Directors of the First National Bank of Roosevelt.

The Floyd-Jones family originally held thousands of acres in Massapequa and have gradually sold until their large holdings were completely disposed of. Major Thomas Jones, the founder of the family, came to America in 1692 and soon after settled on Massapequa Creek.

The rental is greater per front foot than that paid by the same lessee some two months ago for the Ernest Iselin house at 20 East Fifty-sixth Street, directly opposite.

The Fifth Avenue Realty Company, holding company for Russek, who in 1923 acquired control of the Gorham Company leaseholds at 386 to 390 Fifth Avenue, southwest corner of Thirty-sixth Street, and also of the adjoining eight-story building at 384, has extended its lease on the latter parcel.

The Russek interests have taken from Herbert C. Pell Jr. and others a new twenty-one-year lease from May 1, 1926, with the privilege of renewals.

Albert B. Ashforth, Inc., has leased office space at 41 East Forty-second Street to Nathan D. Naman and floors at 2 West Forty-sixth Street to the Continental Optical Company and at 221 West Fifty-seventh Street to the Barnard Club.

Charles F. Noyes Company has rented for Edward S. Savage the building at 94 Pine Street, through the block to Fletcher Street, to H. B. Bercour & Co., Inc., for a term of years; also the third floor at 104 John Street for McMann & Taylor to Cantor Chemical Company and the fifth floor at 30 Park Place for Klein Radio and Electric Supply Company to Irvin S. Zeluff.

SCHULTE TO BUILD ON BROOKLYN SITE

A monumental building containing stores, offices and one of the largest theatres in the East is to be erected on the site of the old Cowperthwait Building on Flatbush Avenue, purchased Thursday by the Schulte Realty Company.

The property, which measures 263 feet on Flatbush Avenue, 212 feet on Nevins Street and 182 feet on Livingston Street, was purchased at close to $3,500,000.

The deal established the highest mark for real estate valuations in this locality since the sale of the Johnson Building in Nevins Street, adjoining the opposite corner at Flatbush Avenue, in the Spring, and a sharp advance over the price that the property was held at by the owners a year ago.

In 1896 the property was purchased by the Flatbush Avenue Realty Company for $375,000.

The building was purchased subject to several leases held by present tenants, including the store at the corner of Nevins Street and Flatbush Avenue occupied by William Wise & Son, jewelers, and the Cowperthwait Company, furniture firm, which is situated in the building adjoining the jewelry store and a large space in Livingston Street.

THE WEATHER.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 14.—The disturbance that was central over Western New York Thursday night has moved eastward to the Atlantic Coast, and it has been attended by local thunder showers within the last twenty-four hours in the Atlantic and East Gulf States, Western New York and Western Pennsylvania. The Northwestern disturbance has moved slowly eastward, and it has caused showers from the North Pacific Coast eastward to the western portions of the Dakotas and Nebraska. Relatively high pressure prevails over the lake region, Ohio and Middle Mississippi Valleys, the North and Middle Mississippi and from the Pacific States, Newfoundland and from the Gulf of Mexico eastward over the Western Atlantic Ocean.

The temperature has fallen in Virginia, the interior of the South Atlantic and East Gulf States, Eastern Tennessee, the north plateau region, Western and Central Montana, Alberta and British Columbia, and it has risen from Manitoba southward to Oklahoma and from there northwestward to Southeastern Wyoming. There will be local thunder showers in Florida and the southern portions of Georgia, Alabama and Mississippi and generally fair weather elsewhere east of the Mississippi River during Saturday.

The Eastward advance of the northwestern disturbance will cause increasing cloudiness over middle and northern sections during Sunday, however, and showers are probable by Sunday night as far East as the Appalachian region, moderate temperature will prevail in the Ohio Valley, the Lower Lake region and the Middle Atlantic and North Atlantic States on Saturday and the temperature will rise slowly Sunday in these sections. There will be little change in temperature in the Southeastern States during the next two days.

Indispensable Educationally

It seems to me obvious that such a newspaper as The New York Times is indispensable educationally to students and to all others who wish to form intelligent opinions regarding the world of today. I particularly admire in The Times its policy of reporting news about scientific and other scholarly work as well as all the other important activities of the moment.

MISSION SOCIETY PLANS CENTENNIAL

OTHER NEWS OF RELIGION

Dr. Stewart and Dr. Powell Mentioned in Race for High Episcopalian Post.

The Congregational Home Missionary Society at Washington will celebrate in October the one hundredth anniversary of its founding, in connection with the twenty-first biennial meeting of the National Council of the Congregational Churches. The society was organized here under the name of "The American Home Missionary Society" to promote churches, Sunday schools and day schools. The work in the early days was supported by four denominations—the Dutch Reformed, the Associated Reformed, the Presbyterian and the Congregational. But as the years went by the other denominations withdrew to form their own bodies. While at the beginning the Congregational society had only 169 workers, it now has 1,376. At first the workers received $83 a year, while today the average stipend is $1,305. The total expenditures the first year were $13,984, whereas last year they were $1,063,149. The additions to church membership through the efforts of missionaries during the ninety-nine years totaled 704,674.

Two more names have been prominently mentioned for the office of President of the House of Deputies of the Episcopal Church, which office will be filled at the triennial General Convention in New Orleans beginning Oct. 7. For some time the only name seriously considered was that of the Rev. Dr. Ernest M. Stires, retiring rector of St. Thomas's Episcopal Church, this city, and Coadjutor Bishop-elect of the Episcopal Diocese of Long Island. Now the Rev. Dr. George Craig Stewart, rector of St. Luke's Church, Evanston, Ill., and the Rev. Dr. Herbert H. Powell, who is head of the Episcopal Church Divinity School, San Francisco, and a canon of the cathedral in this city, are being discussed.

The 211th anniversary of the Cold Spring Brick Church, near Cape May, N. J., will be celebrated tomorrow. The church was established in 1714 by descendants of the Mayflower voyagers. The speaker at the celebration will be the Rev. Samuel G. Neil, Secretary of the American Baptist Publication Society. The churchyard is a cemetery, known as "God's Holy Acre." It is here that 150 descendants of the Mayflower travelers are buried.

The Church Periodical Club, which has its central offices at 2 West Forty-seventh Street, has drawn up an appeal to the Triennial General Convention of the Episcopal Church, to be held at New Orleans, for books, magazines, pamphlets, newspapers and the like to carry on the work which it voluntarily assumed thirty-seven years ago. The organization aims to keep the mission workers of the Church, especially in the out-of-the-way places of the world, supplied with reading matter. It maintains a score of "traveling libraries," and is virtually the sole support of six well-equipped permanent libraries in various parts of the world, notably St. Luke's Hospital, Tokio; St. John's University, Shanghai; Boone University at Wuchang.

Two Fifth Avenues churches are undergoing extensive exterior repairs. St. Patrick's Cathedral has had a scaffold about one twin spire for some weeks. The damage done by a storm in the early Summer is being repaired. The Fifth Avenue Presbyterian Church, at Fifty-fifth Street, is encircled by a scaffold. New mortar is being put in some of its moldings and the entire exterior is being cleaned.

The Rev. Dr. William A. Sunday, Pastor of St. James's Lutheran Church, Madison Avenue and Seventy-third Street, is spending his "vacation" doing post-graduate work in Edinburgh University. The interior of his church is being redecorated. The church will be rededicated this Fall.

Two of New York's leading churches open the gates of their yards every day so little children may play on the lawn. One of these is the First Presbyterian Church, Fifth Avenue and Eleventh Street. Only babies in carriages or youngsters led by mothers or nurses are allowed to enter. The other church is the Cathedral of St. John the Divine, and there scores of babies may be seen getting the fresh air almost any day.

Duncan Mann, the elder son of the Right Rev. Alexander Mann, Bishop of Pittsburgh, will enter the General Episcopal Theological Seminary, Chelsea Square, this Fall to study for the ministry. The young man was graduated in June at the head of his class from Hobart College, Geneva, N. Y. He has a brother and two sisters.

TO HONOR JESUIT MARTYR.

Father Jogues's Beatification Will Be Celebrated at Auriesville.

The Rev. Ignatius W. Cox of Fordham University, editor of the Jesuit missionary quarterly, The Pilgrim, left last night for Auriesville, N. Y., to complete arrangements for the public celebration there tomorrow of the beatification of Father Isaac Jogues, Jesuit missionary, who was martyred near there by the Iroquois Indians 283 years ago. A dozen Iroquois Catholic Indians, descendants of those who put their first priest to death, will attend the ceremonies.

The thousands of pilgrims who are expected tomorrow will walk up what is known as "the hill of torture," led by the Right Rev. Edmund F. Gibbons, Bishop of Albany. Father Jogues was the first Catholic priest within the present limits of the Albany diocese, and he was the first priest to set foot on the Island of Manhattan. He lived in a house with the Protestant dominie on the site of the present Cunard Line offices.

After a solemn high mass the pilgrims will gather in the ravine into which the Iroquois tossed the body of the martyred René Goupil, a lay companion of Father Jogues, where a sermon will be preached.
